Goodman Wins Right to Play Somerville for U. S. Title Today.

CANADA ACE BEATS GUILFORD, 7 AND 6

Goodman Holds Champ Even in Morning Round, Then Taking Long Lead.

By DAVE HERMAN
(Post Staff Correspondent).
Special to The Washington Post.

Five Farms Course, Md., Sept. 16.—The old biblical story of David and Goliath was reenacted today at Five Farms in the semifinals of the National Amateur Golf Tournament.

Poker-faced Johnny Goodman, the little giant killer from Omaha, Nebr., threw deadly golf shots at Francis Ouimet, the defending title holder, blasted the Goliath of the Walker Cup team out of the championship picture with a stirring 4 up and 2 victory, and earned the right to meet the challenge of Canada's terrorizing star, Ross Somerville, in the 36-hole final round tomorrow.

Somerville, hailed as the greatest foreign threat since Phil Perkins led the British contingent into the finals against Bobby Jones in 1928, routed the Boston "Siege Gun," Jesse Guilford, by the overwhelming margin of 7 and 6.

Goodman Cuts Swath.

Completely overlooked on this year's Walker Cup team, Goodman, the former caddy and farm boy from the West, today had brushed aside three members of the United States outfit that walloped the invading British at Brookline a few weeks ago. Finishing second to Johnny Fischer, of Ohio, in the qualifying round with 144, Johnny stacked his rush for the crown by defeating H. Chandler Egan, of California, 1904 champion, 3 and 2; Charlie Seaver, Stanford University athlete, 2 and 1, and Maurice McCarthy, 1 up. Along came the captain himself today, and Johnny polished him off for a clean sweep.

Goodman in former years hitchhiked his way to compete in national tournaments. It was not the case this time. Johnny came down like a regular traveling man, and an insurance agent, by the way—and he has traveled far in this tournament. He is 22 years old and will celebrate his next birthday in December.

Somerville Also Small.

Four times winner of the Canadian championship, Ross (Sandy) Somerville, who changes his expression on the links about as often as the total eclipse, admits he started playing golf at the age of 7. His favorite sport is cricket and he prefers this to golf. He is 29 and also an insurance salesman.

The two finalists tomorrow have much in common. Small in stature, each has qualified for four national amateur championships, but neither has ever been able to get past the "sudden death" or 18-hole matches. Three years ago Johnny eliminated Bobby Jones in the first round at Pebble Beach. Last year Billy Howell,

5-Day Work Week Ruled for Printers

I. T. U. Convention Adopts System to Go Into Effect on January 1.

Long Beach, Calif., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Establishment of a five day week for printers on newspapers operating on a six or seven day schedule was voted by the International Typographical Union in convention here today, subject to referendum vote by unions of the international organization.

The motion favoring the five day week carried 76 to 74 and the subsequent motion to invoke the referendum carried 111 to 39 after President Charles P. Howard had urged such procedure. Affecting approximately 22,000 printers, the plan would become effective January 1.

The so-called New York plan, which prohibits union members from working more than five daily shifts on a six or seven day newspaper, was the plan accepted. The five-day week created does not affect existing agreements of unions with employers, but provides that when a printer has worked five days in any one week he must engage a substitute for additional work.

Summerall Undergoes Operation in Charleston

PRITTWITZ'S RECALL FORECAST IN BERLIN

Many Important Transfers of Diplomats Made by German Cabinet.

Berlin, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The cabinet, functioning as if its authority never had been challenged, announced today a series of important diplomatic transfers.

Ambassador von Hoesch goes from Paris to London. Roland Koester, former minister to Norway, succeeded him in Paris. Ulrich von Hassel, minister to Jugoslavia, goes to Rome as ambassador, succeeding Carl von Schubert, who retires.

Walter Zechlin, former chief of the government press bureau, was appointed minister to Mexico.

An afternoon newspaper said that Ambassador von Prittwitz und Gaffron also would be recalled from Washnamely, that all states should be subject to the same rules and principles in respect to disarmament, and that no discriminatory system should exist in the case of any one of them," the foreign minister wrote.

"Germany can not be expected to take part in negotiations with regard to measures of disarmament to be laid down in convention until it is established that the solution which may be found is also to apply to Germany."

Baron von Neurath said Germany's efforts to obtain an agreement on the equality issue had thus far failed to achieve a satisfactory result, and, therefore, the Reich would cease sending representatives to the Geneva parley.

"The German government," he continued, "is now as ever convinced that thoroughgoing general disarmament is urgently necessary for the purpose of insuring peace. It will follow the labors of the conference with interest and will determine its further attitude by the course the conference may take."

In conference circles there was little hope that it would be possible to bring about continued participation by the Berlin government.

Col Lindbergh and Wife Fly Away for Vacation

Englewood, N. J., Sept. 16 (U.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are away together on a short vacation, it was learned here today. It is the first time Mrs. Lindbergh has been away from the home of her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, in Englewood, since the birth of her baby in New York more than a month ago.

The noted flier and his wife left the Long Island Aviation Country Club Hicksville, Long Island, by airplane last Tuesday and it is reliably reported they flew to the Morrow summer home in North Haven, Me.

ONE SUSPECT IN SOLDIER'S DEATH TAKEN

POSSE AIDED BY 300 TROOPS IN MAN-HUNT

Man Is Captured in Woods Near Home in Manassas Without Struggle.

After an all-day search by more than 300 armed soldiers of the Thirteenth Engineers, Fort Humphreys, and a Prince William County sheriff's posse, one of two men sought in connection with the slaying of Birl Woosley, 20-year-old private stationed at the fort, was captured last night in a wooded section near his home at Manassas, Va.

A posse, headed by Sheriff John Kerlin, learned that George Washington Bradfield, 25, who, with William Watson, colored, 33, had been the object of a county-wide search, was in hiding near his home.

Doesn't Resist Capture.

The slaying occurred Thursday about midnight near Lake Jackson, 3 miles south of Manassas. According to the statement given Commonwealth's Attorney Thomas H. Lion, of Manassas, by Private Emanuel T. Reppert, of Company D, who was the companion of Woosley, the two were members of the detachment that had been camped at Lake Jackson for several days in connection with army maneuvers.

About 6 p. m. Thursday the two went to the home of George Bradfield, more than a mile from the camp, where they joined four other soldiers and purchased four gallons of cider, which they drank. Woosley and Reppert left the house about 10 o'clock and started to return to the camp, the four others leaving them on the way. About 400 yards from the house they began to sing and later started wrestling.

Led to Argument.

Bradfield, son of the owner of the house, and Watson came down the road and attempted to stop their antics. This led to an argument during which Bradfield and

Herriot Letter to Borah On Debts Is Reported

Paris, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—It was reliably reported in the Chamber of Deputies lobbies today that Premier Herriot had sent a letter to United States Senator Borah some time last week on the subject of war debts and disarmament. Officials at the foreign office said they had no knowledge of the report, but comment was refused at the premier's office.

The report was that the premier wrote the letter at the suggestion of members of the Chamber of Deputies who said they had reason to believe that Mr. Borah had changed his attitude toward war debts and the French position on security.

Violent Earthquake Shakes New Zealand

Wellington, New Zealand, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—A violent earthquake which caused considerable damage in the Hawkes Bay district was felt over a large area this morning. Reports from Gisborne this afternoon said minor shocks were continuing and that in some districts the earth was shaking regularly every few minutes.

Three persons were injured at Wairoa.

Slayer Dug Cellar Grave Before He Shot His Victim in Head.

Plymouth, Mass., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The body of Mrs. Edith Dubois, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., was found today in a carefully prepared concrete crypt, buried in the basement of her summer home, five hours after her husband, Charles E. Dubois, committed suicide in a Quincy rooming house.

The discovery came after a series of dramatic and swift moving developments in what had been he most baffling mystery to confront Massachusetts authorities in recent years.

From early morning, State and local police, assisted by a detail of National Guardsmen, carried on in a downpour of rain their search for the woman, missing since August 10. Their hunt was spurred by news from Quincy that the dapper, 39-year-old

FAIRFAX CONSTABLE IS HELD IN SLAYING

Denies That He Shot at Man; Hearing Is Set Today; Police Are Silent.

Constable C. B. Runyon, of Falls Church Magisterial District of Fairfax County, Va., will be given a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder this morning before Judge Paul E. Brown, of the county trial justice court.

He is accused of killing Frank Lewis, colored, of Baileys Crossroad, Wednesday night. Runyon denied he fired at the man. Strict secrecy has been maintained by county police concerning details of the shooting and they refuse to make any statement in connection with the case.

It is reported Lewis and another colored man had been in a fight earlier in the evening. Lewis was wounded and went to the Alexandria Hospital, but left before he could be treated, vowing vengeance on his foe.

Meanwhile, Runyon and Deputy Sheriff John B. Dowden, hearing of the fight, went to the vicinity of the Lewis home to investigate. Runyon and Dowden became separated in the woods. Details from this point are confusing, but it is understood Runyon came upon Lewis, who pulled a gun. When the smoke of battle had cleared the man was dead with a gunshot wound in his stomach. His gun about 3 feet from his hand, was not discharged.

Coroner C. A. Ransom, of Fairfax County, after conducting an inquest, ordered Runyon held for a preliminary hearing and a warrant was issued charging Runyon with murder.

Runyon was the officer present when Melvin Stevens, 28-year-old well digger, was mysteriously shot and killed near his home at Dunn Loring, about a year ago. He and several others were on the road searching for the person said to have been firing shots out of the darkness at the Stevens home when, during a fusillade of shots into the woods nearby, Stevens fell mortally wounded.

Robbers Kidnap Six In South Dakota Raid

Clear Lake, S. Dak., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Two robbers raided three business places here last night, kidnaped six citizens, including the night watchman, and left them tied to fence posts at the city dumping grounds before driving away with nearly $200 in cash and some jewelry.

Two filling stations and a garage were robbed. After carrying station attendants to the outskirts in the first raid, the robbers returned to town twice more, adding victims on each trip. They obtained $15 at the first station, $95 at the second and $85 from the garage. The night watchman lost 90 cents.

Warship Bearing Pringle Reaches Goal Tomorrow

Los Angeles, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The battleship West Virginia, carrying its commander, Vice Admiral Joel R. P. Pringle, to the Naval Hospital in San Diego, passed Point Reyes today, radio advices stated, and expected to reach San Diego Sunday morning.

Pringle, 59, next in line for the post of chief of naval operations, was stricken with an abdominal ailment while his vessel was in maneuvers in Puget Sound.

COURT FIGHT LOOMS ON PHONE RATE CUT

Officials of Chesapeake & Potomac Due to Appeal 10 Per Cent Slash.

Another lengthy court battle loomed yesterday as a result of a public utilities commission order reducing local telephone rates 10 per cent, effective October 1.

The reduced rates, it was estimated on the basis of the business done by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. in the calendar year 1931, would save local telephone users something like $500,000 in the course of a year. The order reducing phone rates was exclusively forecast in The Washington Post of Thursday, September 8.

Company officials went into conference yesterday afternoon immediately after they received copies of the Utilities Commission order. Comment was refused until time had been had to study the order, but it was expected that some time between now and the effective date of the reduction order the company would appeal to the District Supreme Court to stop the commission from enforcing the rate reduction.

Furman University's Safe Robbed of $400

Greenville, S. C., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Two vaults at Furman University were blown open early today and robbed of between $400 and $500.

The robbery came the night following registration day for the fall term when fees were received from students. About $1,000 in cash was overlooked by the thieves. It was in a locked drawer in the rear of the safe.

British Airman Claims Mark of 45,000 Feet

London, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Capt. Cyril Unwins, World War flier, claimed a new world altitude record for airplanes today with a flight to 45,000 feet. His performance must be ratified by the Royal Aero Club. He used a plane of 500 horsepower. The cold was so intense he utilized a special oxygen pumping apparatus. His goggles, gloves and clothing were electrically heated.

"Jane's All the World's Aircraft" says the airplane altitude record was 43,154.9 feet, set by Lieut. Apollo Soucek, of the United States Navy, June 4, 1930.

Shipment of $11,000 In Currency Stolen

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Theft of a shipment of currency amounting to $11,000 from the Terre Haute postoffice last Sunday was disclosed today by postal inspectors. The money was consigned to two banks here from the Comptroller of Currency at Washington.

The inspectors said they were hunting for Edwin Pasig, 22, a clerk in the postoffice, and Kenneth Coker, 23, unemployed. Pasig was on duty Sunday and signed a receipt for the shipment. He disappeared a few hours later. Suspicion was directed toward Coker because he was seen with Pasig later in the day.

GARNER, BACK, SEES VICTORY BY LANDSLIDE

Warns Democrats Not to Be Overconfident and Attacks Hoover.

MAINE VOTE SWELLS REPUBLICANS' FUNDS

Nutt Tells Hoover Fund Will Reach $1,500,000 as Gifts Pour In.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Returning to the Capitol after another month of fishing and relaxation in Texas, Speaker John N. Garner, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, stepped to the fore in the presidential campaign yesterday with a formal public statement forecasting a November victory for his party by a vote "unprecedented in the history of the Nation."

His statement, one of a heavy crossfire between the Democratic and Republican camps, was a vitriolic personal attack upon President Hoover and a warning to his party that "the most menacing opponent of Democracy at the moment is overconfidence."

He declined to discuss the problem of the soldiers' bonus, which President Hoover charged earlier in the week had passed the House last session under the Speaker's personal leadership. Neither would he discuss prohibition. His personal part in the remainder of the campaign, he said, will be decided in New York next week following a conference with the headquarters staff there.

Tells of Enthusiasm.

"On my way up from Texas to Kansas City, where I joined Gov. Roosevelt to accompany him to Topeka, large groups of men and women were assembled at every wayside station," Mr. Garner said. "I made few speeches, but I did converse with them. I asked what their attitude was, what they intended to do. Their dissatisfaction, their really deep-seated resentment over the manner in which the country's affairs have been mismanaged, was expressed in no unmistakable terms."

Although he was agrin careless in his grammar, Mr. Garner spoke with his wonted homespun zest and vigor. His ruddy face beamed as he poured it on. The conference with news-

Borah's Wife Seriously Ill; Taken to Hospital

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Mary E. Borah, wife of Senator Borah, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital here today suffering from a high fever and congestion in one lung. A statement by her physician said:

"Her illness is probably due to influenza but the diagnosis should be definitely established within 24 hours upon completion of laboratory tests that are under way."

Garner's Mother Sinks; Doctor Doubts Recovery

Paris, Tex., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Jack Garner, sr., 81-year-old mother of Speaker John N. Garner, is seriously ill at her home in Detroit, Red River County. Her physician said today she had been growing gradually weaker the last few days, and her recovery was doubtful, although she rallied slightly this morning. He said her illness was a general toxic condition.

Members of the family said they had not notified the Speaker, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, and would not do so unless his mother's condition became critical.

L. DIXON, 72, TARIFF BOARD MEMBER, DIES

Former Representative Was in Search of Health at Lyndon, Ky.

(Associated Press.)

Word was received at the Tariff Commission late yesterday that Lincoln Dixon, commissioner since 1927, died yesterday afternoon at Lyndon, Ky.

Mr. Dixon, who was 72, had been in poor health for several months, and in July went to Lyndon to improve his condition. Mrs. Dixon, the commission was told, was with him when he died.

President Coolidge appointed Mr. Dixon to the commission in 1927 as a Democratic member. He was reappointed June 17, 1931, by President Hoover.

Born in Vernon, Ind., February 9, 1860, Mr. Dixon was graduated from Indiana State University and began the practice of law. After serving as a prosecuting attorney, he was elected a member of Congress in 1904, and served until 1919, representing the Fourth Indiana District. In 1924 he was in charge of the Democratic campaign in the Western headquarters in Chicago. His home was in North Vernon, Ind.

Lyndon, Ky., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Lincoln Dixon, 72, United States tariff commissioner since 1927, died late this afternoon at the home here of his son-in-law, Col. Charles Richmond.

Besides the widow, Dixon is survived by a son, Donald Dixon, of Wia-Mrs. Palmer Kennedy, of Tacoma netka, Ill.; two daughters, Mrs. Charles Richmond, of Lyndon, and Wash.; a sister, Mrs. Hattie North, of Dallas, Tex., and three grandchildren.

The body was taken to Vernon, Ind., where funeral services will be arranged later.

2 Marine Fliers Leap To Safety After Crash

Colon, Canal Zone, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Lieut. Roger J. Browne, of San Diego, Calif., and Lieut. Frank D. Sinclair, of Detroit, Mich., attached to the Seventy-eighth Pursuit Squadron, U. S. M. C. Air Corps, landed safely in parachutes today after their planes had collided in a practice formation 3,000 feet above Limon Bay. The planes sank.

Nicaraguan Rebels Die In Guardia's Campaign

Managua, Nicaragua, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—One rebel was killed and several were wounded, national guard headquarters announced today, in a brush last Monday between a guard detachment and Sandinistas at Coquiqui in Matagalpi department.

Headquarters also said there was a running fight in the vicinity of Villanueve and El Sauce in Leon Department on Wednesday, in which eight rebels were killed and ten wounded.

FRIEND PLACED HURLEY TALK IN LEGION'S SEATS

Gen. O'Neil Admits He Was Responsible for Criticized Act.

SAYS CLERKS USED WRONG ENVELOPES

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Responsibility for placing copies of Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley's statement on "Bonus Marchers in Washington," before delegates to the American Legion national convention here yesterday, was accepted today by Brig. Gen. Joseph P. O'Neil, retired, of Portland, personal friend of Mr. Hurley.

Gen. O'Neil retired from the Army last August.

The Legion convention adopted a motion condemning the War Department when copies of Secretary Hurley's statement were found at the desks in official War Department envelopes, the impression being that the department had been responsible for delivery of the copies, although the envelopes had not been mailed.

Exonerates War Department.

Gen. O'Neil, who said Secretary Hurley was his close personal friend and former chief, expressed surprise and chagrin that his action, complicated, he said, by a clerk's error, should have served to provide criticism against Hurley and the War Department.

"The War Department didn't know a thing about the copies of that speech that were distributed to the delegates at the legion convention," he said in an interview. "Neither did Pat Hurley. I heard Floyd Gibbons (writer and radio speaker who clashed with Hurley here over eviction of the bonus army) distort the facts and malign the administration and Hurley before the convention Wednesday over the treatment of the bonus army in the National Capital.

Wrong Envelopes Used.

"In my pocket was the complete answer to that bunk. It was a copy of a statement drawn up by Hurley which he had given me earlier in the week at my request. I had copies mimeographed at my personal expense. By mistake, one of my former clerks, whose help I sought in getting the material ready, picked up the envelopes of the War Department instead of the plain envelopes that I provided.

"The speeches were not mailed and the War Department frank was not used. Thank God for that—I'd be liable to a fine of $300 for private use of Government free mailing privileges."

Secretary Hurley, informed at Huron, S. Dak., yesterday of the legion's rebuke to the War Department, denied any knowledge of copies of his statement having been placed before the delegats or of the manner in which they were delivered.

Gandhi Bent on Suicide, Despite Liberty Prospect

Bombay, India, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Though the government plans to release him from Yeroveda Prison next week—probably Tuesday at midnight—the Mahatma M. K. Gandhi insisted today he will starve himself to death in protest against Great Britain's new communal settlement.

Numerous appeals have been sent to the Nationalist leader urging him to forego his hunger strike, but he has rejected them all because of his obection to the government's plan for separate electorates in India.

Berlin Formally Withdraws From Disarmament Parley

Geneva Notified of New Steps in Drive to Rid Nation of Treaty Restrictions; Demands Equality for All.

Geneva, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Germany read herself out of the world disarmament conference today as a further step in her campaign to eliminate the arms restrictions placed on her by the treaty of Versailles.

The effect of this move was to bring before all the great powers the controversy over the military status of the Reich, in which hitherto Berlin and Paris had been the principal parties.

As a result of the German action, the conference bureau must devise some means of satisfying the Berlin demand or decide whether to proceed with the disarmament parley without participation by any German representatives. The bureau, which is the steering committee of the conference, is composed of delegates from all the great powers.

Germany's position was made clear by publication of a letter sent by Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath to Arthur Henderson, chairman of the conference. This communication was formal notification that the Berlin government would be unrepresented at Wednesday's meeting of the bureau.

The Von Neurath letter set forth the German contention that in disarmament there should be one standard for all nations.

Stock Exchange to Probe Drop After Maine Election

Member Firms Ordered to Bare All Telegraphic Communications of Political Nature Immediately Following Democratic Victory in Voting.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange today took the unusual action of ordering all member firms to lay bare before the exchange's business conduct committee "all telegraphic communications dealing in any way with topics of political nature sent or received by them between September 12 and September 15, 1932, inclusive."

The period specified starts with the day of the Democratic victory in the Maine election. On that day there was a sharp break in security prices, which continued on through to September 14. Since then there has been a moderate recovery.

The instruction is a blanket order, addressed to all members, and signed by Asahel Green, secretary of the exchange, who stated that a reply is desired from every recipient. He set nine limits of today for the delivery of the ordered information by New York houses, and gave out-of-town houses until next Monday to furnish their files.

The data were rushed to the exchange today by the New York members.

While stock exchange officials were adamant in their refusal to discuss the order, it was explained by some brokers who have played a leading role in the direction of stock exchange policy that the order was in keeping with the exchange's purpose to

G. O. P. IS DECLARED READY FOR BIG DRIVE

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Leaders of the Hoover-Curtis campaign in the East united tonight in expressing confidence over the political outlook and the prospects for an "adequate" campaign chest.

Senator Felix Hebert, Eastern chairman, and Jeremiah Milbank, Eastern treasurer, said they were not inclined to minimize "the task ahead of us," but expressed a conviction their organization is geared for a major offensive.

"The facts are encouraging," the Rhode Island senator said. "Our finance committees and subcommittees have been strengthened in the past few days by the accrual of scores of able volunteers.

"Contributions are coming in, and no one at headquarters doubts that they will increase steadily in volume.

"There is no campaign task except to distribute widely to the voters President Hoover's record. This we are able to do."

Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Eastern finance committee, reported at the conference on what he called the "rapid progress being made in the formation of finance committees in Eastern States." He had just returned from Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., where committees are being organized.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, called at headquarters and said she was campaigning "like a man and a good soldier—five speeches a week." She left late in the day to speak in Buffalo and Lockport, N. Y.

"I spoke four times in Massachusetts," she said. "If Maine has cast any shadow on Massachusetts, I did not perceive it. On the contrary, I was assured that Massachusetts would support President Hoover magnificently."

Tennesseeans Will Hear Curtis Speak Next Week

Chicago, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Republican national headquarters today announced that Vice President Curtis will appear at Knoxville, Tenn., next Wednesday for a campaign speech, and at Chattanooga on the following day. Other engagements announced for the Vice President were: Bowling Green, Ky., 1:30 p. m., September 23; Hopkinsville, Ky., 7:30 p. m., September 23; Danville, Ky., 2 p. m., September 24, and Lexington, Ky., 8 p. m., September 24.

Headquarters said the Vice President would speak in West Virginia the week of September 25-30, after which he would return to Oklahoma to continue the campaign.

Stanfield Plans to Vote Democrat in November

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The Journal today quoted Robert N. Stanfield, former Republican United States senator from Oregon, as saying he "can not vote for Mr. Hoover," but that he will cast his ballot for Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner, Democratic candidates for President and Vice President.

Stanfield's statement also set at rest rumors he would enter the senatorial campaign in Oregon as an independent candidate.

Self-Supporting Postal Service Seen by Glover

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The United States air mail service will be on a self-supporting basis in from five to seven years, W. Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, predicted today in an address before the convention of the National Association of Postmasters of the United States. He quoted statistics of growing business to support his prediction.

EXCHANGE TO PROBE RECENT STOCK DROP

keep itself thoroughly posted not only on the nature of sales which it handles—whether for short selling account or for long pull investment—but also on all messages which are transmitted over the thousands of miles of wire systems linking the large New York houses with hundreds of their branch offices and correspondent offices throughout the country.

These brokers insisted the order did not imply that the exchange was beginning a special inquiry into the possibility that some of its member houses had been lured into the zone of national politics. But they added that the exchange would take decisive action, if necessary, to prevent such a possibility.

Reference to Election.

While brokers held that there had been no unusual increase in the number of words sent over their wires into other cities during and immediately after the Maine election, a number said they had made reference to the election. Following are a few examples of those comments:

Clark, Childs & Keech, Sept. 14—"The uncertainties caused by the results in Maine were sufficient to accelerate the recent downward movement into a very serious reaction."

Chas. D. Barney & Co., Sept. 14—"The apparent abandonment of the Republican standard by Maine resulted in the first complete selling climax since the abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain."

Other Replies.

Jackson, Bros., Boesel & Co., Sept. 12—"A Democratic victory would come as a complete surprise and such a development might be expected to lead to sharply lower opening today and a continuation of irregularity for some time to come."

Frazier, Jelke & Co., Sept. 14—"The Maine election unquestionably did cause some selling, but it is more important as an excuse for what probably would have happened anyway sooner or later."

The new order of the Stock Exchange was believed to mark the first time such an action had been taken on the eve of a national election. The exchange has frequently ordered members in recent months to furnish files of their telegraphic communications, particularly those going to the members' customers, but these have been centered almost entirely around the exchange's two-year study of short selling.

Reaches $18,000,000 as Both Exports and Imports Show Increase.

(Associated Press.)

Both exports and imports increased in August and gave the United States a favorable trade balance of $18,000,000 to compare with an unfavorable balance of $1,871,000 in the same month of 1931.

The Commerce Department announced August exports totaled $109,000,000, as compared with $106,842,000 in July and $114,259,000 in June. Imports increased to $91,000,000 from $79,420,000 in July. In June they stood at $110,200,000. In August of last year exports were valued at $164,808,000 and imports at $166,679,000.

For the eight months of the year exports were valued at $1,056,769,000 and imports at $917,105,000. The exports for the eight months were $604,778,000 less than for the same months of 1931 and the imports $531,185,000 less.

The increase in exports in August as compared with the previous month was due to a gain in cotton which totaled $18,112,608, as compared with $15,853,880 in July. The department did not explain the increase in imports, but it was pointed out that more extensive manufacturing using more raw materials probably was the cause.

The report showed gold imports of $24,170,000 in August, as compared with exports of $18,067,000. Silver exports amounted to $433,000, while the imports totaled $1,554,000. For the eight months of the year the United States has lost $619,523,003 in gold, exports having totaled $309,379,000 and imports $189,856,000.

Nonsense, Borah Reply to Hastings

Senator's Claim Idahoan Has Joined Campaign Is Ridiculed.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—"Nonsense," said Senator Borah, commenting on the statement of Senator Hastings, of Delaware, today that the Idahoan had entered the campaign in support of President Hoover through his statement opposing the bonus.

"I knew Senator Hastings had a great many accomplishments," said Mr. Borah, "but I didn't know he was a humorist."

(Associated Press.)

Senator Hastings, of Delaware, remarked to newspapermen yesterday he was "glad to see Senator Borah has entered the campaign."

When Hastings was asked further about his statement concerning Borah, he replied with a smile:

"Well, Borah came out this morning against the bonus payment, and that is certainly the side President Hoover has taken. Of course, you might say that was entering the campaign by the back door, but we feel it is better to have him in that way than not at all."

Mass Meeting Held By Arlington G.O.P.

Republicans of Arlington County launched their campaign to carry the county at the November election with a mass meeting last night in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon with more than 200 persons attending.

Frank W. Mondell, former member of Congress from Wyoming, the principal speaker, declared that "Gov. Roosevelt invoked interest in spectacular performances in his flight to the Chicago convention but arriving there, his sophomoric address gave evidence of the fact that from the standpoint of the serious problems of the day, he was still very much in the air."

Other speakers were Edgar Snyder, United States marshal; L. C. MacPherson, county chairman; Louis A. MacMahon, and H. S. Omohundro.

Music was furnished by the Old Dominion Band.

FARM COUNCIL HEAD ATTACKS ROOSEVELT

(Associated Press.)

Thomas H. Munro, chairman of the council of agriculture and markets in New York State, said yesterday in a statement issued through the Republican national committee that "if Gov. Roosevelt can not offer a solution" for the farm problems of his State, "he certainly has no sound solution for national agricultural problems."

"With the dairy farmers of New York State confronted wth a daily surplus of milk running from 300,000 quarts today to as much as a million quarts in the summer months in the New York market," Munro said, "Roosevelt has not lifted his hand in any way to help bring about a solution of this problem which is breaking the farmers of his own State."

"It may be all right for Gov. Roosevelt to tour the West and tell the wheat and corn farmers that he will solve the surplus problem for them if he is elected President, but the facts right back in his own State do not show that he had been able to accomplish a single thing in behalf of the milk surplus his own farmers have. * * *

"Since he has not been able to solve the problem of agriculture surplus in his own State there is certainly no reason why the farmers of this country should accept from his record any promises that he will be able to do any more for them with their multiplicity of farming problems through his pet abiguous theories."

Suspected Deserter Sought.

Local police have been asked to look out for Clifton C. Cornwell, 30, whose wife lives in Washington. Cornwell was said to have deserted from Fort Benning, Ga., and a reward of $25 has been offered for information leading to his arrest.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM NEW ENGLAND GAIN

Massachusetts and Maine Asserted Sure, With Connecticut Debatable.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Claims that the Roosevelt-Garner ticket will carry Massachusetts and Maine, and will turn Connecticut into "hotly debatable ground," were issued today at Democratic national headquarters.

"All indications are that Massachusetts will go Democratic in November," said Andrew J. Peters, former Mayor of Boston, former member of Congress, and former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

"It is a significant fact that a large number of disappointed and dissatisfied Republicans are openly announcing their purpose to vote for Gov. Roosevelt. * * *

"It may be a good rule 'not to change horses while crossing a stream,' but you have to do so if the horse lies down."

Plans for a State-wide Roosevelt-Garner drive by New Jersey women will be made at a meeting of women from 21 counties at Asbury Park tomorrow. Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, will preside and Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the national committee, will be among the speakers.

A drive for votes among members of the legal profession was inaugurated when Frank L. Polk, former Undersecretary of State, was named chairman of the lawyers' division of the Roosevelt Business and Professional League. The campaign, it was announced, will be Nation-wide.

ROOSEVELT MAKES STOPS IN WYOMING

Asserts Problems of Industry and Farmers Will Be Solved Together.

Aboard Roosevelt Special in Wyoming, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt brought his drive of the Presidency across the rolling prairie lands of Wyoming today for brief visits with the citizens before pushing on to the shores of the Great Salt Lake for his next speech, which will deal with railroads.

Brief speeches following the same general lines as the impromptu talks he made yesterday and last night at Denver were made at Cheyenne, Laramie, Rawlings and Green River as the train steamed across the rolling grasslands.

The New York Governor told the crowd at Cheyenne that during his passage across the country he had been assured in Missouri, Kansas and Colorado that those States "would do better than Maine" in the November election.

Went West for "Guarantee."

"I have come here to get the same guarantee," he added.

"When I go down to Washington next March I want to know the condition of all sections of the country. We will have an opportunity next year to bring about a national legislation to aid industry and agriculture together, not separately."

He spoke there from a temporary speakers' stand that had been erected at the Union Pacific station.

The crowd stretched back toward a fringe of pines about the station lawn. A little farther distant a sign atop a white, five-story building proclaimed: "Cheyenne, Home of Frontier Days." In the crowd that pushed its way to the platform were cowboys with sombreros and gaudily-blanketed Indians.

New Yorker Goes Cowboy.

A band played as the train pulled in and again as he finished his speech. The nominee told the crowds that he expected to make another trip into the Middle West before the campaign ends. He already had planned to visit the South.

Gov. Roosevelt's special train made a stop of more than two hours in Cheyenne and the whole party climbed into motor cars for a trip around the edges of the city, set down in the center of a great plateau, more than 6,000 feet above sea level and rimmed with purple mountains.

There were a few sombreros in the crowd that milled about the governor's private car, but not a cow pony was in sight and the biggest ten-gallon hat was worn not by a resident of Wyoming, but by a member of the governor's party who lives in New York.

The train had hardly stopped before he rushed over to a store and there was much winking and humorous comment behind him as he strutted out with a pleased grin on his face.

Man Beaten in Primary Is Proposed for Senate

Denver, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Lieut. Gov. Edwin C. Johnson advanced the suggestion today that John T. Barnett, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the recent primary, be appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Charles W. Waterman, Republican.

The suggestion was made in a letter to Walter Walker, Democratic State chairman, who with L. C. Paddock, Boulder publisher, and others, has been under consideration by Gov. W. H. Adams. The term to be filled runs until March 3 next. Alva B. Adams, of Pueblo, defeated Barnett for the nomination for the full six-year term starting next March.

COMMUNISTS HOPE FOR 1,000,000 VOTES

Also Expect to Elect House Member From Montana, Hathaway Says.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Communist campaign chiefs outlined tonight their hope of polling at least 1,000,000 votes in the presidential election, and sending the country's first Communist member of Congress to Washington.

"The big surprise of November 8 will be the display of Communist strength," said Clarence Hathaway, chairman of the party's national campaign committee.

The former vice president of the Minnesota Federation of Labor discussed the ballot drive as he sat in the busy party headquarters just off Union Square, scene of many a Communist demonstration.

"For the first time," he said, "the country will be forced to recognize the Communists as a serious third party—a bigger force than any other third party has ever been.

Says Hopes Are Brighter.

"We estimated at our national convention in Chicago a total vote on November 8 of 1,000,000. Reports now indicate that William Z. Foster, our presidential nominee, will receive far more than that many.

"We expect our biggest vote to come in these States in this order, Ohio first, then Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania and New York.

"In the South we look for great support in Kentucky, Alabama, Georgia, Florida and North Carolina.

"Party leaders in Iowa have pledged that they will poll a larger percentage of their total vote than either Illinois or New York.

"In the northeastern section of Montana we expect to elect a Communist congressman. In many States we hope to send party members to the legislatures.

Active Organizations.

"We have very active organizations in Minnesota, Wisconsin and North and South Dakota.

"We will be on the ballot in 40 to 41 States and in all of them but one or two we have State candidates.

"In North Carolina and Mississippi we are still fighting to get on the ballot.

"The chief issues we are stressing are Federal unemployment insurance, immediate payment of the bonus, immediate farm relief, the Negro problem, and our stand against imperialistic war."

Joseph Pass, another campaign executive, told of plans for an intensive campaign in such Southern States as Tennessee, Texas, Alabama, Louisiana, North Carolina and Kentucky.

Gov. Roosevelt Speaks Tonight in Utah Capital

Salt Lake City, Sept. 17 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech on railroads will be delivered at the Mormon Tabernacle here starting at 7:15 p. m. (Mountain standard time) tomorrow, Gov. George H. Dern, who is traveling with the nominee, informed his office today.

The speech is to be broadcast by two national radio chains.

GARNER, BACK, SEES LANDSLIDE VICTORY

papermen was held in the Speaker's office in the Capitol.

"President Hoover did not obtain a bushel of wheat or a bale of cotton for the Red Cross. It was Congress that initiated and passed this legislation and received no encouragement from the Republican administration or its leaders. The proposal to loan $300,000,000 to the States through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to relieve distress, originated with Senator Wagner, of New York, and was written into the relief act despite administration opposition."

From the Republican side, Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware, again challenged Gov. Roosevelt to outline a "constructive program."

"The Democrats are depending upon a campaign of prejudice and their ability to capitalize the depression," he told a group of newspapermen at the White House following a luncheon conference with President Hoover. "I think we have a hard job, but I believe the solid truth regarding the President's battle against the depression will prevail in the end."

Joseph R. Nutt, of Cleveland, treasurer of the Republican national committee, was another White House caller. The shocking Republican upset in Maine last Monday, he said, has stimulated contributions to the G. O. P. campaign fund "from every section of the country." Whereas the goal of $1,000,000 seemed out of reach ten day's ago, this week's developments had assured ample funds.

Sees $1,500,000 Fund.

"I'll tell you right now that the total will be $1,500,000, or more."

Due to the necessity for money saving by the national committee, however, he added, no funds are to be advanced to Republican State organizations, nor any money given to the senatorial campaign committee, which received about $130,000 in 1928.

He said the Republican congressional campaign committee, which was given $250,000 in the last campaign, would receive a percentage of all contributions.

Nutt said he attributed the sudden influx of campaign contributions almost entirely to the Democratic successes in Maine.

"I told the President," he said, "that I felt pretty good over the Maine election anyhow. As I interpret it, the people want to maintain the present administration and are coming forward with their money to help. Many of our largest contributors now are people who didn't give us a cent in 1928."

Hoover Program Unchanged.

In the face of persistent reports that the Maine result had moved President Hoover to an intensification of his personal part in the campaign, White House officials gave no indication yesterday of any change in the original program of three speeches. One or two of these probably will be delivered in the Middle West early in October and the other in New York State later in the month.

Gov. Roosevelt's farm-relief address Wednesday at Topeka, Kans., was characterized yesterday by Senator Howell as vague and ineffective.

"He merely wrote the general specifications, which we have all known about and have been trying to meet for years," the Nebraska Republican said. "We want to find the answer, Gov. Roosevelt gave none."

Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, in a statement released through the Republican national committee here, charged Gov. Roosevelt with "grossly mosquoting the President of the United States through the ancient and familiar trick of removing words from the context."

BODY OF MRS. DUBOIS FOUND SOON AFTER MATE'S SUICIDE

jeweler for whom a murder warrant had been asked unsuccessfully on Monday, had died from a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Dubois, who had shaved off his neat waxed mustache, shot himself in the bathroom of the rooming house in which he had dwelt for three days as "Ralph Anderson," and died soon afterward in a hospital. He left no note and never regained consciousness.

The next sensation in the case came when the work of dragging Great Herring Pond was ended abrutly and word came from Assistant District Attorney John V. Sullivan to have ten men with picks and shovels ready to search the cottage, where new construction had aroused suspicions.

Under a 2-inch layer of concrete and crushed stone, the searchers found a funeral vault, a strongly built concrete box, rounded at the top, but just a bit too small for its gruesome purpose.

The body was wrapped in black cloth and bound with window cord, with a pillow underneath the head.

The body was removed to a Plymouth undertaking parlor under orders of Medical Examiner Edgar Hill, who performed an autopsy tonight.

Meanwhile police ordered Lawrence Frazier, former chauffeur of the Dubois family, brought here from Braintree for questioning in connection with the concrete work recently performed at the cottage.

Woman Shot in Head.

Dr. Hill's examination showed Mrs. Dubois had been shot through the head, the bullet entering over the right ear, passing through the skull and emerging above the left ear. The condition of the body was consistent, he said, with the theory the woman was killed about August 10.

Police tonight, from evidence in their possession, constructed an awesome picture of the events preceding Mrs. Dubois' death.

From a Mrs. Gilliott, wife of a New York jeweler, police learned, they said, that Mrs. Dubois had written "Charles" was acting queerly, spending nearly all of his time in the cellar, and remaining strangely silent when he came up from his work in the basement.

She wrote also, police said, that he apparently no longer loved her and that he was "like a crazy man over that other woman."

Police learned also, they said, that while the body of his wife lay in the improvised tomb below, Dubois entertained gaily in the cottage. On the night of Labor Day, they said, a merry party took place.

Frazier, former chauffeur for Dubois, told police tonight he assisted Dubois in laying the final concrete layer but said he was told it was for a foundation for a pump and a washing machine. Sullivan said Frazier was in New York when the vault itself was built.

Rich Girl Is Involved.

Sullivan said the State's inquiry was closed and there would be no further questioning of witnesses.

"The sole culprit is dead," he asserted.

Immediately after Dubois' death, State Police Lieut. Michael F. Fleming, who has been one of the investigators of the case since its inception, issued this statement:

"We have every reason to believe this man murdered his wife. However, we have been handicapped in not finding the body."

Fleming said detectives had been assigned to watch Dubois' movements on September 12, the day on which he was released from police custody after the authorities had been refused a complaint charging him with the murder of his wife. Dubois evidently eluded the detectives, shaved off his mustache and took up residence in the Quincy rooming house.

Told Conflicting Stories.

Soon after Dubois' release police questioned Miss Grace Atwood, of Middleboro, daughter of a wealthy manufacturer, and she admitted, they said, that she had been friendly with Dubois and that he had told her his wife had been killed in an automobile accident.

It was Dubois' conflicting stories accounting for his wife's absence that caused police to investigate the case. Neighbors of the couple at Great Herring Pond, where the Dubois family had a summer cottage, told the police the jeweler had said his wife burned to death in an automobile accident in Canada.

A few days ago the investigators found the record of a deed in the Norfolk County court in which the Braintree property was transferred from Mrs. Edith Dubois, with the consent of Charles E. Dubois, to a "Grace Dubois, of New York."

Jeremiah J. MacAnarney, Quincy lawyer, who was engaged by Dubois as his counsel after his release by the police, issued a statement after the suicide in which he said he believed Dubois shot himself because he was weighed down by the publicity given the case and the use of Miss Atwood's name.

National guardsmen joined the large corps of investigators at Great Herring Pond and they were searching the woods in a pouring rain when word came that Dubois had shot himself.

The Business Upturn

Increase in Value of Exports and Imports During August Reported by Commerce Department; Freight Carloadings Gain Seen as Recovery Sign.

(Associated Press.)

Business developments yesterday included:

Washington—The Commerce Department said the value of merchandise exported during August increased $2,158,000 over the previous month and the value of imports gained $11,580,000.

Chicago—The Railway Age, in an editorial, said statistics of freight carloadings indicate a real improvement in general business has begun. "There have been upturns during the depression that proved temporary," the magazine said, "but there has been no other upturn so marked as that which has occurred recently." The recent carloadings, the editorial said, "reveal a substantially larger than normal seasonal increase."

Washington—For the week ended September 12, the Engineering News Record reports, highway construction contracts totaled $16,000,000—the greatest weekly total of the year. Other engineering contracts brought the aggregate to $34,700,000 for the week.

New York—John Wohnsiedler, vice president of the Union Bag & Paper Corporation, reported orders "very heavy," with September production at a higher rate than any prior period in the company's history.

Washington — Statements from Federal Reserve districts showed a decline of $57,000,000 in currency circulation and a gain of $23,000,000 in monetary gold, boosting excess reserves of member banks. A jump of $153,000,000 was reported in commercial deposits.

Dover, Ohio—The 800 employes of the Reeves Manufacturing Co. will work every day of the week, starting tonight, and the four six-hour shifts will be changed to three eight-hour shifts. A quantity of new orders for the firm's iron products was given as the reason.

present telephone rates for unlimited service phones in private homes is $4.75 a month. The basic rate for business phones, based on a minimum of 50 local calls a month, is $4 for independent single lines and $3 for two-party lines.

One of the high lights of the commission decision was its declaration that the reduced rates would permit the telephone company to earn not less than 6 per cent return on the value of its property used in public service. That rate the commission deemed adequate "under present conditions."

In other utilities cases in the past it has been held by courts and commissions that a rate of even 7½ per cent return on valuation did not justify reducing rates charged the public.

Before stating 6 per cent a fair rate of return under present conditions the commission recounted the increased profits which have been made by the company during the business depression.

Equipment Purchases.

Although it did not question the validity of purchases made by the company, it commented on the fact that prices it has paid for equipment purchased from the Western Electric Co. "had materially increased during the last two years in direct variance with the general trend in commodity prices and this although considerable part of the equipment was bought by the Western Electric Co. in the open market."

The Western Electric Co. is owned by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which also owns the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., the commission pointed out.

In justification of its 6 per cent rate of return the commission cited court decisions that present day conditions should govern such determinations. The company enjoys a monopoly in the District and the telephone is a necessity here, the commission said. The 10 per cent reduction it had ordered would allow a 6 per cent return even with due allowance made for a decline in the volume of company business in the coming year compared with the twelve months preceding, it said. Referring to telephone users the commission said that present conditions made it necessary for the user to give considerable more labor to pay present tolls than in the past.

Valuation Fixed.

The commission fixed the valuation for rate making purposes at $29,860,000. It valued the land and right of way owned by the company at $1,136,560 and allowed $550,000 as an adequate sum for working capital, materials and supplies.

No specific figure was fixed by the commission for "going concern" value. The company had been considered as a going concern and the final value fixed "included an amount which it believes would be just and reasonable and represents fully such going concern value."

The commission accepted the company figures showing an investment cost of $18,700,000 to December 31, 1924, and subsequent additions of $13,278,718.39 brought this figure up to $31,999,083.38 as of December 31, 1931. About half of the betterments made since 1924 were made in 1929, 1930 and 1931 and more than half of the retirements were made in those years.

The principal difference between the commission and the company over the question of value was in depreciation allowances. The company's estimates, the commission said, made no allowance for obsolescence or inadequacy although it conceded that 80 per cent of the property and equipment retired was retired because of these factors.

The cost of reproducing the company new, less depreciation, the commission said, can not be in excess of $25,014,000.

TOWN FINDS LESSON IN SNAKE'S ORDEAL

Rescued Victim of Spider Is Exhibited With Placard Pointing to Moral.

St. Charles, Ill., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Pete, the snake which aroused the nation's sympathy by hanging entrapped for 26 days in a spider's web, is going onward in fame.

Uncoiling only infrequently to drink greedily from a dish of milk, Pete reposed tonight inside a large glass jar in the window of Everett Fandhols' meat market. The snake drank some milk after its release and glided away in a plot of grass. It was recovered and put in a jar. On the jar hung a sign entitled: "A Snake's Prayer for a Day" and bearing these words:

"Oh Lord, please help me keep my nose out of other people's' business."

Mayor J. G. Langum released the snake last night from the web in a city pumping shack, where it had been suspended by the head for nearly a month. Hundreds of persons came from as far as St. Louis to watch the spider spin the snare more tightly while the snake thumped its tail and writhed frantically for freedom.

"I'd have let them fight it out to the end," said Mayor Langum, "but the Humane Society didn't think it was right. Pete didn't have a chance, though. The spider had too much intelligence."

After a few days in the market window, Mayor Langum said Pete would be taken to the St. Charles Zoo, there to end his days on a diet of flies and spiders which somebody else will have to catch.

As for the spider, it cast aside discouragement in favor of spinning bigger and better webs in preparation for the day when another snake ventures into the pump house.

Hoover Lauds D. A. R. For Honoring French

(Associated Press.)

A letter from President Hoover commending the Daughters of the American Revolution for "rescuing from oblivion the names of the heroic Frenchmen" who fought at Yorktown was made public yesterday by Mrs. Russell William Magna, president general of the D. A. R.

The President added that the organization's pilgrimage to Paris in October, when a bronze tablet bearing these names will be dedicated on the 151st anniversary of the battle, "is a splendid gesture, certain to promote an historic international friendship and coming with especial appropriateness from your great group of patriotic American women."

BATTLE OF SNAKE AND SPIDER

ASUNCION BOMBING DEMANDED IN LA PAZ

Residents March in Streets After Stretcher Bearers Are Reported Slain.

La Paz, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Residents of La Paz coursed through the streets tonight in a demonstration demanding that Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay, be bombed from the air.

The demand resulted from reports that Paraguayan troops had attacked and killed Bolivian stretcher bearers who were evacuating the wounded from one of the battle grounds in the Gran Chaco.

Gen. Quintanilla sent information about the alleged attacks from Fort Munoz, Bolivian general staff headquarters, which is about 60 miles from Fort Boqueron, where Bolivian and Paraguayan troops have been battling for eight days.

Ignorant of Provision.

The general's report said the Paraguayan troops whom he charged with attacking stretcher bearers were ignorant of the convention of Geneva which forbids such operations.

An official Bolivian announcement said Paraguay was concentrating strong forces near all the principal Bolivian forts in the Chaco, but the Bolivians had been able to hold their positions.

In a note to Francis White, president of the commission of neutrals at Washington, Bolivia declared it was ready, under certain conditions, to cease military action.

"Bolivia declares anew its willingness to suspend hostilities," the note said, "but begs to inform you that, facing a strong Paraguayan offensive attack, it finds it impossible either to disarm or withdraw ten kilometers with jeopardizing itself. Such an agreement must be mutually conformed with."

Accepts Conditionally.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 16 (A.P.). Paraguay, in a note to the neutral governments at Washington today, conditionally accepted suspension of hostilities against Bolivia in the Gran Chaco.

The conditions are:

1. Each army must withdraw 60 kilometers from 60 degrees west longitude (the 60-degree line runs directly through the oattle front) within three days after suspension has been ordered.

2. Within two weeks thereafter the Bolivians must retire to 62.5 degrees, and the Paraguayans to the banks of the Paraguay River.

3. Meanwhile a fair demobilization will be negotiated.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Sept. 16 (U. P.).—More than $600,000 worth of machine guns have been purchased from the Danish Rifle Syndicate by an unnamed South American country, it was learned today.

It was understood that purchase was made by Paraguay.

HANGING OF FUGITIVE IN ATTACK "SUICIDE"

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Sept. 16.—Hanging from an apple tree in an orchard near Linden, Va., the body of a colored man, sought two months in connection with an attack on a Fauquier County farmer and his wife, was found today by a farm hand on the Miller farm, at the foot of Rattlesnake Mountain.

The man was identified as Shadrock Thompson, formerly employed on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Baxley, at Hume, Va.

Early July 12, Thompson is alleged to have attacked and severely beaten Baxley and his wife as they slept in a first-floor room of their farmhouse. Mrs. Baxley was dragged from her home and left in a semiconscious condition a half-mile away. Baxley was beaten into unconsciousness with a heavy stick.

Thompson's body was discovered by Noah Kenney, farm hand, in an old orchard at the base of the mountain. A crowd of farmers quickly gathered at the scene and the man's body was partially burned before the arrival of authorities.

Police, however, succeeded in recovering the man's head and parts of clothing. Positive identification was made by Baxley himself.

Coroner George Davis, after viewing the remains, declared Thompson a suicide. The rope around his neck was known to have been in his possession at the time of the attack. Authorities said he fled into the woods after committing the crime, and apparently ended his life when the search grew "too hot for him."

The body was badly decomposed and Dr. Davis expressed the belief that the Negro had hanged himself immediately after the attack.

Thompson was employed by Baxley until about six weeks before the attack. His wife obtained a warrant for his arrest on an assault charge, and he fled the section. Following the attack on Mr. and Mrs. Baxley, Thompson was suspected and futile search was conducted for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Baxley remained in the hospital here for more than a week.

Most of Mill Workers End Strike in Carolina

Winston-Salem, N. C., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The week-old strike at the Hanes hosiery mill here broke into parts today and 900 workers returned to work while approximately 300 remained idle. The employes quit their posts September 8 in protest against a wage reduction and on September 12 the mill was closed completely.

James G. Hanes, president of the mill, told strikers last night the plant would be opened today if any wished to return. Hanes said the "past will be forgotten" and that the mill would follow its "usual policy of endeavoring to meet reasonable wage standards." No attempt was made to prevent workers from returning to their places.

New Legion Head Off for Clarksburg

Declares He Will Wage Determined Fight for Dry Repeal and Bonus.

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—With the work and pleasures of another national convention behind them, the "boys" of the American Legion were homeward bound today.

Louis A. Johnson, the new national commander of the legion, left for California, en route to his home in Clarksburg, W. Va., Henry L. Stevens, jr., the retiring commander, left for Warsaw, N. C., where he has promised himself a good rest. He said goodbye to his staff at a dinner here last night and was presented a wrist watch by his coworkers.

Commander Johnson told the legionnaires he would abide by the mandates of the convention. Resolutions adopted, he said, will not be mere pieces of paper, but statements of principles, for which he and his staff will wage a determined fight. He said he would do his utmost to win support for both the bonus payment and prohibition repeal demands.

WILLIAM W. SMITH DIES AT AGE OF 58

Pneumonia Fatal to Former Diplomat and Member of House From Ohio.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 16 (A.P.). William Walker Smith, who had held various diplomatic posts in Europe, South America and the Caribbean, from 1910 to 1924, died today of pneumonia at Haddon Hall, where he has been living in semiretirement for the past year. He was 58 years old and a native of Covington, Ky.

Mr. Smith had been in failing health for several months. A few days ago he was stricken with pneumonia. His wife, Mrs. Blanche Crawford Smith, was at the bedside when he died. The body will be sent to Cincinnati, his former home, for burial.

He was a member of the House of Representatives from Ohio from 1900 to 1904, and in 1910 was appointed third secretary of the American Embassy at Constantinople (Istanbul). He served also as charge d'affaires at Berne, Copenhagen, Lima and San Domingo. He left the diplomatic service in 1924 to return to his law practice.

Besides his wife, he leaves his mother, Mrs. William Walker Smith, sr., of Cincinnati.

Cable and Radio Parley Debates "Urgent" Rates

Madrid, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Approval by the rate committee of the International Conference of Telegraphy and Radio Telegraphy of a proposal that the urgent rate henceforth be double instead of three times the base rate aroused considerable discussion today. It centered about whether the projected change would affect transatlantic traffic to the United States.

Some authorities held it would be possible to apply this schedule to American traffic if the convention approved the plan. The result would be a new urgent rate of 40 cent a word instead of the present so-called preferred rate of 25 cents.

SUSPECT IS SEIZED IN SOLDIER'S DEATH

Watson are said to have begun to beat Woosley. The soldiers soon got the best of the two and chased them to the Bradfield house.

Watson ran into the house and returned with a shotgun. When the soldiers were about 15 feet away he is said to have shot Woosley in the stomach. As soon as the colored man left Reppert dragged his companion about 25 yards down the road

Leaving him propped against the fence, he ran to camp, swimming across an arm of the lake to elude the sentries. In camp he obtained his gun and started to return when he was discovered and the plight of Woosley was made known.

The soldiers rushed to the scene, placing Woosley in a car and taking him to Dr. Stewart McBride in Manassas, who pronounced him dead. The Prince William County authorities were notified and a search was started for Bradfield and Watson.

Get Two Hours Start.

According to Sheriff Kerlin, the men had about two hours' start. When police arrived at the Bradfield house, other members of the family denied there had been any shooting, but later they told a story identical to the one told by Reppert. They said Watson returned to the house after the shooting and, at the point of the gun, demanded money. He got $2 and left. Soon afterward Wash Bradfield also left.

Yesterday morning Sheriff Kerlin in his search discovered a large still about a half-mile from the Bradfield house, together with a large quantity of mash. The still and contents were warm, indicating that it had been used the night before.

Bloodhounds placed on the trail early yesterday soon lost the scent near Manassas. The shotgun was found in a field near the scene of the shooting. Woosley, a Philadelphian, was a private in Company D, Thirteenth Engineers.

Body Sent to Philadelphia.

The body of Woosley was taken to Fort Humphreys yesterday and last night was forwarded to the home of his father, Birl Woosley, sr., 24 East Seltzer avenue, Philadelphia. The father is a retired enlisted man of the Navy, having recently retired after 30 years' service, and now holds the rate of chief gunner's mate in the Naval Reserve. Besides his father, five small children survive. The mother died in January of this year.

Woosley, who enlisted at Philadelphia June 4, 1930, was 20 years old. His Army record was a good one, and his service record shows that according to the standard intelligence rating of the Army, he ranked above the average.

The body was accompanied to Philadelphia by Private (first class) John Gray, jr., whose home is in the same block in Philadelphia as that of Woosley.

Bonus Payment Hit By Economy League

Archibald Roosevelt Says It Would Impose Intolerable Burden.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The National Economy League tonight said immediate payment of the bonus "would impose an intolerable financial burden on the country" and declared itself "unequivocally opposed" to the demand of the American Legion.

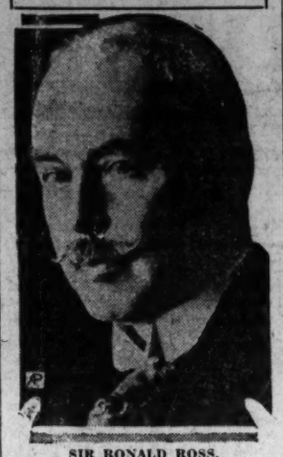
In a statement issued by Archibald D. Roosevelt, secretary, the league said its opposition in opposition to immediate payment of the adjusted compensation certificates was based on "three fundamental reasons."

"First, because the raising of the approximately $2,300,000,000 required for immediate payment would impose an intolerable financial burden on the country, which would prolong the depression and unemployment.

"Second, because the demand is without fair basis or right on its merits. It is, in effect, a demand for the immediate payment of that position of the certificates represented by the interest on the credits allowed for home and overseas service. This interest, in greater part, has not yet been earned and its payment at this time would increase the cost to the Government by about $1,600,000,000 over the amount originally voted by Congress to be paid.

"Third, because a yielding to this demand would mark a surrender of the interests of the public at large to the dictation of an organized minority."

SCIENTIST DIES



SIR RONALD ROSS.

EARL OF CRAVEN, 35, IS DEAD IN FRANCE

Eloped to U. S. in 1926 With Countess of Cathcart and Then Fled Country.

Pau, France, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The Earl of Craven, whose association with the Countess of Cathcart formed the basis of moral turpitude charges brought against her by United States immigration officials six years ago, is dead. He succumbed yesterday at the age of 35.

Vera, Countess of Cathcart, arrived in New York February 9, 1926, and was detained at Ellis Island while immigration officials investigated the charge of moral turpitude.

When the countess was divorced by the Earl of Cathcart in 1921, the Earl of Craven was named corespondent. Later the countess and Craven were together in South Africa. The divorce and the South African episode furnished material for much debate in the courts and in the Department of Labor when the countess arrived in New York.

After about a month the effort to bar her was abandoned by the Government. She was admitted in time to attend the famous bathtub party which led to a prison sentence against Earl Carroll, New York producer.

Bank Not Blamed After Tokyo Probe

(Associated Press.)

The State Department announced yesterday receipt of a message from Ambassador Grew at Tokyo stating the Japanese government advised him it attached no blame whatever to the action of the National City Bank in photographing commercial centers in Japan.

Grew's message said foreign office officials stated that the Japanese government did not regard the action of the National City Bank with suspicion and authorized him to communicate this fact officially to the State Department.

Last Saturday Ambassador Grew made representations to the Japanese government concerning a press campaign charging the Osaka branch of the National City Bank with photographic espionage. The bank had collected photographs of commercial institutions to be used for advertising purposes, bank officials stated.

Grew asked Count Uchida, the Japanese minister of foreign affairs, to make a full investigation and issue a statement absolving the bank from all blame. He also asked that steps be taken to stop the press campaign against the bank.

The admiralty issued an order today for laying of the keel.

The new cruiser, whose sister ships cost approximately $17,850,000 each, is within the limits specified by the Versailles Treaty, but because of numerous improvements developed by German naval architects these vessels are said to be much more formidable than that treaty contemplated.

ington, but not until after the American presidential election.

The political situation has undergone no important change since the National Socialists and the other parties in opposition to the government decided to let Chancellor von Papen's decree dissolving the Reichstag stand and take their chances on a new election which, under the constitution, must be ordered within 60 days for solution.

Hermann Goering, the National Socialist speaker of the House, who at first was inclined to ignore the decree, said today he had not changed his opinion that the decree was unconstitutional, but his party would insist the election be called within the legal period.

"You may rest assured," he told a group of correspondents, "that nothing will be done to provoke disorders which would give the government an excuse for postponing the election."

SIR RONALD ROSS, 75, EXPIRES IN LONDON

Responsible for Control of Malaria Scourge by His Germ Discovery.

London, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Sir Ronald Ross, whose discovery that the anopheles mosquito carries the malaria parasite was responsible for controlling one of the world's most terrible scourges, died today at the age of 75.

For the last five years he was partly paralyzed, and for many weeks he had been critically ill. He died at the Ross Institute and Hospital for Tropical Diseases, of which he was director in chief.

At one time the conqueror of malaria was in straitened circumstances and in 1929 a fund was started by public subscription to care for him in his old age. The fund, totaling $75,000, was completed only two days ago. It probably will go to his institute. His wife died in 1931.

Devoted, persistent research under grueling conditions in tropic India in the face of official ridicule and disparagement made it possible for Sir Ronald Ross to contribute almost incalculably to the health, happiness and prosperity of the human race.

Sir Ronald was born in Almora, India, on May 13, 1857, the son of a British general. He studied medicine at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, and in 1881 entered the Indian Medical Service. Realizing the terrific burden of malaria to countless millions not only in India, but elsewhere over wide expanses of the earth, he began a special series of investigations into the cause of the disease in 1893.

Sir Ronald was aware of the suggestion made by some pathologists that malaria was transmitted by the mosquito. He set to work to prove it, and did so, brilliantly.

The medical world was quick to appreciate the great importance of this work. In 1902 he received the Nobel prize in medicine in honor of his investigations.

$80,000 Suits Filed After Ships Collide

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Libel suits totaling more than $80,000 were filed today against the steamship State of Maryland of the Baltimore Steam Packet Co., growing out of the collision in Chesapeake Bay the night of August 3 between that vessel and the schooner Milton S. Lankford.

Representatives of the estates of R. N. Midyette, sr., R. N. Midyette, jr., and W. H. Gregory, who were drowned when the schooner sank, filed claims for $25,000 each. In addition the owners of the schooner and its cargo are asking for damages of $8,421. The steamer was on its way from Baltimore to Norfolk while the schooner was en route to Baltimore with a cargo of watermelons from Elizabeth City, N. C., when the collision occurred.

Hoover Greets Mexico On Liberty Anniversary

(Associated Press.)

Mexico became independent of Spain 122 years ago yesterday, and in recognition of this anniversary President Hoover sent the following message to the President of Mexico, Abelardo L. Rodriguez:

"I take pleasure in extending to your excellency on this auspicious occasion my sincere felicitations and best wishes for the continued prosperity of Mexico under your administration."

George W. Grant Dies In Alexandria Hospital

George W. Grant, 36, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Grant, of Seneca, S. C., died Thursday in Alexandria Hospital after a short illness. Besides his parents he is survived by a sister and three brothers, all of Seneca.

Mr. Grant had made his home in Alexandria for about twelve years as a material inspector for the Southern Railway, in the test department. Funeral services were held at 4 p. m. yesterday in Demaine's funeral home, conducted by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, of the First Baptist Church, and the body was sent to South Carolina for burial.

RITES FOR MISS BEVANS.

Venerable Rockville Resident Will be Buried This Afternoon.

Funeral services for Miss Frances Bevans, 92 years old, said to have been the oldest resident of Rockville, Md., who died Thursday night, will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of her niece, Mrs. Roberta Higgins. Burial will be in Forest Oak Cemetery, Gaithersburg, Md.

Miss Bevans had been unusually spry and had never been ill before in her life until she fell recently and broke her hip. She was the daughter of John T. and Marian Bevans and was a native of Prince Georges County. Her father was postmaster at Rockville during the Civil War. Besides Mrs. Higgins, Miss Bevans is survived by another niece, Mrs. Marian Klopfer, of Washington, and a number of great nieces and great nephews.

MRS. JOHN R. ALPINE RITES

INSULL UNIT OFFICER RESIGNS UNDER FIRE

Chicago, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Receivers of the Middle West Utilities Co. scanned its assets today for salvage from the wreckage of the great utilities holding company founded by Samuel Insull.

They listed its debts at $78,798,893 in bank loans, notes and accounts payable. Middle West Utilities was the third of the Insull companies for which receivers have made reports in the courts.

They carried its capital stock on the balance sheet at $220,348,069, but at today's open market prices the 16,000,000 common shares would be worth less than $8,000,000, compared with a market value of $714,000,000 at its peak two years ago.

But the receivers, Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch, made no guess as to the worth of Middle West's investments in their preliminary report to Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. All three, after a brief conference in court, expressed themselves as sanguine of eventual salvation through reorganizations of Middle West Utilities and of its subsidiary, the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment Co., whose deficit yesterday was estimated at $28,000,000.

Hurley and McCulloch made it plain to the court that this preliminary balance sheet made no pretense of providing for losses that might be sustained from investments, nor was it to be taken as a detailed audit for the purpose of disclosing irregularities.

In a separate statement to the public, however, they announced the resignation at their demand of Marshall E. S Sampsell, former president of Central Illinois Public Service Co. and director of Middle West, its parent company. Sampsell, they asserted, had borrowed 4,000 shares of Central Illinois $6 preferred stock from the treasury, given trust receipts in lieu thereof, and then substituted the 4,000 shares for other collateral on joint notes of his own and Martin J. Insull, brother of Samuel Insull.

The audit showed as the chief debts of Middle West $40,000,000 in serial gold notes held by the public, and $38,798,893 in various notes and accounts payable, of which the $25,010,281 owed New York and Chicago banks were described as "amply secured."

On the other side of the sheet were assets of unestimated worth, carried at their book value. Those included investments in owned or controlled companies, $244,569,438; in noncontrolled companies, $54,325,004. Among other assets was an item of $52,525 cash.

The receivers, without going into details, showed that operations since January 1, 1930, had been at a loss, giving expenditures as $110,355,271, against receipts of $106,628,730.

2 Die in Explosion At Filling Station

Miami, Ariz., Is Threatened by Flames in Wake of Gasoline Blast.

Miami, Ariz., Sept. 16 (U.P.).—Two men were killed and the town of Miami was threatened with destruction today by an explosion of gasoline during the filling of a Texas Oil Co. storage drum.

Ike Frazier, former secretary of the State of Arizona and manager of the company's Miami branch, was burned to death. Ralph Hawes, truck driver, died when he was thrown into the air on the crest of orange flame and black smoke and was buried in a pool of blazing gasoline. Jack Barrett, another truck driver, saved his life by diving beneath his truck as the volatile fuel caught fire. His arm was burned severely.

The combined fire departments of Miami and Globe, 6 miles away, worked desperately for three hours to check spread of the flames, which threatened the wholesale gasoline district.

American Nurse Given Up as Lost

Captain of Liner, Reaching U. S., Tells of Seeing Plane Wednesday.

Le Havre, France, Sept. 16 (U.P.).—The transatlantic monoplane American Nurse was given up as lost today after more than 50 hours had elapsed since it was last sighted at sea.

The plane, carrying William Ulbrich, Edna Newcomer and Dr. Leon M. Pisculli, in an attempt to fly nonstop from New York to Rome, was seen for the last time about 450 miles west of Land's End, England, by the French liner France on Wednesday at 12:50 p. m., New York time.

The France docked here today and Capt. Thoreaux told of having seen the white plane flash by, flying 110 miles an hour.

"I was on the bridge at the time," the ship's master said, "and I watched the plane through glasses."

At that time, Capt. Thoreaux said, there appeared to be nothing wrong with the American Nurse.

Striking Miners Evicted From Illinois District

Braidwood, Ill., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Defeated, but assertedly undaunted, 78 automobile loads of striking union coal miners from southern Illinois were moved out of this district under highway police escort today. Their picketing operations in opposition to a new $5 reduced wage scale halted work in a dozen mines near here for two days and resulted in injuries to three miners, but owners said digging would be resumed tomorrow.

Chief Walter Moody, of the highway police, said the strikers were moved out to forestall a possible recurrence of violence. Two pickets were shot yesterday and a worker was injured when his automobile crashed into a ditch as he tried to pierce a picket line en route to work.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Picher, Okla., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—A blade of grass was held responsible for the death today of 11-year-old J. D. Jolley, jr. Physicians said gangrene developed after the grass became lodged in the boy's windpipe three months ago.

Ellendale, N. Dak., Sept. 16 (A.P.). More trouble came today to Dr. R. A. Millikan, California physicist here making cosmic ray studies. He sent a balloon containing recording instruments into the air but a leak developed, causing it to fall six miles from here, where it was recovered. Dr. Millikan said the bag would be repaired and sent up again. High wind Wednesday caused one balloon to escape, while two others were torn badly.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—William Green Street, who was a figure behind the scenes in the struggles of the late J. P. Morgan and James J. Hill against E. R. Harriman and Jacob Schiff for control of the Northern Pacific Railway in 1901, died today in Manhattan Eye, Ea. and Throat Hospital. He was 73 years old and had been ill of pneumonia. He was the senior member of Street & Norton, stock brokers.

Ellis, Kans., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—There are no instruments in the aeronautical equipment of a duck to determine from high altitude that all are not streams that glitter. Thus, hunters explain the death of dozens of ducks found on a highway near here recently. An oiled road when wet, they said, resembles a stream. The birds, taking it for such, were killed when they struck the surface.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Thomas F. McMahon, of Providence, R. I., today was unanimously reelected president of the United Textile Workers of America. He has held the office since 1921 and the reelection was for a term of two years.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—County officers are investigating the shooting of Earl Williamson, 54-year-old retired naval officer, who came to the Missouri Ozarks from Huntington, W. Va., and established a home for himself and his wife two years ago. Williamson was in a hospital here today suffering from a gunshot wound. Physicians say he has little or no chance for recovery. County officers said warrants may be issued.

Enid, Okla., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Enid celebrated today the opening of the Cherokee Strip to homesteaders 39 years ago. Among the thousands of visitors were picturesque pioneers who participated in the "run," and hundreds of Cheyenne, Arapaho, Otoe and Ponca tribesmen, who bivouacked by their campfires in the city square last night. A unique veteran of the historic occasion was a mule, with which Frank Trosper, of Oklahoma City, asserted he made the run.

Harlan, Ky., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—F. M. Bratcher was acquitted here today of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Jim Daniels, one of four slain in the clash at Evarts during the mine troubles in May, 1931. It was Bratcher's third trial. Former trials for the killing of Daniels and Howard Jones, a commissary clerk, resulted in hung juries.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The Texas House of Representatives today adopted a resolution, previously passed by the Senate, memorializing the Secretary of Agriculture and Congress to regulate cotton exchanges "to prevent a recurrence of the unwholesome demoralization and malicious destruction of values" that allegedly followed publication of the September 8 Government crop report.

Chicago, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Six firemen were injured today when the second floor of a burning building collapsed, hurling them into blazing debris below. They were rescued by comrades and taken to hospitals, suffering burns, cuts and bruises.

Virginia's Relief Survey Speeded

Mayors of 11 Towns Are Questioned on Needs by Pollard's Aids.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Arthur F. MacConochie and W. S. Rodman, members of Gov. Pollard's emergency board of engineers, have conferred with mayors of eleven Virginia towns in regard to projects which might be funded by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

They touched at Standardsville, Shenandoah, Luray, New Market, Mount Jackson, Woodstock, Strasburg and Front Royal, explaining the purposes of the loans and what projects might come under its classifications. The municipal officials were told that additional informatoin might be secured by applying to the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, where the committee is making its headquarters.

Mr. MacConochie and Mr. Rodman conferred with Winchester authorities this morning, were in Berryville at noon and in Alexandria in the late afternoon. Tomorrow morning the itinerary includes Leesburg, Middleburg, The Plains, Warrenton and Fredericksburg.

Nurse's Mistake Fatal To 3 Insane Patients

Cincinnati, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Three patients at the Longview Hospital for the Insane died today because, Superintendent E. A. Baber said, a nurse misread an anaesthetic formula.

The victims, Jennie Branham, 54; Anna McCullough, 45, and Willie Shockley, 30, died as they were being given an anaesthetic preparatory to having their tonsils removed.

Superintendent E. A. Baber said Miss Maybelle Viall, 35, a hospital attendant since 1931, but only lately in charge of the drug room, was told to prepare a solution containing two grains of the drug but that she misread the abbreviation "grs" for grains as "grms" for grams.

Rediscount Rate Lowered.

Bogota, Colombia, Sept. 16 (A.P.). The Bank of the Republic lowered the rediscount rate today from 6 to 5 per cent.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

The return of many Washingtonians from their summering places has quickened the trade in the food-selling places. Other residents lingering through September in their vacation homes have sent advance notices of their returning dates in order that their accustomed food merchants may supply the home larders promptly. One marketer who sells meats showed the Meanderer a deep pile of letters, orders and sales tickets that had accumulated within the last few days.

Cabinet members, chief justices, senators, high-ranking officers of the Army and Navy and other persons of prestige are among the patrons of this high-class meat market. Probably 30 millionaires contribute to the prosperity of the place by paying for juicy porterhouse steaks cut without regard to economy or for the choicest of legs of lamb.

Such a desirable trade does not merely drift in to the aforesaid market. One member of the sales force has steady employment calling upon prospective customers while the proprietor of the establishment thinks nothing of motoring to the summer homes of old and prospective customers to interest them in his meat shop.

With the return of fall and city social life the hospitality shelf may well contain some of the tiny, crisp, salty, cocktail biscuits the Meanderer found this week. They are made in Japan and come in a tall, attractively decorated tin, a great many of them for 75 cents.

Homemade dill pickles of uncommon excellence in a high class fancy food corner in a downtown market cost only 5 cents. The proprietor of this corner prepares the pickles in his own home kitchen, much to the satisfaction of his dill pickle customers. A touch of garlic in their preparation is said to contribute to their charm.

Yellow tomatoes are a dominating color note among the foods for sale. A quarter bushel basket of them sells for 35 cents or less.

Twenty cents a quart for the best of fresh lima beans seemed extremely low in one excellent place to buy vegetables and fruits. White, seedless grapes of perfect quality were another low priced food there, selling at 2 pounds for 25 cents.

Why they are called Christmas melons, the Meanderer wasn't able to learn, but Christmas melons from Mexico should nevertheless go down on the interesting food list this week. They are about one-fourth as large as a sizeable watermelon, have a lizardly, green and yellow exterior and a greenish, sweet-tasting meat, suggestive of the taste of both the canteloupe and the honey dew melon.

Another melon of interest now that cantaloupes are on the wane is known as the Pink Queen from California. These melons, so alluringly named, are much like small cantaloupes, though pinker inside and of a more delicate flavor. Their price is two for 25 cents.

Immense dahlias of rose and coral are the current rosy queens of the flower stands, though their white dahlia sisters also are appealing. The September blooms of delphinium are being harvested, with charm in their shaded blue bouquets for only 50 cents.

Large, extra-fancy dried fruits are in plentiful fall supply in one corner of a downtown market. Dried apricots are newly received from California. They are large and tender, an excellent suggestion for school lunch boxes.

Trout, bluefish, rock fish, mackerel, flounders, spots and butterfish contribute to the variety of fresh fish offered in one high class fish market in downtown Washington. Fish dealers expect the real oyster season to open very shortly, and choice oysters are now obtainable in many fish shops.

Broccoli and asparagus are among the newest comers to the vegetable stands. Asparagus probably sells at a higher price than any vegetable, tagged 75 cents for a bunch.

Crab apples at 5 cents a pound retail, and at a much lower price in bushels and half-bushels, are attracting many housewives.

Cooler days that sharpen appetites will mean the heavier use of meat in meal planning. For added appeal in the meat course two relishes the Meanderer found are excellent. One is a sweet red pepper with a biting taste and the other a vegetable chow of milder effect.

TIMELY TESTED RECIPES.
(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Scalloped Potatoes.

6 medium-sized potatoes
1 pint milk
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
4 to 6 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour

Wash the potatoes and cook in boiling salted water until half done. Skin the potatoes and cut in cubes. Grease a baking dish or pan, place in it a layer of potatoes, sprinkle with some of the flour and dot with the butter. Continue until all the potatoes are used. Pour in sufficient milk to almost cover, and bake in a slow oven until the potatoes are brown on top and soft throughout. If they become dry add more milk. If they cook too rapidly the milk will boil over, and will not only be difficult to clean from the oven but will also make a disagreeable odor all through the house. Serve the potatoes from the baking dish, and just before it is sent to the table sprinkle the chopped parsley over the top.

Sweet Potatoes With Apples.

3 medium-sized sweet potatoes
4 medium-sized apples
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons butter

Wash the sweet potatoes and cook them in their skins in boiling water. Cool and skin. Cut the potatoes and apples into slices. Place in alternate layers in a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle sugar over each layer. Add a little water and bake until apples and sweet potatoes are soft and brown on top.

Cooked Salad Dressing

1 cup mild vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
2 eggs

If the vinegar is not mild, it should be weakened by substituting ¼ to ½ cup of water for the same quantity of vinegar. Hard cook the eggs. While they are still warm remove the shells and rub the yolks to a paste. Add the dry ingredients and the butter. Cream these together thoroughly. Add the heated vinegar, a little at a time, to make a thin paste. Press the whites through a ricer or chop them very fine and add to the mixture. Serve on lettuce or other salad greens.

Eggs Benedict.

Eggs
Toast
Thin sliced ham or bacon
Hollandaise sauce

Toast slices of bread, or split and toast English muffins. Place on each piece of toast a thin slice of cooked ham or crisp cooked bacon. On top of this place a poached egg, cover with hot Hollandaise sauce and serve at once. The ham or bacon may, of course, be omitted and a drop or two of Worcestershire sauce sprinkled on each piece of toast to give flavor.

Baked Eggs and Cheese.

Break the desired number of eggs into a shallow greased earthenware or glass baking dish, add a few tablespoons of cream, and salt enough to season, and sprinkle over the top grated cheese mixed with fine, dry bread crumbs. Set this dish in a pan containing hot water and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set and the crumbs are brown. Just before serving add a few dashes of paprika.

Dumplings.

1 cup flour, sifted
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
5½ tablespoons milk

Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together. Beat the egg well, add the milk, and mix with the dry ingredients. Drop by small spoonfuls into the chicken gravy. Cover tightly and cook for 15 minutes. The top must not be removed while the dumplings are cooking. If the steam escapes the dumplings will not be light.

Bread Pudding.

4 cups milk
1 cup stale diced bread
1 cup sugar
4 eggs
¼ cup butter (melted)
¾ cup seedless raisins
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Separate the eggs, reserving the whites for the meringue. Beat the yolks and add the milk, slightly warmed, the sugar, raisins, salt and vanilla. Grease a pudding dish or any flat pan and put in a layer of the diced bread; pour the custard mixture over the bread and add the melted butter. Bake in a pan surrounded by water in a slow oven.

RECIPE FOR SALAD WINS WEEK'S PRIZE

Capitol Heights Resident Is Awarded $5 for Her Idea.

A peach and cream cheese salad that should fit in beautifully at luncheon on some of these spicy days is awarded the $5 food prize this week.

Extremely simple to prepare, the salad recipe was submitted by Mrs. Edna Elkon, of Capitol Heights, Md. A housewife returning late from the morning shopping should find this dish a lifesaver. The recipe follows:

6 halves of canned peaches (Libby's Rosedale)
4-ounce package of cream cheese
Cream
Lemon juice
Chopped nuts

Use half a canned peach for each serving. Moisten the cream cheese with cream and lemon juice, fill the centers of the peaches and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Arrange on lettuce and serve with French dressing. Ingredients from Center Market.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

DELICACIES OF THE DEEP.

A WISE friend of mine says, "Culinary creations are just as distinguished for what you leave out of them, as for what you put in them."

That is exactly right. Especially with delicately flavored sea food like crabmeat or shrimps. If you add too many other flavors you lose the salty tang of the fish.

So I prefer simple recipes for these delicacies of the deep. Recipes like this:

Shrimp Cocktail.

Take a can of shrimp out of the ice box. Make a cocktail sauce of chili sauce, horseradish and a dash of pepper sauce. Squeeze a drop of lemon on each shrimp, dip it into the cocktail sauce—that's all. The more you eat, the more you want.

Then there is creamed shrimp in a ring mold of Spanish rice.

To make it, I begin by heating some fat in a frying pan and in this fat I fry a little onion and some chopped green pepper—until they're cooked. Then I add four cups of boiled rice to this, blending all well together. I oil a ring mold and pack the rice into it. Then this ring mold goes right in the oven to get warm while I'm creaming the shrimps.

I use a rather thin cream sauce and I put in some chili sauce, too, to give the sauce an appetizing pink color. And the chili sauce adds a delicate tomato flavor to the dish, too. By this time the ring mold in the oven is all hot. Unmold it carefully on a hot platter, add a little minced parsley to the creamed shrimps and pour them in the center of the rice ring.

Crab Mornay.

This dish requires only three ingredients—a can of crabmeat, some white sauce and a cup of grated cheese.

You make a smooth sauce of two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of flour and one cup and a half of milk. If these three ingredients are blended together carefully you have a perfect sauce that does wonders to seafood.

Add this white sauce to the flaked crabmeat, and stir in the cupful of grated cheese and season with salt and pepper. Put the mixture in a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until the top is browned.

It's interesting to note that shellfish are now recognized to be of great value in the diet because they contain iodine. Dr. Walter H. Eddy, a well-known authority on nutrition, says that "an adequate supply of iodine in the diet will prevent goitrous affliction. Therefore we should make every effort to secure such an adequacy from all the sources available."

Among the best sources available are fish—including canned crab and shrimp.

STATUE OF LINCOLN UNVEILED IN INDIANA

Depicts President as Young Man of 21; Dr. Sizoo Is One of Speakers.

Most other statues depict the martyred President as a troubled man, aged beyond his years, with face furrowed.

This shows Lincoln as he looked on life eagerly, face unlined, strength apparent and confidence unlimited. He leans against an oak stump, axe at side, with a book in one hand and the other resting lightly on the head of a hound.

"Turn Back to Lincoln."

Looking upon the statue, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, in the principal address of the unveiling exercises, called on the American people to "turn back to the ideals of Abraham Lincoln."

His thought was similar to that of President Hoover who, in a letter read by United States Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, said: "The ever-growing appreciation of Abraham Lincoln's character and his immortal service is a wholesome sign of the fundamental soundness of the national character and of the people's steadfast devotion to the highest principles of life and government."

The statue rests on the plaza of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. Building. It is the work of Paul Manship, New York sculptor, who worked on it four years.

Dr. Sizoo is Speaker.

Secretary Hyde's address was broadcast throughout the Nation. Grouped about him as he spoke were Gov. Harry G. Leslie, Senator Watson, Arthur F. Hall, president of the insurance company, and a number of historians.

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church in Washington, which Lincoln attended while President, was one of the speakers. He brought the regrets of Mary H. Lincoln, a daughter-in-law of the Emancipator, who was unable to attend the ceremony.

School Days Service Arranged by Church

Since the boys and girls are returning to school Monday morning, Ninth Street Christian Church, Ninth and D streets northeast, is planning a "School Days" program tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

All boys and girls of school age in the church school and community, together with their parents have been invited to attend. The pastor will speak on "The Church and the School."

About 150 boys and girls are expected to attend this "School Days" service.

"Conquest of Fear" Sermon of Dr. Briggs

Dr. John E. Briggs will preach Sunday morning at Fifth Baptist Church on "The Conquest of Fear."

At night the officers of the Baptist Young Peoples Union will be installed. The pastor will preside and the principal address will be delivered by Robert H. McNeill.

Dr. Smith Will Preach In St. Margaret's Church

Dr. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's, will preach at morning prayer at 11 o'clock. Dr. Smith has just returned from a vacation in Atlantic City.

At 7:30 a. m. there will be a celebration of Holy Communion. On Thursday at 11 a. m. Holy Communion will be celebrated.

Y. M. C. A. Secretary To Speak Tomorrow

L. W. DeGust, secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, will address the men's Bible class of Francis Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church South, Sixteenth, near Lamont street northwest, tomorrow morning. His subject will be "Character Building."

Special music is arranged. The ladies' class will be taught by Dr. H. H. Sherman, director religious education of the Baltimore conference. The young men's class will be taught by Rossel Mitchell, and the young adult women's class by John Brayshaw.

Albright Resumes Regular Schedule

Schnabel Preaches Tomorrow on Last Great Journey of Jesus.

The fall and winter schedule of services will resume at Albright Memorial Evangelical Church, at Fourth and Rittenhouse streets northwest tomorrow. The Sunday school will begin at 9:45 a. m. and the morning service of worship will begin at 11 a. m. The evening service will begin at 8 p. m.

The morning sermon, by the minister, the Rev. George E. Schnabel, will be the first of two on "Last Great Journey of Jesus." In tomorrow's sermon, Jesus will begin his journey to Jerusalem to be crucified. The night's sermon subject will be "A Practical Religion Meets the Twentieth Century."

On Thursday night the first monthly workers' conference and supper will be held at 6:30. Following the workers' conference the quarterly conference will convene, with the Rev. E. C. Rasom presiding.

Bostonian Minister to Speak.

The Rev. Dr. James P. McNaughten, of Boston, for 30 years the representative of the American board in Turkey and noted scholar and student of world affairs, will speak tomorrow morning at the fall rally of the Ingram Memorial Congregational Church at Tenth street and Massachusetts avenue northeast, on "World Battle Fronts of the Cross of 1932."

"Living Bread From Heaven" Topic.

The Rev. Harvey Baker Smith, pastor of the Columbia Heights Christian Church, will take as his sermon subject at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, "Living Bread from Heaven."

Dr. A. J. McCartney Returns to Capital

Covenant-First Pastor to Occupy His Pulpit Tomorrow.

Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, and his family returned to the city, having motored to California and back. During the summer the church has been in charge of the assistant minister, the Rev. J. Woodman Babbitt, and the routine service of the church will be resumed next week. Dr. McCartney will occupy the pulpit tomorrow morning, and his theme will be "New Heart for Old Tasks."

DR. BELL TO PREACH IN CATHEDRAL CHOIR

College Warden Takes Place of Bishop Freeman Who Will Be on Long Island.

The Rev. Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, warden of St. Stephen's College at Annandale-on-the-Hudson and professor of religion on the Columbia University faculty, will preach at both the 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. services in the great Choir of Washington Cathedral tomorrow.

He occupies the pulpit in the afternoon in the absence of the Right Rev. Dr. James E. Freeman, who will be preaching at St. John's Church, Locust Valley, Long Island.

Music for the 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. services will be furnished by the Cathedral Choir of men and boys under the direction of Mr. Edgar Priest, and the evensong will be broadcast over radio station WMAL.

Other services at the cathedral include the celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m. and the reading of morning prayer and the litany at 10 a. m. in the Bethlehem Chapel.

Pilgrimages through the cathedral and to points of special interest within the grounds will be held immediately following the two services in the great choir. Visitors to Washington and local residents who are interested in these pilgrimages should assemble in the Chapel of St. John in the south choir aisle at 12:30 p. m. or 5 p. m.

Plans for commemorating on the Feast of St. Michael and All Angels, September 29, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the laying of the foundation stone of Washington Cathedral, were announced yesterday by Canon Raymond L. Wolven, who will be master of ceremonies for the festival serving of thanksgiving and praise to be held in the great choir at 4 p. m. Bishop Freeman will deliver the commemoration address, and music will be rendered by the Cathedral Choir of men and boys.

One of the features of the musical program will be the singing of the same "Te Deum," which was sung 25 years ago, when the actual building of the Cathedral fabric began on the newly acquired site, then considered remote from the center of the National Capital. The first Bishop of Washington, the late Right Rev. Dr. Henry Yates Satterlee, officiated at the laying of the foundation stone, which was brought from the fields of Bethlehem, in the Holy Land, and inscribed with the words: "The Word Was Made Flesh and Dwelt Among Us." Addresses were delivered on that historic occasion by President Theodore Roosevelt and the Right Rev., the Right Honorable Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram, Lord Bishop of London, who represented the Church of England. A vast congregation, including nearly 20,000 worshipers, attended the service.

The representatives to this meeting of Presbytery from the Central Presbyterian Church will be Dr. James H. Taylor and Elder R. P. Clarke as principal, and Prof. Addison Hogue as alternate.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Central Presbyterian Church, held last week, the death of Maj. J. Altheus Johnson, for over 14 years a member of the board of trustees and for over 50 years a member of the church was recorded, and Prof. Selden M. Ely was appointed to draw up the resolutions for the board of trustees.

The Westminister League has resumed its meetings in the afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Mount Pleasant Church Resumes Regular Worship

The Mount Pleasant Congregational Church will resume its regular Sunday worship services tomorrow morning, following the conclusion of a series of twelve union summer services in cooperation with the Universalist and Unitarian churches. The Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, minister, will preach his opening fall sermon, speaking on "The Dwelling Place of the Eternal."

Beginning immediately following luncheon this afternoon, the officers and members of the faculty of the Mount Pleasant Church School will hold their third annual fall setting-up conference, in which church school workers of other Congregational churches are cooperating.

Under the leadership of Bernard A. Chandler, recently elected school superintendent, and Miss Lois M. Kugler, director of religious education, the conference will discuss and act upon the report of a special committee named last June to formulate a program of Bible study for all departments of the Mount Pleasant school, and adopt a schedule of studies for the year.

The committee, of which Mrs. Grace S. Kizer is chairman, have based their proposed curriculum on the general theme, "Jesus' Ideals and the World Today."

SHARING RESPONSIBILITY.

A controversy has arisen as to who is responsible for the stabilization activities of the Farm Board. Gov. Roosevelt assailed President Hoover for allowing the Farm Board to purchase wheat and cotton in an effort to arrest the fall of prices. But Representative Snell points out that adoption of the policy was urgently requested by Speaker Garner, Senator Robinson, Democratic floor leader in the upper chamber, and a long list of other prominent Democrats, most of them from the Southern agricultural States.

The truth is that both parties share the responsibility. The Farm Board was set up with the coopertaion of the Democratic party. It is an independent and non-political body. The board itself inaugurated the policy of buying up wheat and cotton to stabilize prices, but its decision was doubtless widely influenced by the petitions of both prominent Republicans and Democrats from the agricultural States.

The important issue is not, therefore, who initiated the plan, but the present attitude of the presidential candidates toward it. Nearly every one now admits that the plan was a failure, even though it may have cushioned the fall of agricultural prices. President Hoover, in his acceptance speech, admitted that the board departed from its original purpose, which was to foster the cooperative movement. He does not uphold the stabilization plan. The Farm Board has definitely thrown it overboard, and it is not within the realm of probability that it will ever be used again.

When the Farm Board was set up it was recognized as an experiment. Congress hoped for the best, but every one realized that it had merely given the board a broad mandate to do something for the farmer. When the crisis came representatives of both parties joined in the demand that the board's extraordinary powers be used. But when the experiment failed, the same politicians began to denounce the Farm Board. Even so, the board has not been disconcerted. Failure in one direction resulted in the concentration of its activities in another field where taxpayers' money is not being risked and the chances of actual accomplishment are great.

Elimination of plans by the trial and error method is what was expected from the Farm Board experiment. The surprising thing is that Gov. Roosevelt disapproves of it. He is the foremost advocate of economic experimentation in political life. Indeed his Topeka address promises nothing more than further experimentation with this complicated problem of farm relief. In view of that fact his criticism of past experiments that were urged by distinguished members of his own party will probably not be taken seriously in farming communities.

BARTER WITH THE SOVIET.

Too much significance is being attached to the barter agreement between the Soviet government and the Aluminum Company of Canada. The Soviet is trying to make extensive barter agreements with Canadian, American and other interests, because that country can no longer obtain a sufficient volume of credit to finance its needs. But there is nothing to suggest that the barter method will come into prominent use, at least so far as American exporters are concerned.

The Canadian company has agreed to exchange aluminum wire for crude oil. Wire is essential to the Soviet's electrification program. But Canada is already amply supplied with crude oil products. Consequently, the American oil industry will view this agreement with grave apprehension.

It is understood that both the aluminum wire and the crude oil will be exchanged at cut-rate prices. The companies which are furnishing Canada with gasoline, lubricants, &c., will meet with formidable competition from the products of Soviet crude. Hence, what Canada gains in the sale of wire she will probably lose in demoralization of the oil industry. Probably this Soviet oil will not reach the United States because of the tariff, but it may disturb a number of American interests that furnish Canada with petroleum and its products.

The Canadian-Soviet deal is interesting in this country chiefly because dreamers foresee vast barter agreements between American manufacturers and the Moscow government. Barter agreements can be successful only when the exchange of products does not upset the economic balance in either of the bartering countries. It is true, of course, that Russia needs American machinery, manufactured articles and even food to keep the population from starving. But what does the Soviet have that the United States needs? With the exception of a few minor commodities, there is nothing Russia could sell to this country without disrupting American industries.

Foremost among the products that the Soviet has to sell or barter are oil and coal. Both the coal and oil industries in this country are already distressed by overproduction. Virtually all of the Soviet's exports are raw materials that compete with similar American products. It is absurd to suppose that any economic advantage could be obtained by the dumping of Soviet raw materials in the United States.

The suggestion that barter agreements with the Soviet would initiate a restoration of trade and bring back prosperity is so stupid as to insult the intelligence of the American people. Propagandists harp on this nonsense only because they hope to delude the United States into diplomatic recognition of the Soviet.

POSTAL RETRENCHMENT.

In the heydey of prosperity the public paid little attention to the deficit in the Postoffice Department. Service was the all-important consideration. What did it matter if revenue fell short of expenditures, so long as the public was getting its mail from three to seven times per day and everything in the department was running smoothly?

Today quite a different attitude is noticeable. Extravagance in the postal system is no more to be tolerated than waste in any other form. The public is now more interested in the taxes that are used to make up postal deficits than in the frills of postal service. Postmaster General Brown has taken note of this sentiment, and is making every effort to bring his department once more to a self-supporting basis.

Mr. Brown thinks the postal system expanded its facilities too rapidly, just as did thousands of business concerns during the hilarious days prior to 1929. There might have been some excuse for this expansion if revenues had been increasing to pay for it. But when it became a direct burden upon the taxpayers, retrenchment was in order.

For some time the Postoffice Department attempted to achieve a self-supporting basis through an increase in first-class postal rates, even though the first-class mail was being handled at a profit. Congress did increase first-class rates to three cents last spring in its desperate attempt to balance the budget, but the result is disappointing. Postmaster General Brown reports that even with this 50 per cent increase postal revenue during July and August was about the same as for those two months last year. Predictions that the volume of mail would shrink under the higher rates have come true. This record must be a disappointment to those who expected all of the department's troubles to vanish when the three-cent stamp came into vogue.

Apparently Mr. Brown is convinced that the balance between revenue and expenditures must be brought about in another way. He is looking forward to the restoration of the two-cent postage rate at the earliest possible date. At the same time he is taking steps to reduce expenditures and keep the department at all times within its income. "The only sound theory for the administration of the postal service," he said, "is that, broadly speaking, extensions of the service and the multiplication of facilities for the conveninece of postal patrons should at all times wait upon the adequacy of the revenues to support them." Taxpayers will voice enthusiastic accord with this policy.

A FEDERAL TAX SYSTEM.

Prof. Robert Murray Haig, of Columbia University, has worked out a novel scheme to avoid duplication of tax machinery and tax burdens. His plan was presented to the National Taxation Conference as the only solution for the existing conflict and waste involved in collection of Federal, State, county, municipal and other forms of taxes. He would have Uncle Sam collect all taxes and distribute the money to local agencies.

It matters not to Prof. Haig that this scheme would destroy the States and convert all local government into administrative units under control of Federal bureaucracy. He wastes no time in consideration of that aspect of the problem. What appeals to the professor is that "Federal administration offers, on the whole, fewer difficulties and greater rewards" than any other system. He pictures the "indignation of citizenship" arising out of the inefficiency of taxing system as sweeping away "high-sounding talk" about States' rights. Everything would be sacrificed on the altar of efficiency.

Why does not the professor advocate the outright abolition of the States in the interests of efficiency? That would save them from slow strangulation by bureaucracy under his plan for a national tax system. It is ridiculous to suppose that the States could retain their sovereignty and the right to control their own local affairs if they surrendered the taxing power to Congress.

Under ordinary circumstances an idea that is so impractical would go unnoticed. But as a matter of fact, the States have already surrendered a good deal of their taxing powers to Congress on the theory that money can be more easily obtained by levies imposed upon the people by the Federal Government. Road construction is a local function, but the States have prevailed upon Uncle Sam to furnish them vast sums of money for that purpose. Consequently, Uncle Sam found it necessary at the last session of Congress to levy a tax on gasoline. Heretofore that source of revenue was exclusively reserved for State and local governments.

Every time the States come to Washington for funds Congress must enter further into the field of State taxes. Absurd as Prof. Haig's scheme sounds, the present tendency is in that direction. Unless the States lay greater stress upon their responsibility to finance their own needs, this tendency toward centralization may be expected to continue.

Advocates of a unified Federal taxing system do not take into consideration the certainty of waste and extravagance where one governmental unit collects money for another unit to spend. Irresponsibility for the collection of taxes might easily lead to greater abuses than now exist under the duplicate taxing systems. A program of coordination between Federal and State agencies and of consolidation within the States can be evolved without endangering the basis of local government or opening new avenues of extravagance and irresponsibility.

BUSINESS REALITIES.

It is gratifying to note that the reports of improvement from various sections of the country turned this week from stock market quotations and assurances of renewed confidence to facts indicating better business and increased employment. No competent observer denies that security values have been advancing faster than actual improvement as reflected by industrial activity. The increase in commodity prices and better feeling with regard to the security of the banking and monetary systems brought buyers of stocks and bonds back into the market before the effects of expanded credit and the Government's business aids had time to be translated into actual business improvement.

The results of all these factors are now beginning to be seen. Preliminary indications regarding the August report on employment are that it will show the first upturn in industrial work in two years. Prices covering the Commerce Department's survey of more than 700 commodities continue to show an increase for the week.

Better wholesale buying has been the natural result of increased retail trade reported throughout the nation. The long-awaited upturn in the steel industry has appeared. In all lines of trade the exhaustion of supplies and stocks portends large orders.

Important as showing actual expansion of business activity are the increased car loadings and higher figures for consumption of electric energy. The power gain of 3.6 per cent this month is important, but its real significance is shown by a comparison with the decline that was taking place a year ago. The influence of the extensive reconstruction projects fostered by the Government is beginning to be felt, but the many millions that will be expended during the coming months may be counted upon to make important contributions to the general increase of business already under way. The panicky feeling that prevailed in business has disappeared. Factories, merchants and individuals, for the first time in three years, are planning business programs that mean spending instead of curtailment. The sum total of this changed attitude is beginning to appear in actual figures of increased buying and production.

Premier Herriot has written a letter to Senator Borah, mistaking him for the United States Government. He should have addressed it to Nicholas Murray Butler.

ANCIENT BANKS

By CLIFFORD B. REEVES in the American Mercury.

The earliest banks, if such they can be called, date back many centuries before the Christian era, and were generally conducted by governments in an attempt to prevent plunder of the money they had issued.

The early places of business were usually the temples. The cuneiform writings disclose, however, that as early as 600 B. C. private banks were known in Babylonia. The firm of Egibi & Son, of Babylon, is the first private banking house of which record survives, its name perhaps setting the precedent for the nepotism that has ever since characterized the business.

But to a banker named Caicus, at Alexandria, in 260 B. C., must go the credit for offering what appears to be the first banking service really deserving of the name. He paid interest on deposits, permitted withdrawals upon demand, and kept his bank open for business every hour of the day and night.

Despite its auspicious start, banking gradually came into public disfavor, and that disfavor culminated in a prohibition of interest during the reign of Alexander Severus of Rome, at the time when that country was dominant in world affairs.

The fecundity of money came to be regarded as a monstrous thing, and in the course of time the Jews were the only people willing to brave the storm of criticism that met every attempt to establish banks. They organized what were known as poverty banks, or lending houses, and by the fifth century of our era these makeshift banks were the only lending institutions in Italy.

The effect of the long interdiction of interest by pope and emperor was a virtual paralysis of trade. All commercial enterprise waned, and poverty seized the land. The period is still known as the Dark Ages. The abhorrence of interest, however, gradually declined, and during the eighth century the monks took over the poverty banks from the Jews.

This covert recognition of banking by the church did much to restore it to its former good estate, and it gained rapidly in prestige during the next two centuries, when the popes confirmed formally the right to charge interest and to demand adequate collateral on loans.

As a member of the Legion, it seems nothing less than insulting to suggest that legionnaires don't know what the bonus is or when it is due. They want the cash now because they want it now, and think they can bull their demands through.

There is still some discussion as to whether Franklin D. is a chip off the block that gave us Teddy or a chip on the family shoulder.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ROBBIE BURNS' WAY.

When Robert Burns went 'round about
On mantel piece or chimney wall,
In lieu of gold he lived without,
Some gem of poesy he'd scrawl.
To homes which sheltered him he gave
A touch of beauty all might crave.

Despised at times by men of power,
And scorned by bigots, overgood,
He found God's love in every flower
And told of it whene'er he could.
He never quit a friendly door,
But left it richer than before.

A minister, as poor as he,
Once made him welcome for the night
And found next morning, for his fee,
A prayer that only Burns could write;
A poem, never to grow old,
Purer and lovelier than gold.

Sometimes in bitterness he penned
Against the shams of pomp and pride,
But wheresoe'er he found a friend
He left what fortune can't provide:
Immortal beauty and a joy
Past Time's harsh changes to destroy.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE: Yesterday I heard one of your girl friends, bent on getting a profit for herself at your expense, urging you to be a sport.

That has become a common plea—a bait used by the selfish—and you must learn to despise it.

Young men use it often. I have heard them. And invariably they use it to mask a trap.

It is a subtle kind of flattery, and there is no truth in it. It says, in effect: "If you will do as I wish, you will prove yourself a good sport." But that isn't true. If you foolishly surrender to another's will, you merely prove yourself a weakling and a simpleton.

"Oh, come on! Be a sport about it!" How many frightened and unhappy women hear that urging and are tricked by it!

Girls, afraid to seem afraid, violate their common sense and risk both reputation and honor. Wives, abused and betrayed and neglected, silence their just protests and resign themselves to injustice.

When a man urges his wife to be a sport, he means to say: "Stand by without complaint while I go my merry way. Eat lonely crusts at home while I make whoopee. Suffer in order that I may indulge myself."

When youngsters urge you to be a sport, they usually add: "Are you afraid?" That is supposed to fetch you. Everybody wishes to seem brave.

But let me tell you something about bravery. It is seldom the fine thing it seems.

A man is not afraid to walk to his front gate. Therefore the act requires no courage. What then of the fiction hero who "doesn't know the meaning of fear?" He may have no courage at all. If he can walk into battle without a sense of fear, he needs no more courage than the man walking to his front gate. The brave man is the one who drives his trembling legs forward when fear has turned his heart to ice. Doing the harder thing in spite of fear is what requires courage.

If you try to prove your bravery by "being a sport," you do precisely the opposite. You follow the easier course. You surrender because you are afraid to risk criticism or ridicule.

I want you to be a sport in the right sense—cheerful in defeat, humble in victory, generous, fair, brave, accepting the inevitable without whining.

But, oh, my dear, take counsel of your own ideals and your own common sense and let no trickster make a fool of you by means of empty flattery. Love, DAD.

When the Senate Convenes.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

However the Republicans fare in the November election with regard to the next Congress, it is now more than probable that they will be unable to organize the Senate when the lame-duck session convenes in December. Since the 1930 election, the Republicans have controlled the Senate by a single vote. They have had 48 members, the Democrats 47 and the Farmer-Laborites one.

This precarious advantage has now been removed by the death of Senator Charles W. Waterman, of Colorado, a one-term Republican. His successor will be elected in November, to take office in December. That he will be a Republican seems far from probable when it is remembered that Colorado chose Democrats for governor and senator two years ago, and that since then dissatisfaction with the present national administration has increased as conditions in the mountain region have become worse.

$50,000,000 Voters the Goal.

Houston Post.

Four years ago 37,000,000 votes, approximately, were cast in the national election. This November there should be 50,000,000 votes cast when Hoover and Roosevelt are pitted against each other, the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce thinks. So the chamber is working to get out the 50,000,000.

As a starter in the campaign, the committees of the chamber are seeking pledges from 5,000,000 young Americans who have come of age this year, and are therefore entitled to vote, that they will go to the polls and cast their ballots. The pledge campaign is said to be progressing satisfactorily.

G. O. P. Defeat.

Boston Transcript.

Whether regarded as a local contest or one with national implications, the result of the Maine election is a Republican defeat of the first magnitude. In the election of governor and two congressmen, the Democrats have won their first victory in eighteen years. The 82,000 plurality for Gov. Gardiner in 1928 has disappeared. Nobody expected that it would be duplicated this year, but there were Republican hopes of a victory with a sufficient majority over the Democratic candidate to justify the claim that Maine remained safely in the Republican column. Instead there is a margin on the side of the Democrats.

Family Grabs.

Minneapolis Journal.

If the public wants to clean up unconscionable nepotism, now is the time. In normal periods, with jobs plentiful, voters are not particularly concerned whether Congressman Doe's $5,000 clerk hire allowance goes to his wife and daughter. But in a depression such as the present one, the presence of Mrs. Doe and Miss Doe on the Government payroll, even when they are actually earning the money paid to them, keeps out of employment two other competent persons desperately in need of work.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Change of Diet Has Worked Havoc With Farm Products—People Do Not Eat Enough.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It's rather astonishing that in all the argument over the farm relief problem little if any emphasis has been laid upon a development in American life which is partly, and perhaps chiefly, responsible for the plight of the agricultural centers today.

When I was a boy my mother often got up at 5 o'clock to have a hot breakfast ready for my father an hour later. She boiled potatoes, made biscuits or a johnny-cake, fried meat, opened up a can of preserves and placed a hearty meal on the table. When my father went to work he took a well-filled dinner pail along.

The rest of the family had a substantial repast in the morning and a fairly heavy meal at noon—then called dinner. At night there was an even wider range of eatables—and considerable lunching was done between meals besides. This was the normal way of living then.

Consider how it has changed since. Millions today eat nothing for breakfast but a bit of fruit, toast or muffins and coffee. For luncheon they dash out to an armchair cafeteria and have a sandwich, a salad and a glass of milk. The one heavy meal of the day is served in the evening, and even that is but a shadow of the suppers eaten 25 years ago.

The Nation-wide campaign to popularize the eating of fruit had as its effect a sharp decline in the consumption of vegetables until finally the latter all but vanished from the breakfast table. Then the drive against overweight and obesity began, which had its culmination in the Hollywood eighteen-day diet which swept the country not so long ago. Propaganda against white bread, pastry and potatoes, on the ground that they overloaded the system with starch, served further to curtail the use of these staples. The result was a constantly shrinking domestic market for farm products as the United States became a Nation of diet-watchers and fat-reducers.

One does not have to be a deep student of economics to realize that if the agricutural market dwindles steadily while production remains constant or is increased, a huge surplus will be the inevitable result. And until a way can be found to repeal the law of supply and demand, a big surplus will glut the market place and depress prices to less than cost of production levels.

Thousands of families have not used a single loaf of white bread this year. The falling off in the consumption of pastry must have reached an impressive total, yet there are few signs that the farmers realize or have even an inkling of the revolution wrought in eating habits since the turn of the century.

Efforts to solve the farm problem which do not take into consideration the general tightening of belts since the gay 90's are hardly likely to have any lasting effects. Unless the farmers themselves can induce people to become good trenchermen again they are faced with the certainty that they must halve their output. Statistics are lacking, but probably half of the food raised in the United States during 1932 would feed our entire population comfortably and leave a large exportable surplus besides if a foreign market for the residue exists.

A. S. BEANE.

Democrat Thinks Candidate Roosevelt Does Not Approve of Condemning Hoover for Eviction of Bonus Rioters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As an independent Democrat—that is, as a Democrat who is not entirely hidebound—I am just now so joyed up by the Maine election news that I feel like letting you know there is one follower of Roosevelt who does not approve of the campaign strategy which misrepresents the facts in an attempt to show that President Hoover was unnecessarily stern in dealing with the bonus "army."

And I feel pretty sure there are several million more Jacksonians who are ashamed of what our misinformed party managers—they must be misinformed if they are real Americans—are doing in this connection.

I do not believe this reckless picturing of our President as cold-blooded and bloody-minded—and its worst effect will be to weaken the authority of the United States Government in the minds of the ignorant—has the approval of Candidate Roosevelt. I would not be surprised if he should publicly disown it, and having some faith in the common sense conservatism of the great mass of the American people, I feel certain he would not lose any votes and might gain some by so doing.

Says Bonus Marchers Cast Doubt on Integrity of Government.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What I can't understand is why there should be so much talk about the number of lawbreakers and other undesirables in the ranks of the contingent of the bonus marchers who were forced to leave the District when they became a menace. What they did in coming here is the all-important consideration. For one thing, they gave their Government a bad name in the minds of the uninformed and thoughtless by insisting that the bonus is a debt which the Government had repudiated, when the truth is that the bonus will not be due for several years. Thus they gave ignorant Americans and foreigners ground for doubting the integrity of the United States.

If the bonus army had been made up of the pick of our best citizens this misrepresentation of their Government and their defiance of Federal and local authority would stamp them as bad actors.

Ambassador Muhtar Gives Informal Tea At Embassy

THE AMBASSADOR OF TURKEY, MR. AHMET MUHTAR, entertained at a small and informal tea yesterday afternoon in the embassy on Massachusetts avenue. The party was merely for the sake of exchanging tales of summer vacations and renewing friendships of the past winter.

Mr. Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo has returned to Washington and is at the Mayflower until he moves to his apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue.

The Attorney General and Mrs. William DeWitt Mitchell left Southampton, Long Island, yesterday for Oyster Bay, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Nathan L. Miller, at Norwich House. Later they will visit the Undersecretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Arthur A. Ballantine in their summer home, Council Rock. The Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell plan to return to Washington the latter part of the month.

Six Farm Pickets Sentenced to Jail

Iowa City and County Authorities Plan Road Clearing as Militia Is Refused.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Sioux City and Woodbury County authorities worked secretly tonight on plans to clear highways about here of farm holiday pickets after State military aid was refused them by Gov. Dan Turner.

The executive said he believed "negotiations now pending would iron out difficulties in the situation which has laid an embargo on truck shipments of farm products into Sioux City since the National Farmers' Holiday Association opened a campaign for higher agricultural prices more than a month ago."

Meanwhile, Police Judge H. R. Kenaston sentenced six pickets, found guilty of unlawful assembly, to 30 day jail sentences, or $100 fines each. Double penalties were imposed on two convicted also of disorderly conduct. The charges grew out of an attack on a blockade runner. All sentences were appealed to the district court. Picketing in an attempt to keep farm produce from markets continued quietly near here.

"Buy-Now" Drive Is Urged on Cities

(Associated Press.)

A "buy now" campaign in "government housekeeping" so that towns, cities and States may take advantage of present lof prices, and their dollars start the wheels of industry turning, is urged by Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Poole has asked club women to visit their governors and mayors and urge them to place orders for office furniture, street cleaning apparatus, park benches and clothing and housing needs of the more than half million public wards in hospitals, orphanages and reformatories.

"We hope to carry on even into every county until efficiency characterizes Government purchase, and a full measure of return is had from every dollar of taxpayers' money spent in Government housekeeping," she said yesterday.

Special Relief Session Urged by Khaki Shirts

(Associated Press.)

Three officers of the Khaki Shirts of America, an organization of unemployed, yesterday presented at the White House a statement containing a plea that President Hoover call an extra session of Congress to enact appropriations to care for those out of work.

R. B. Ellison, national organizer, E. F. Everett, treasurer, and L. W. Walde, secretary, presented the statement to one of the President's secretaries.

Sherrill Cotton Mills Back on Full Schedule

(Associated Press.)

Kaye Don Marries Greenwich Heiress

Fails in Harmsworth Trophy Quest, but Wins Bride on Visit to U.S.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Kaye Don lost the Harmsworth Trophy race, but won a bride.

The 40-year-old dapper British speed demon disclosed the fact that he was a bridegroom as he sailed for home tonight without his bride—21-year-old Eileen Martin, daughter of the wealthy and socially prominent Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Martin, of Greenwich, Conn. She had some "business affairs" to wind up, he explained, but will sail next week to join him in England, and then they will go to Italy for a honeymoon.

Don said the ceremony was performed in Greenwich yesterday, but would give no other details. He and his bride first met in New York a year ago, when he first made his unsuccessful attempt to take the Harmsworth speedboat trophy from Gar Wood.

Red Men Pick Baltimore For 1934 Convention

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The national convention of Improved Order Red Men chose Baltimore as its 1934 biennial convention city, indorsed a reduction of membership per capita fees, placed a per capita tax on auxiliary members and adjourned here today after a six-day meeting. The organization will celebrate its 100th anniversary in Baltimore two years hence where the order was founded in 1834.

In the final business session today, delegates indorsed a 5-cent per capita tax for members of the auxiliary and reduced the per capita fee for Red Men members from 30 cents to 25 cents. A bill was passed providing State councils with power to make provisions for life memberships.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION FOR THE FISHERMAN'S COLLEGE.

* * * *

Part I. Character, Aptitude, &c.

1—What fishing experience have you had, and never mind the one about the salmon that pulled you overboard?

2—State the size and weight of the largest fish you ever caught, as briefly as possible, in order that we may have it over with at once.

3—Do you fish for sport, rest or solitude? Or is it one of those things you just can't explain?

4—Do you really enjoy fishing, or do you dress like President Hoover and Calvin Coolidge when in a trout stream?

5—Are there any other fishermen in your family, or are you the only liar?

Part II. General Knowledge.

1—Give, in not more than 100 words, an explanation why a man with a line and a can of worms is not necessarily a fisherman.

2—Do you take any stock in all those types of bass, pickerel and salmon plugs, or have you a hunch that the fish coud be just as easily caught by casting with a dinner bell, a radiator ornament, a rubber doll or a decorated clothespin?

3. What is the difference (to the fish, we mean) between one of those silver spinners and an aluminum shoehorn.

4. How many types of dry flies are there, and do you know any funnier racket?

5. Do you think that even the fishing supply store salesman knows the purpose of all those plugs, lures and gadgets?

6. Describe a sailfish, and for the sake of brevity, not the one that got away.

7. What is the difference between a rainbow, a speckled and a brown trout? And how would the average fisherman ever know?

Part III. Problems.

1. Why will a man 6 feet tall, who lives next door to a fish market 50 feet long by 35 feet wide, travel 175 miles in the rain to catch a fish 7 inches long, weighing half a pound and too bony to eat?

2. There are 36 men fishing in a rough sea in open boats. What proportion of these men are there because they want fish? What proportion because they know of no better way to get away from their wives for a day? What proportion because they are hiding from somebody?

3. If it takes a real Montauk fisherman 7 days 11 hours 36 minutes to catch a tuna weighing 78 pounds, how many minutes will it take a Palm Beach winter tourist to be photographed beside a sailfish 15 feet long weighing 217 pounds and 9 ounces?

4. "A" is a candidate for the Presidency and does not fish at all; "B" is a candidate for the same office and fishes whenever the news reel men request it; which will get the votes of the American people on election day, and how in the world can it be explained?

ETIQUETTE.

Federal Judge Refuses Rail Engineers' Petition

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Ruling that such matters should be taken before the board of mediation in Washington rather than into court, Federal Judge Luther B. Way declined a petition of six Georgia engineers that, upon their discharge, they be permitted to revert to the rank of firemen under the terms of an agreement entered into between the Seaboard Air Line Railway Co. and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in 1928.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

ONE of America's greatest races, the Belmont Futurity, which is worth $122,220, will be described over Station WMAL at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon.

The thirteenth running of the Jockey Club Gold Cup Race, scheduled for 3:40 p. m., will also be described.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be heard throughout the country over the C. B. S. and N. B. C. WJZ networks at 9:15 o'clock tonight, when he addresses a political gathering in the Mormon Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Utah. Station WMAL will distribute the address locally.

A program made up entirely of representative music from Brazil, Argentina, Colombia, Mexico and Cuba will be presented during the broadcast of "Erno Rapee in Latin America" over WRC at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The featured soloists will be Julian Oliver, tenor, and Viola Philo, soprano.

UNITED STATES ATTORNEY GENERAL WILLIAM D. MITCHELL will be heard in a special Constitution Day address over WRC at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Mitchell, speaking from New York under the auspices of the American Bar Association, Federal Bar Association and George Washington Bicentennial Commission, will be introduced by Chester I. Long, former president of the American Bar Association.

Newton D. Baker will be heard over the WEAF network, but not WRC., at 1:15 o'clock today as he addresses a meeting of the Cleveland Bar Association, on the subject of "The Constitution in a Changing Society."

Mrs. William O. Pouch, vice president general of the D. A. R., will talk on "Constitution Day and the D. A. R." over WRC at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

William Lincoln, conducting another program of typical melodies from the Hawaiian Islands, will offer a study of the various types of the native Hula dance during the broadcast tonight (WMAL, 9:45 o'clock). The opening will be a lively selection, "Kuwiliwili" ("Topsy-Turvy"), to be followed by a yodel, "Lei E," an instrumental waltz, "Me Le O Hawaii," a descriptive ballad, "Na Wai Kaulana" and a peppy selection, "Maui, No Ka Oi."

FRANKIE MASTERS and his orchestra, playing from Chicago, and Vincent Lopez and his orchestra, playing from Milwaukee, will furnish the tunes for tonight's Lucky Strike Dance Hour (WRC, 9 o'clock).

Immediate payment of the bonus will be debated pro and con by Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C., retired, and Gen. John F. O'Ryan, wartime commander of the Twenty-seventh Division of the A. E. F., during the National Grange program (WRC, 12:30 o'clock) today.

DESPITE the severe slump in income which hit both networks during July and August, N. B. C. and Columbia came through the first eight months of the current year with a combined lead of close to 18 per cent over the same stretch for 1931, Variety reports, and adds:

"Between them the chains have, up to September 1, taken in from time sales $26,670,485, as compared to $22,681,485 for the same stretch last year.

"Yet, as distinct as was the setback this summer, it was figured that the networks will not only regain this lost ground through October-December, deemed the three best months on the broadcasting calendar, but will wind up 1932 with record grosses. Columbia has only $3,000,000 to go to match its full 1931 gross of $11,895,039, while N. B. C. is within $8,000,000 of last year's final count-up, $25,607,041."

Senator W. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey; M. J. Flynn, executive secretary of the American Wage Earners' Protective Association, and J. Cheever Cowdin, vice president of the Bancamerica Blair Corporation, will speak over WRC at 11:45 a. m. today in connection with the American Legion's trade revival program.

Jersey Official Named In Shortage Resigns

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Vice Chancellor Alonzo B. Church, dropped from the State pay roll last May, today submitted his resignation, contingent upon the payment of back salary from the time his name was struck from the pay roll until the resignation becomes effective.

Chancellor Edwin Robert Walker demanded Church's resignation after discovery of an alleged shortage of $185,000 in the accounts of Harry G. Hendricks, who was appointed by Church as a coreceiver for the Earl Radio Corporation. When Church refused to resign, the chancellor filed an order removing him from active participation in chancery court affairs and instructing the clerk to remove Church's name from the pay roll.

LOAN PLAN IS VOTED BY FRENCH CHAMBER

Would Save $52,000,000 and Lead to Cut in Living Costs, Is Claim.

Paris (Saturday), Sept. 17 (A.P.).—The French chamber early this morning adopted the government's bill for converting government bond issues, totaling about $3,400,000,000 to a new issue bearing 4½ per cent interest.

The vote on the measure, which is the largest conversion scheme ever undertaken, was 540 to 48.

It is the first item in a plan which, Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin told the deputies, will include balancing the 1933 budget and a number of measures aiming at intensifying production and stimulating home and foreign commerce.

Lucien Lamoureux, budget reporter, informed the chamber that reasonable success of the scheme would save the state 1,320,000,000 francs (approximately $52,000,000), and that 826,000,000 of this total would afford direct relief for the heavy deficit in the budget.

The issues affected would be the 5 per cent rentes of 1915-16 and 1928, the 6 per cent issues of 1920 and 1927, the 6 per cent obligations of 1927 and 7 per cent treasury bonds of that year.

In speaking for the bill, Louis Germain-Martin said it would start a general reduction of interest rates, leading to reduction in the cost of living.

The new bonds would mature in 75 years. Small holders' perpetual rentes would be provided by a system of life payment scaled in accordance with the government's old-age pension system. All present bondholders would be given the option of reimbursement or conversion at par within six days after passage of the bill.

It was expected that both branches of Parliament would approve the measure without delay. This was the first special session since 1920.

Foes of Arms Gain, Dr. Woolley Avers

Delegate to Geneva Parley Sees Public Opinion Growing in Power.

Northampton, Mass., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—President Mary E. Woolley, of Mount Holyoke College, a United States delegate to the recent Geneva disarmament conference, tonight said world public opinion was stronger than ever before for disarmament. She spoke at the first regional conference of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom in her first public appearance since her return from Geneva.

Advising the conference it had an excellent opportunity because of its international affiliations to bring influence to bear upon other countries, President Woolley said:

"Never has world public opinion been so strongly in favor of disarmament as it is today. Now is the time to make it effective in its pressure upon the governments of the countries represented in the general disarmament conference."

Virginia Senators Press Departmental Inquiry

Richmond, Va., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Investigation of the conduct of State departments, with economy in view, was continued today by the special committee of the State Senate appointed for the work. The commission includes Senators R. O. Norris, of Lancaster; W. M. Tuck, of Halifax, and Maj. Hillard, of Portsmouth.

Recently department heads were requested to fill out questionnaires pertaining to the work, and personnel of their departments. Most of today was spent in studying the replies. Recommendations of the committee are to be made to the State Senate of 1934.

Oysters Frozen in Shell Shipped With Success

(Associated Press.)

Another boon to year-round oyster consumption is being developed by a New Zealand firm. The Commerce Department revealed that oysters frozen in the shell had been shipped from the island dominion to London.

Shipment of unfrozen shell oysters is common in this country, and considerable progress has been made, the department said, in the development of methods for freezing shucked oysters.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Mexico City, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Mexico today began a three-day celebration of the 122d anniversary of its independence. The celebration was officially opened last night by President Rodriguez with the traditional "Grito," or cry of independence, from the balcony of the central palace.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Gen. Bartolome Blanche, acting president of Chile since the resignation of Carlos Davila early this week, signed a decree today providing for presidential elections October 30. The decree, which followed the capture yesterday of Col. Arturo Merino Benitez, rebel air force commander, and his aviator followers, was accompanied by the release of a number of political prisoners.

London, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—President Eamon De Valera of the Irish Free State will spend Monday in London on the way to Geneva, where he will preside at a meeting of the League of Nations Assembly. No arrangements have been made for him to see Prime Minister MacDonald, but it was thought likely he would call on J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, to discuss outstanding issues between the Free State and Great Britain.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Church of England officials said today they would not bring charges against John Machray, former chancellor of the diocese of Rupert's Land, in connection with discovery of shortages in funds which he controlled. Machray already faces charges of theft in connection with shortages in University of Manitoba funds. He was former bursar of the university. An auditor's report today placed shortages in church funds at $860,000.

Moscow, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Instead of the general improvement heralded for 1932, a decrease in Soviet Russia's food production for eight months of this year as compared with the same period in 1931 was revealed in government statistics today. There has been a serious shortage in sugar, meat and salt for some months and these conditions, combined with disappointing progress of the harvest, may presage a hard winter.

Paris, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—United States Ambassador Mellon arrived here today from London on the way to luncheon in the French Pyrenees where he will spend a fortnight to cure a slight cold.

Welland, Ont., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The county council will ask the Canadian government to prohibit nonresidents of Canada from bringing firearms into the dominion during the closed hunting season, it was announced today. The move aims at American hunters who allegedly shot game in Canada during the closed season.

Athens, Greece, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The political situation is becoming more tense in Greece with the approach of a general election scheduled for September 25. Government information has confirmed a report that monarchists on the Island of Corfu have said that if they obtain a majority they will abolish the Democratic constitution. The government has sent a warship with troops to the island to maintain order.

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—A joint committee of mill owners and employes reached a preliminary agreement today on the procedure for arbitrating the strike in the cotton industry. On Monday they will take up the troublesome questions of wages and reinstatements of striking workers.

Montreal, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—About 800 horses were saved in a fire today which destroyed a large building of the east end cattle market and abattoir. More than 100 firemen braved flames and intense heat to rescue the animals. Two firemen and a small boy were injured. Ten hogs died in the fire.

Brigus, Newfoundland, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Unveiling of a 60-foot-high monument in honor of Admiral Robert Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, at Cape York, Greeland, on August 21, was described by the crew of the schooner Effie M. Morissey, which arrived today. Mrs. Marie Peary Stafford, daughter of Admiral Peary, pulled the cord that bared the great shaft before a group of Americans and Eskimos.

Paris, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—There was a report today in the lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies that Jean Renaitour, a member of the chamber, had recommended that Premier Herriot lift the ban of exclusio imposed two years ago on William Randolph Hearst, American publisher.

Mexico City, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Word from Tampico today said Gov. Castellanos of the State of Tamaulipas was recovering after an operation for acute appendicitis.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Two of his monogrammed hankies make a perfectly lovely sleeveless blouse or vestee! (A Dah-ray Idea).

IF I had an enclyco—I would look up handkerchief for you. Oh, yes, I often do—I mean, it is so instructive, the enclyco—we find the strangest things in it. Why, we would even find out all about the origin of handkerchief, if we had our encyclo here—why, yes, we would even find out how to spell it!

Because handkerchiefs are so very quaintly and importantly a part of elegance. Guess I had better put you out of your misery and tell you why I haven't my enclyoopedia here, then—'tis because it's at Dawn Mirage, and I ain't—so now you know.

Well, as I was saying, handkerchiefs. Why, nowadays we wear them for scarfs, for girdles, for panties—and even for bathing suits, as you know. And as for vestees and blouses, well, you have never really lived, my deah, until you see one that you particularly like, in his pocket, and with a long drawn-out o-oh-h-h-h-h-h-h-h-, grab it and ask for another—and make yourself a little sleeveless blouse or vestee like the one I designed, made and sketched for you today.

And as for making yourself a sleeveless vestee or blouse out of two bandana handketchiefs, well—just try that one on your fall suit! Better cut out the illustration, and follow it in the making of these gadgets—because the lapels are a very important part of this little garment, 'specially when the monograms in the corner are in the corners, and simply must show—as illustrated.

In case you can't simply follow the sketch, send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet which will tell you exactly how to make the blouse-vestee sketched today. It is a wee bit tricky, at that—so with the leaflet you can probably do better. And then, our delightful editor only bee-lieves in us when we get flocks of letters, you know.

OUR WEE FRENCH LESSON.

Naturellement!

Which, as you have probably guessed, means "naturally!" and is pronounced "nah-tur-l-mahn."

• • • •

Ready for the coldest weather is the detachable skirt worn over the plaid woolen frock—the skirt in wool, too, and in one color of the plaid, a solid color, of course. We just leave the skirt open down the front or side so that the plaid dress shows through.

'Nif your belt is built right into your coat—'specially if it is of leather, much the better, or smarter! Or if you want to be so very smart—as well as smart as the word was once used—take a leather belt down to the harness maker's and have it studded with big nail heads. And, oh, yes, wear it, of course!

Or, sh-h-h-h-h—have his monogram made into links, and the links joined, and the whole made into a belt . . . or bracelet.

Au Revoir.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PROTECTING AGAINST SLEEPING SICKNESS.

LESS than twenty years ago physicians began to recognize a disease which, to them, was new. It is possible that it was as new as it appeared to them to be. At first it was known as sleeping sickness. Since there was a well-established African disease having that name, and the new one had a different cause, channels of spreading and symptoms, it was advisable to find another name for the new disease.

One proposal was to call it European sleeping sickness. Then the name lethargic encephalitis was proposed. Finally the word encephalitis remained as a part of the new name and such adjectives as epidemic, post-vaccinal and virus were added.

This is a very severe disease. It is fatal to about 40 out of each 100 cases who have it, and of the 60 who escape with their lives there are many who have some after effect. One peculiarity is that occasionally a person with a normal, social personality and some strength of character before the illness will develop in its wake changed personality, lack of character, antisocial personality or criminal tendencies.

One variety of encephalitis is very apt to follow any one of several diseases. A person has a severe cold and then a succeeding attack of encephalitis. Or the primary disease may be measles or a disease of that group.

Health officials are very unhappy because this form of encephalitis occasionally follows vaccination, being then referred to as post-vaccinal encephalitis. It is regarded as unfortunate to have it follow measles, smallpox or earache, but it is still more so for it to come in the wake of a produced disorder, such as vaccination. In consequence, an unusual amount of study has been devoted to this type of encephalitis. Experience soon taught that the danger was greatest when an adult had been vaccinated successfully for the first time in his life. On the other hand, children vaccinated when less than 2 years of age never developed encephalitis in the wake of vaccination. This meant that vaccination in early childhood was safe so far as this danger was concerned, and seemed to make vaccination in adult life safe also.

It is accepted that post-vaccinal encephalitis is not the result of such accidents as pus infection, lockjaw infection or other similar accidents occurring at the time of vaccination or during the two or three weeks of vaccinia.

Dr. Charles Armstrong, of the United States Public Health Service, offers a new plan of prevention. It is to immunize the baby against diphtheria by an injection of toxoid at 6 months of age, and another of the same sort at 7 months, and to follow with smallpox vaccination at 8 months. If immunization has been neglected in the first year of life, he suggests that the plan be followed in the second year at, say, 18, 19 and 20 months, or, if still later in childhood, that the three inoculations be given at intervals of one month, the first two with diphtheria toxoid, the third with smallpox. Thus the child is protected against two important diseases of childhood and the danger of encephalitis is obviated.

Dr. Armstrong is not dogmatic about the plan. He thinks it is in accord with facts that have been accumulating since 1916. The results of certain laboratory experiments appear to sustain the proposal. He therefore asks that it be given a trial.

RABIES SERUM.

Mrs. E. P. B. writes:

1. Does the serum given to prevent rabies harm the heart in any way?

2. What does a pulse of 88 in a child of 5 indicate?

REPLY.

1. No.

2. It may not mean anything. It may mean fever, infection, tuberculosis, nervousness. Goiter is an even more remote possibility.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

DEAR MISS PIERCE: I follow your column daily and find it a great help. I would like to know what colors are becoming to me. I have brown hair, blue eyes and a medium complexion. I am very fond of jade green. Is it becoming to me? I also bite my nails. Is there anything I can do to stop this awful habit? MARY.

My dear Mary: Jade green and all the soft shades of green and blue-green should be very becoming; the soft, rich shades of blue and blue-violet; black with color accents, gold, the rosy shades of gray; dark shades of orchid, purple; yellow and white should all be very becoming to you.

As for the nail biting, the best way to overcome the habit is to make an effort to strengthen your will power and avoid the biting. Have your nails manicured once, beautifully, and keep "fussing with them." Use an emery board for a few minutes every night and push back the cuticle after washing. When you see how simple it is to keep the nails beautiful and how ugly a nail looks after biting, I think you will stop. Paint the nails with tincture of aloes, if you wish, or castor oil to give the nails a bitter taste and help discourage your biting them.

• • • •

Reducing a Too Round Face.

Dear Miss Pierce: I have used facial exercises to uplift the muscles and now with my naturally big-boned, broad face, I am positively rotund. Please tell me what I can do about it. A. B. C.

Dear A. B. C.: It is difficult to reduce the face without reducing the rest of the body. If you are generally overweight, send self-addreased envelope for my reducing leaflet.

You can apply make-up to make your face look less round. Rouge in toward the nose and below the cheek bones. And comb your hair so that it will make your face look slimmer. My bulletin on coiffures contains many hints for this purpose.

Dear Miss Pierce: I am 15 and have found quite a few solid gray hairs in my head. My mother's hair is almost white, but she has never given it more than ordinary care. I am sure it is not from worry or overwork or heredity, because I am very different from my mother. My hair is coarse and curly, thick, and neither dry nor oily. I wash it at least every two weeks. How can I prevent my hair from getting gray? LENORE.

Dear Lenore: Though you may be different from your mother . . . many traits, the tendency to premature graying may be inherited. Brushing and vigorous massage may help to ward off the graying. Also, make sure that you are in perfect physical health. Warm oil treatment the night before shampooing may help. I suggest that you simply cut the few gray hairs out. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for my bulletin on hair care and for your mother I have a bulletin called "Growing Gray Gracefully."

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What Today Means to You

"VIIRGO."

IF September 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The stars foretell for September 17 a day of countless worries and troubles, nothing very serious, but of the pin-pricking variety, molehills, not mountains. The mind will not be clear enough to tackle big problems; they should, therefore, be left to some more convenient season. The feeling of dissatisfaction will be in evidence all day and you will feel as though you "got out of bed the wrong side."

A child born on this September 17 is destined by fate to acquire responsibilities at an early age, and will be equipped by nature to discharge them satisfactorily. It will be a careful student, but not unmindful of necessary recreation. At times moody and distrait, it will respond quickly and reciprocally to affection and confidence.

Born on September 17, you are always meaning to do well, and then fall down on your self-made resolutions. You, better than any one else, realize your shortcomings; you do not need to be told why you have not attained that degree of success to which you are entitled. You may fool others, but you never fool yourself, for no one is more competent along the lines of self-analysis. Not only as a diagnostician do you shine; you always know the remedies. You are, however, a poor patient and refuse to take the medicine. You live on Good Intention street, but never land on Accomplishment avenue.

As a woman, you are too gushing to carry conviction of sincerity; as a man, you are too melodramatic to justify confidence. The signs foretell that outstanding success is beyond your present reach. Only by the exercise of strength of character, only by the substitution of "I will be" for "I want to be" will your many good traits be profitably marketed. It is not what you "mean to do" that counts, but what "you do." In the home circle you will always need a prop with which to keep your end up; whenever the prop goes you will "flop."

Successful people born on September 17:

Dolores Costello, film artist.

Michael Vincent O'Shea, university professor.

Robert W. Vonnoh, artist.

William E. Griffis, educator and author.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

440.

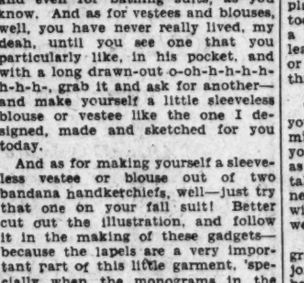
THE STUFF THEY SELL.

OMAR'S cheerful plaint, expressed in Fitzgerald's translation of "The Rubaiyat"—"I often wonder what the vintner gets, one-half so precious as the stuff he sells"—has a direct application to those who indulge in bluff bids, popularly known as "psychics." Individual instances of games made by such bids are everywhere told, but what the user of these bids forgets is not only his frequent staggering losses when the bluff bid goes wrong, but the imponderable loss which far outweighs any temporary success, and that is the loss in partnership confidence. The partner of the bluff bidder, whose bids may mean a tremendous hand or nothing, often is unable to determine what the bid means in a particular set of circumstances, and thus on strong hands, games are not bid which could be made, and sacrifices are made when nothing is in danger. In like manner, "paying penalties" are not taken because the opportunity to exchange accurate information has been disregarded.

The psychic school of thought in Bridge bidding has now reached the point where a Dealer is expected to pass a very strong hand justifying an Opening bid, and his partner, sitting Third or Fourth Hand, is expected to open the bidding, holding almost a bust. Could lack of logic go further?

Illustrative of the present day tendency of players of this type to pass sound Opening bids is the hand below, played in a recent Duplicate game in New York City.

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable



The bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
		Pass(1)	1♣
Pass	1NT(2)	Dble.(3)	Redble.(4)
2♡	Pass	Pass	3NT(5)
Pass	Pass	Dble.(6)	Redble.(7)
Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) The hand is a sound Opening bid. It contains more than 3 honor-tricks and nothing is to be gained from a strategic standpoint in the pass.

(2) An absolute minimum response to the Opening bid, in order to give partner a further chance to declare.

(3) North now seeks to find out which of the suits, other than clubs, his partner is best prepared to play—hence the Double—but an important round of bidding has been wasted.

(4) With the near certainty of 8 tricks at notrump, East naturally is willing to play at one notrump, redoubled.

(5) Gambling on 1 trick in his partner's hand.

(6) North does not appreciate the length of East's club suit.

(7) There should be a play somewhere for the ninth trick. Actually, North and South have a cheap "save" at four hearts, but South, fully aware of his partner's psychic propensities, does not venture to rebid his almost worthless hand, and North, impressed with the clever manner in which he has concealed his strength by his original pass, believes that the best contract has been obtained.

In the play, North opened the heart 6, which was won in the Dummy with the singleton Ace. West, the Declarer, could see that if he ran down 7 club tricks, he would be squeezed, so his first play was to lead a small diamond, upon which South played the Ace and returned a heart. Of course, West now "coasted" in by taking his 7 established club tricks for a redoubled contract of three notrump.

While this hand, by accurate play, will produce three notrump against any defense, the contract will scarcely be undertaken with straightforward bidding methods. In fact, if North opens the bidding, West, with his 1 honor-trick hand, will never speak, and East, of course, will have to gamble between playing for his honors and game in notrump. Normal development of the bidding might disclose to North and South the fact that a cheap sacrifice is available.

WELLS HEADS JURY IN PRINCE GEORGES

Tea House Slaying Case Is Only Important Matter to Be Presented.

George Wells, of Riverdale, Md., has been chosen to head the Prince Georges County grand jury when it meets for the fall term of court on October 3. The body, this fall, will have what appears to be one of the lightest sessions in recent years, the only important matter to be laid before it being murder charges against two men held in connection with the Bladensburg tea house shooting last year.

Of the following, 22 will be chosen for the grand jury and the rest will serve as jurors for the first week's panel:

Frank E. Barrett, Herbert Rawlings, Murray L. Ball, S. Peter White, Isadore A. Talbott, S. Gardner Ryon, George S. Harrison, Clayton N. Bitting, Frederick J. Adler, John T. Moreland, George M. Berry, Joseph A. Carrico, Bertram Boice, Clay J. Halverson, Leigh R. Keech, John T. Rawlings, Hunter C. Hibbert, S. E. Hungerford, John H. Fetty, W. Wesley Beall, John F. Dent, M. L. Eichelberger, Raymond Ferguson, Murray G. Metz, J. A. H. Simpson, Oscar K. Hiser, B. F. Maenner, jr., John W. Klein, Allen Spencer, James B. Berry, Edward E. Bailey, Paul F. Baranek, William A. Smith, Harry Stewart, Charles A. Burgdorf, Arthur J. Thomas, Miron E. Jardine, William D. Cochran, Maurice A. Downes, Walter A. Cornell, Ashby C. Tolson, E. S. McCeney, sr., Webster Dwyer, R. Fred Cross, Alfred R. Lee, Benjamin O. King, O. P. Mullikin.

On the petit juries for the second week are:

R. Jesse Swann, Parker B. Chappell, Thomas Shepherd, jr., Guy N. Collins, Robert L. Craycroft, Claude M. Barb, Owen S. Allen, Fred E. Walker, Theodore B. Seihler, H. W. Gilbertson, Walter W. Grimes, Vincent I. Wells, Chester A. Cusick, Guy R. Seger, Albert S. Nalley, Joseph F. A. Murphy, John Berberick, John F. McGoldrick, James W. Duley, Anthony B. Poula, Louis T. Yancey, Peter W. Hecht's Personnel See Fashion Clinic

Fall and Winter Styles for Women and Misses Are Shown at Hotel.

The Hecht Co. presented its fashion clinic to the entire personnel of the store, in the Hall of Nations of the Washington Hotel last night. The clinic, a presentation of fall and winter fashions for women and misses, was modeled after the famous Amos Parrish Fashion Clinic held each year in New York City.

Six pretty girls, selected from the store, acted as models. They were presented by H. J. Grinsfelder, merchandise manager for the ready-to-wear departments. Charles B. Dulcan, jr., vice president and general merchandise manager, and James Rotto, sales promotion manager, also gave short talks.

An amusing skit, "Can This Be Berchik's?" was a feature of the evening. This skit in three short acts was written, directed and acted by members of the advertising department.

Democratic Veterans To Form Club Tonight

District war veterans will meet tonight in the City Club Building, 1320 G street northwest, to form a Democratic club. Officers will be elected and a constitution adopted. More than 600 have joined the temporary organization. There are no dues, and the body will function actively until the presidential election.

The movement has been fostered by the Democratic central committee, and the actual organization work has been done by Martin A. Beehan and his assistants.

Rendering Plant Opposition Grows

Business Woman's Club of Arlington County Adopts Resolution.

What appears to be county-wide opposition to the erection and establishment of the rendering plant as planned by Norton Co., at Washington-Richmond highway and Columbia pike was strengthened last night with the adoption of a resolution in opposition to the plant by the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County. Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to the County Board and to the Arlington County Civic Federation.

The matter will be officially brought to the attention of the County Board at its meeting today by the special committee appointed last Monday by citizens of Aurora Hills and Virginia Highlands.

Clyde M. Mills, chairman of the committee, will seek the support of the county board in carrying the protest to the Circuit Court of Arlington County. He will also ask for financial support from the board.

ALEXANDRIA SEEKING WATER WORKS LOAN

Must Show R. F. C. That System Extension Would Be Self-Liquidating.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Arthur MacConochie, a member of the Virginia advisory engineers' committee appointed by Gov. John Garland Pollard to aid the cities, towns and counties of Virginia in the preparation of applications for loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, met yesterday with the Alexandria City Council and discussed the needs of the city.

The principal matter under discussion was the water situation, it being claimed by members of the council that the water supply is inadequate for proper fire protection. Mr. MacConochie explained that loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation could only be obtained for projects which would be self-liquidating, and in reply to the question as to whether the City of Alexandria, which does not now own its water system, could lay mains and connect with the water system of other cities, he replied that it could, provided the revenue from such mains would be sufficient to liquidate the loan. City Attorney Carl Budwesky stated that a survey and report on the water situation had been made but this is now before the Virginia Court of Appeals in the case of the city against the Alexandria Water Company, and is not now available.

At the conclusion of the conference, the matter was referred to the water committee of the city council, of which Councilman E. C. Davison is chairman, for consideration in connection with a survey now being made by that committee.

METROPOLITAN

"BLESSED EVENT." Warner Brothers picturization of the play by Forrest Wilson and Manuel Seff, adapted to the screen by Howard Green, featuring Lee Tracy and Mary Brian, with Allen Jenkins, Ned Sparks, Ruth Donnelly, Isabel Jewel, Dick Powell and Edwin Maxwell. Directed by Roy Del Ruth. Reviewed Thursday midnight.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Flip, wisecracking and geared high, this film version of a comedy that sounded a new note on last winter's stage, offers ultramodern entertainment of even greater voltage than the original work.

Not that the picture is in every respect superior to the play, because it is not. Neither would I say that the play is in every respect superior to the picture, for that is not true either. The film has lost something of the closely knit quality that Forrest Wilson and Manuel Seff managed to write into their script, largely through the screen's need of diversity of scene and wide diffusion of action, but probably in an effort to compensate for any lack of cohesiveness this may have occasioned—at least in the minds of those who vividly recall the trip-hammer dynamics of the last act of the play—the story has been speeded up until it races along like Maj. Doolittle out for a record!

In its every essential aspect the plot is identical with that of the comedy that afforded Roger Pryor one of his most congenial assignments. We see the rise of the punk kid from the ad department to the post of pinch-hitter for the paper's ace columnist and then watch him soar to a dominant place among the big city's scandal mongers and big-money guys. He ruins a few reputations along the way, whoops up his rag's circulation almost to the bursting point, gets himself shot at by the mobster in the swell new night club and finally wins the girl.

Lee Tracy, in the role of the columnist, Alvin Roberts, goes in for vocal pyrotechnics and excited arm waving a good deal more than his predecessor, Mr. Pryor, but always has his part safely by the scruff of the neck—precisely where most of his associates would like to have had him! A little more variety in pitch and tempo, however it seems to me, would have increased the potency of an impersonation that will probably sweep you off your feet as it is.

Two outstanding performances are contributed by the same players who created the roles in which they now appear again—Allen Jenkins, as Frankie Wells, the tough egg from Chicago, and Isabel Jewel, the chorus girl who took the law into her own hands. Emma Dunn, admirable character actress, etches the mother with bolder and harsher strokes than Jean Adair, who played it on the stage. Milton Wallace continues in his bit as Mr. Moskowitz. Mary Brian was a disappointment in the sweetheart role, but Ruth Donnelly as Stevens the columnist's secretary, was a vast improvement over the part as it was originally played here. Ned Sparks makes Moxley a little more important than he has been heretofore, and Dick Powell effectively visualizes the crooner who has never appeared on the stage. Frank McHugh, Tom Dugan, Edwin Maxwell, Walter Walker and Robert Emmett O'Connor are among others in telling bits.

The added cabaret scenes, flashes of the broadcasting studio and street scenes add color, melody and mirth to an actor-proof vehicle that can never be anything but impudent, racy and mildly rowdy—a swell combination for breezy and unconventional fun.

Burns and Allen, in "Your Hat;" an "Oriental Cocktail," a travel jaunt to far places, and the Paramount Sound News, complete the feverish frolic.

COLUMBIA

"CONGORILLA." Fox release of a Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson travelogue of the Alumbongo Mountains, the Belgian Congo and the Ituri Forest in Central Africa. Edited by Truman Talley. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

When Martin and Osie Johnson start out to make a picture of nature in the roughest of the rough the picture is made; and each succeeding effort goes the last one, or two or even three, better. But up to now the Johnsons have struck rather closely to an unvarnished camera record of their travels. In "Congorilla" they have not only achieved the expected Johnson standard, but they have injected a vastly greater amount of humor into it than in any of their earlier pictures.

Out of the multitude of interesting, unusual and excellently photographed scenes (whose sound effects are said to have been actually recorded "on location"), those dealing with the pygmy tribes of the Ituri Forest make the picture exceptionally meritorious. The pygmies, it is true, have been filmed before—for that matter so have the zebra, giraffes, crocodiles, elephants, hippopotami and gorillas—but always more as museum pieces. Here, in both the anthropological and zoological aspects, these subjects have been recorded by camera and microphone as living, breathing beings, even as you and I.

With characteristic thoroughness, the Johnsons have overlooked no possibility of entertainment, photographing the scenic beauties of nature with the same studied care given the more animated scenes.

The farcical moments of the feature are only topped by the side-splitting baseball comedy, "Off His Base," played by Eugene Pallette and the Gleason family—James, Lucille and Russell—and directed by Jimmie, from a story by Charlie Paddock. This Gleason gang—and the others, too—have everything it takes to make good, clean, ace-high hilarity.

EARLE

"THE PURCHASE PRICE." Warner Brothers picturization of Arthur Stringer's story of "The Mud Lark," adapted to the screen by Robert Lord, starring Barbara Stanwyck, with George Brent, Lyle Talbot, David Landau and Leila Bennett. Directed by William Wellman. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

It is not made quite clear by the developments of the story just what the purchase price was, but, whatever it was, it was too high!

Neither Barbara Stanwyck nor George Brent is equipped for this sort of thing—the rough life of the bleak and sparsely populated wheat country of the Dakotas—and this rendering of Arthur Stringer's story of "The Mud Lark," therefore, would not by any possibility ring true, even were it less loosely jointed and not so indifferent to smooth-flowing continuity and logical characterization as it is.

It seemed to me that the only portions of "The Purchase Price" that did not place too severe a strain upon the credulity were the early scenes in the night club, where Joan Gordon sang torch songs as the featured performer in the floor show. From the moment she traded places with a hotel chambermaid in Montreal to become the "picture bride" of the man she had never seen and did not even know by name, the goings-on, for me, lost direction, purpose, plausibility and terminal facilities.

Lyle Talbot is perhaps as believable as any member of the cast as the big city bootlegger who would not take no for an answer and followed Joan all the way out to the whistle stop on the prairie, only to be turned down again and beaten up by his former sweetheart's husband. Victor Potel is almost too realistically the village halfwit. The rest have nothing but the most minor chores to perform, barring possibly David Landau, the skinflint of the wheat fields.

After an absence of six years, Jack Smith, the "whispering barytone," returns as headliner of the vaudeville portion of the program to resume a place of warm esteem in the hearts of local theatergoers by converting his informal interval of self-accompanied songs into a thoroughly enjoyable family party. Mr. Smith is one of the few singers who possesses the rare gift of coaxing an audience to serve as half of his act. His numbers are well chosen—some of them agreeably reminiscent—and recited and sung in the best voice he has revealed here.

Miss Maxine Doyle, while putting on her weekly style show, pauses, also, to introduce Welcome Lewis. "Radio's five feet of melody," in one of the most rousingly received turns on the bill—in which Miss Lewis employs microphone and loudspeaker and is accompanied by piano, violin and guitar on the stage in addition to Mr. Clark's house orchestra; Wilma and Earlyne Wallace, assisted by Teddy Wren and the Coen Brothers, in a lively dance revue, and Medley and Dupree in "Anything Can Happen," an hilarious "nut" act in which it does!

The Universal News, with Graham McNamee; a "Merrie Melodies" cartoon comedy, "You're Too Careless With Your Kisses," and "The Nickelette," harking back to the early movies, are easily worth "The Purchase Price!" N. B. B.

LOEW'S FOX

"CHANDU THE MAGICIAN." Fox picturization of a screen play by Barry Conners and Phillip Klein, starring Edmund Lowe, with Irene Ware, Bela Lugosi, Herbert Mundin, Henry B. Walthall, Weldon Heyburn and Virginia Hammond. Directed by Marcel Varnel and William C. Menzies. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

Availing itself of all the eerie hocus-pocus of the Far East and the fanciful perfection of a death-ray, capable of spreading havoc half way around the world at one full swoop, as the conflicting elements of its oddly blended symposium of comedy, romance and adventure, this impressively staged war of the miracle workers provides flamboyant entertainment that is at once amusing, engrossing and novel.

This is what might be described as a horror picture with the horror left out! I mean to say that in the ponderous contraptions spitting sparks all over the laboratory and death all over the world, and no less in the triumphs of occultism, black art and the simpler feats of legerdemain by which they are opposed, are to be found all the necessary ingredients for another "White Zombie" or "Doctor X." Happily, however, we have nothing more serious here than a few abductions, an occasional attempted murder and once in a while a threat to annihilate all that remains of the human race. All in a spirit of good, clean fun!

Although the titular character seems to be an East Indian Yogi and his magic feats all stem from Mother India's weird and mystic legends, the locale of the story is in Egypt along the Nile. Here Roxor, the naughty boy of the neighborhood, seeks to gain possession of the secret of the death-ray from its inventor, Robert Regent. The good Mr. Regent, however, is deaf to his blandishments, so Roxor does him dirt. Comes then on the scene Chandu, who knows all of Thurston's best tricks, to fight the good fight on the side of rectitude and the beautiful princess—not to mention his sister's family and their imprisoned daddy, who still won't give in. Roxor and all his henchmen are no match for the handsome magician and his rope trick!

The fable is produced on a scale of some grandeur, executed in an atmosphere that is distinctly exotic and graced by an ever-present sense of humor. It is not, in a pinch, above spoofing itself right roundly.

Edmund Lowe, as Chandu, and Bela Lugosi, as Roxor, are the opposing forces, with Irene Ware as the Princess Nadji and Henry E. Walthall as the inventor. Herbert Mundin grotesquely decorates a comedy role of the first rank and Weldon Heyburn is Mr. Lugosi's assistant villain. All very grand, especially Mr. Lowe.

This, as a matter of fact, is overwhelmingly Edmund Lowe week at the Fox. As headliner of the vaudeville bill, present in person and on the stage, he scores as hearty a personal triumph as has been chalked up here by any visiting celebrity from the film capital. His sketch is a brief and slightly bawdy little matter between a gentleman Raffles and a scantily clad grass widow—blonde—in her boudoir. One or two of the lines almost violate the fire laws, but Mr. Lowe you will find as handsome, as debonair and as impeccably groomed as you are accustomed to see him on the screen in the smarter of his celluloids.

Others on the stage are Belle Blanche, former musical comedy star, who retains a splendid voice and a versatile flair for mimicry; Billy Gleason, monologist, singer and all-around nut; the Four Casting Stars, aerialists par excellence, and Billy Wells and the Four Fays, in a heterogeneous conglomeration of noise and motion which, for some reason, scored tremendously with the crowd.

Phil Lampkin's gorgeously orchestrated "Dark Eyes" overture, one of his best to date, and the Fox Movietone News are the condiments of a somehow sumptuous repast.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

Lionel Barrymore.

THERE must be, by now, in Washington a large number of new enthusiasts over the amazing facility which Lionel Barrymore displays in submerging his own personality in that of every character he assumes upon the stage or before the cameras.

Yesterday morning before the opening of the theater for the first performance, long lines stretched in both directions from the box-office of the Palace, attracted by the prospect of seeing "Grand Hotel" at popular prices and without the bother of having to secure reserved seats. No doubt many of them knew that it is in this extraordinary picturization of the Vicki Baum novel and play that Lionel Barrymore gives one of the most impressive demonstrations of just what a superb actor he really is. In the role of Kringelein, the underclerk, doomed to an early death by the doctors and seeking all he can get out of life before the end overtakes him, the eldest of the stage's "royal family" contributes a character study of permanent worth to the gallery of the cinema's most notable individual achievements.

Ethel Barrymore has always insisted that Brother Lionel is the best actor in the family. Just to make it a sure majority—in case Lionel himself does not think so—John recently expressed the conviction that no actor on the contemporary stage has the power of becoming the character he plays so surely and so completely as his elder brother. This was proved in "Arsene Lupin" and in "Washington Masquerade" and now is emphasized again by the return of "Grand Hotel."

The creative genius of the elder Barrymore does not, however, stop with his ability as a mummer. He has been an eminently successful director of motion pictures, in which he has guided the steps of others toward greater heights than they might otherwise have reached; he is a painter of no mean accomplishment and a pianist and composer of music who ranks high.

I suspect the man's an artist!

Speaking of the Barrymores, John—who, of course, also plays an important part in "Grand Hotel," opposite Greta Garbo—will next be seen on a Washington screen in distinguished company and in a distinguished play.

Mention was made here only a day or two ago of the sterling performances said to have been contributed to the picturization of Clemence Dane's play of "A Bill of Divorcement," by John Barrymore, Billie Burke and Katherine Tepburn. This is the picture upon which Miss Burke was engaged when the sudden death of her husband, Florenz Ziegfeld, interrupted its production.

"A Bill of Divorcement," I am informed, will be the attraction at the RKO-Keith Theater following "Hell's Highway," in which Richard Dix will succeed the eminently successful "Bird of Paradise," now in its second week, come Friday. The engagement will begin on Friday, September 30, and will bring to the Keith screen David Manners, Elizabeth Patterson and numerous others of note in support of the principals already named.

Well, it just goes to show. I mean when the phone rang last Wednesday afternoon and apprised me that "Humpty Dumpty" stood in imminent danger of not opening at the National next Monday night as the inaugural attraction of the new season, I immediately appealed as directly as seemed feasible at the moment to Pittsburgh, where the piece was playing, for corroboration of the rumor. From the daily press and functionaries connected with the production the nearest thing to corroboration obtainable was a flat denial.

So yesterday came the announcement that Wednesday's wholly erroneous reports were completely and unfortunately true! "Humpty Dumpty" is not ready for metropolitan presentation, and the National Theater will not open its season Monday night as has been so widely and so enthusiastically bruited about.

All things considered, this is no doubt acting the part of wisdom on the part of the producers, the Messrs. Laurence Schwab and B. G. "Buddy" DeSylva, and, indirectly, is a compliment to Washington. "Humpty Dumpty" could have gone on here Monday as scheduled. But it would have been in constant process of revision and in no way indicative of such ultimate merit as it undoubtedly will possess. Rather than risk a series of faulty performances before the Capital's discriminating theater public, the musical comedy's sponsors decided to take it off temporarily, whip it into final shape and then bring it to us as a finished product.

Let us hope the part of the old nursery jingle about "All the king's horses and all the king's men," in this instance, will not come true.

Mr. Whitney, of the reviewing staff, informs me that the trailer on "Drifting Souls," being shown at the Columbia to advertise next week's feature, has this to say: "Justice is about to strike when Fate intervenes and saves the day."

I leave it to you if that must not be a pretty swell situation in which Fate saves the day by defeating justice!

In that "The Nickelette" being shown at the Earle, movie fans have an opportunity to see three old favorites in some of their earliest endeavors before the flickery cameras—Eugene O'Brien, Elaine Hammerstein and Rudolph Valentino. What, by the way, ever became of the first two?

And since we've mentioned old-time movies, you will note when George Brent drives away from the railroad station in his farm wagon, out thar in old Dakoty, the wheels, true to every early screen tradition, revolve backwards!

So you didn't have nerve enough to wear your straw hat yesterday, warm as it was!

INTRODUCING them for the first time to Washington. KANTRUN stockings are America's sensation. For years, ever since the fashion for sheer stockings, every woman has wished for silk hose that would not run. Pair after pair . . . good in every other respect . . . were thrown into the rag bag because of the unsightly run.
THE best way to convince yourself that Kantrun stockings will not run is to test them yourself. Jerk them, pull them, snag thread, or dig holes in them . . . but you can't start a run in them because they are knit with a new lock stitch.
KANTRUN stockings are as beautiful as any you ever wore . . . sheer, clear, entirely ring free . . . because the new Kantrun stitch eliminates rings as well as runs. They come in the fashion-right colors to ensemble with your new fall costumes.

GOODMAN-SOMERVILLE TO CLASH FOR GOLF TITLE

Reis' El Lagarto Winner of First Heat in President's Cup Race

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

SWINGING down the fairways, or mayhap into the rough, of the Five Farms course at Baltimore this morning and this afternoon, two insurance salesmen will battle it out for the national amateur golf championship.

This department is not impugning the golfing motives of either Johnny Goodman or Ross Somerville, the finalists, but it is quite likely that this year's national amateur title will pay high premiums to the winner, and even the runner-up.

The insurance business of Goodman or Somerville, which ever one is fortunate enough to win the championship, will perk up noticeably during the next year. It is only human nature for the insurance-inclined golf fan to permit the national amateur champion to underwrite his future with the least possible sales resistance.

Golf skill has never proven a drawback to a salesman, insurance salesman, bond salesman, or any other of the ilk. The contacts on the golf course are usually fertile contacts, especially if the purveyor happens to be a player of some skill. Those who wou'd fawn upon the idols of the galleries are plenty.

This department is not in possession of statistics to show what percentage of the national amateur qualifiers are salesmen of some type, but the number is large, and I am beginning to believe that it is more than a coincidence that two insurance salesmen should meet in the national amateur finals.

This fellow Goodman has literally pulled himself up by his bootstraps in this game of golf. It was only four years ago that he rode the cattle trains to the national amateur in New York and three years ago he was traveling to the better tournaments in one of those curious houses on wheels.

Since his ascendancy to national golf fame, Goodman has forsaken the cattle trains and the tourist camps. I do not say that his affluency came hand in hand with his golf, for Johnny is an ambitious youngster as his career has proven, and it is logical to presume that he would succeed well in whatever profession he chose. But the insurance commissions come more easily to the national amateur champion than to plain Johnny Goodman, or plain Ross Somerville.

Delphine IV Second as 2 Finish

1931 Champion Craft Scores With Borrowed Motor.

Never Headed After Thrilling Start; Finals Today.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

WITH motors roaring a symphony of power, El Lagarto, a glistening thunderbolt of man, mahogany and machinery, won the first heat of the 45-mile race for the President's Cup yesterday, negotiating 15 miles around a 2½-mile course at an average speed of 57.692 miles an hour.

Driving a winning race from the opening cannon, George Reis, owner and pilot of the victorious boat, thus gained a telling advantage in the defense of the vast gold trophy which fell to him, and this same boat, last year. Left 300 yards behind, in the excited wake of the winner, Delphine IV, winner of the 90-mile Gold Cup races earlier in the year, leaped and bounced its way across the line to take second place.

There was no third. The Delphine V, its hefty power plant sending out raucous snorts while the two others far outdistanced it, d'd not finish, coming to a sudden and sodden stop 2 miles from the finish, when its starting apparatus jammed the motors. Bill Horn once more was at the wheel of the Delphine IV, while his boss and owner of both boats, Horace Dodge, manned the unsuccessful Delphine V. They were the only three boats in the race.

El Lagarto Always In Lead.

Hugging the drab gray waters of the Georgetown channel, El Lagarto knifed its way to victory yesterday in decisive fashion. Its best lap, the third, was 58.102 miles per hour, and except for the thrilling start, when it did not seem possible that Reis could stop from disqualifying himself by crossing the line too soon, was never less than 300 yards in front.

The winner won with a borrowed motor, a 400-horse power Packard plant which was lifted out of the defunct Gold Cup racer Scotty Too, owned by Samuel Dunsford, Concord, N. H., early this week. Reis, portly heir to the underwear millions, and his mechanic, Dick Bowers, revamped the machinery until it was capable of developing five more miles an hour.

They worked five days and nights on the heart of their boat, and although the motor was destined to run 700 revolutions per minute slower than Reis' regular engine, he and his experts had pepped it up enough yesterday to send the sinister dark brown El Lagarto through the water as fast as it had ever run. Reis' regular engine flew to pieces two weeks ago while on a test run.

The start of the feature race was a thrill to thousands who lined the Speedway wall, or hung from hundreds of craft in the river. The three boats, superb expressions of watercraft speed, jockeyed down a preliminary 100-yard stretch of water while the big clock-like apparatus, which warns them when the gun will explode, moved fatefully to "60." At "55" all three boats had their motors wide open. El Lagarto and Delphine V hit the starting line exactly together as the cannon on the Coast Guard boat Apache boomed, while Bill Horn, roaring in at an angle, swept across the line 30 yards behind.

By the very first turn the race developed into a two-boat contest, the El Lagarto (which means "The Lizard") and the Delphine IV, for the Delphine V, potentially faster than either of the other boats, failed to find a constant stream of power coming from its plant. By the end of the first lap, the El Lagarto, running through the water like a bullet, shot from a gun at water-level, had opened up 300 yards between its whirling propellors and the pin sharp nose of the Delphine IV.

They maintained that position for the remainder of the race. On the last lap Horn ground the Delphine IV accelerator to the boards and pressed the speed to 57.544, but the race was over then. The Delphine V stopped a half a mile off the portside of the Apache. Several small boats, like sympathetic waterbugs, flocked to her side, and the winner, riding on his momentum swept over there to offer condolences. Dodge, scion of the millions gained out of a car whose advertising password was dependability, said after the race that he planned to work all night on his motor, probably putting in a new starter.

The President's Cup event, comparatively onesided though it was, developed more competition than the pack of preliminaries, featuring craft ranging from Class A outboards, angry little mosquitos, to big and puerile speedboats.

Thompson Outboard Is Best.

The best outboard performance was the 40-mile clip set by C. C. Thompson, of Suffolk, Va., astride a boat named after his home town's only industry, a "P-nut." Thompson and "P-nut," which seemed as fragile as one, won the 5-mile race for Class B outboards.

Mrs. Florence Burnham, driving Chotale IV, a 125-cubic-inch hydroplane, led her class race for four of the five miles before engine trouble, and a sudden rush gave the race to John Taylor, of Atlantic City, with an average speed of 35.335 miles per hour.

The women racers got out of hand in the last event of the day, the Ladies Free for All, when three of the girls, Mrs. Gardner Orme, Mrs Louis Luckenbach and Isabel Christian, tried to beat each other over the starting line and all three were disqualified. Miss Christian made a

Detroit Held To 3 Hits by Crowder

Nats Pound Marrow, Tiger Rookie, for 8-3 Victory.

Walks Boost Score; Take 4-Run Lead in First Inning.

Special to The Washington Post.

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, Sept. 16.—Buck Marrow, Detroit rookie, gave the Washington club a four-run lead in the first inning this afternoon and with the Tigers currying but three hits off the offerings of General Alvin Crowder, the indication should be, by this time, that the Nats won their only victory of the three-game series here. They did, by the score of 8 to 3.

The triumph enabled Washington to keep pace with the Athletics, two and a half games behind the second-place Mackmen who eked out a victory at St. Louis.

Crowder experienced one of his formful days on the mound and in only two innings were the Tigers, who had battered the offerings of Washington pitchers since the start of the series, able to connect safely. But with Crowder working under a five-run lead after the fifth inning, the Detroit threats were about as serious as Boston's pennant bid.

Rice Opens Game With Single.

Marrow, who had been raising high hopes among Detroit fans by his sensational pitching of the past three weeks, was extremely wobbly at the start. Rice singled down the first base line, Myer walked, Manush doubled off the bleacher screen in right, Cronin also doubled to right, Marrow unloosed a wild pitch and Kuhel flied out, four runs scoring during the excitement.

Two-thirds of the Detroit attack was confined to the second inning, when with one out Walker singled and Schuble doubled to score the first Detroit run.

Marrow checked the Nats from the second to the fifth, but two walks then put him in trouble again. Myer made a delayed steal of second after his pass, and when Kuhel doubled to right center Cronin, who had also walked, scored behind Myer.

Tigers Score Twice In Seventh.

A pair of passes also put Crowder in trouble in the seventh with none out. White scoring and Walker taking third on Schuble's single. Schuble made two of the three hits Crowder permitted all afternoon. The third run scored when Cronin permitted Desautels' grounder to trickle through his legs, but at this juncture Crowder quelled the rally.

The Nats made two superfluous runs in the ninth against Hogsett. Rice walked, Myer sacrificed and Manush scored Rice with a single to center, faking second on the throw-in. Cronin was hit in the back by a pitch and Kuhel lined to White for the second out, but West scored Manush with a single off Davis' glove.

Babe Ruth, Recovered, Will Work Out Today

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Recovered from a slight attack of appendicitis, Babe Ruth notified the New York Yankee office today that he will emerge from his sick room tomorrow to bang a few practice home runs in the Yankee Stadium.

Ruth plans to join the American League champions in Philadelphia next Wednesday for the final series of the season. In the meantime he will work daily in the stadium to get back in condition for the world series, starting September 28.

YANKS BEAT CHISOX WITH BIG FRAME

Attack on Jones in Third Accounts for 4-1 Victory.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Making their last appearance here before the world's series when Chicago fans are confident they will be back again to face the Cubs, the New York Yankees defeated the White Sox today, 4 to 1.

One big inning at the expense of their old nemesis, Sad Sam Jones, and five hit pitching by Wilcy Moore and Dan MacFayden gave New York the decision. The Yanks won the final series 2 to 1, and the season's round 17 to 5.

Gar Wood May Seek Speedboat Mark Today

Algomac, Mich., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Hoping for favorable weather tomorrow morning, Gar Wood tonight announced that Miss America X is ready for an attempt to set a new world record over a mile straightaway on the St. Clair River, near here.

The present record, 119.81 statute miles an hour, is held by Kaye Don, English pilot, in his Miss England III. Wood, who recently defeated Don in the Harmsworth Trophy races on Lake St. Clair, must travel one-half of one nautical mile an hour faster than Don's mark to be awarded an official record.

If conditions are ideal, Wood said he probably would make his attempt shortly after 7 a. m. tomorrow, but he declared he would not make the trial if there were any indications of rough water.

CUBS STRIDE NEARER TO PENNANT

Tinning Beats Phillies, 3-2, in Duel; Hartnett Slams Homer.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs took another stride toward clinching the National League pennant today by defeating the Phillies, 3 to 2, in a tight pitching duel between Bud Tinning and Eddie Holley while all the other National League clubs were idle.

The victory gave the Cubs a margin of six games over the Pittsburgh Pirates. They need only five more triumphs to clinch the flag.

Holley limited the league leaders to seven hits while the Phillies made nine, but four of them came in the third inning to give Chicago a lead that was good enough to win.

Dodgers Recall Ten; Release George Kelly

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the recall of ten players it had out on option with its farm team, the Jersey City Skeeters, of the International League, and the purchase of four players, three from Jersey City and one from Dayton, of the Central League.

The players purchased are Pitcher Ray Lucas, Catcher William (Chic) Outen and Infielder James Jordan, all of Jersey City, and Pitcher Thorton Schwenck of Dayton.

The Dodgers also announced the unconditional release of George Kelly, former Cincinnati and Giant player, who was bought from Minneapolis at the start of the season, but who later was shifted to Jersey City.

Omaha Lad Beats Ouimet, 4 Up and 2, for Right to Meet Canadian in Finals

Guilford Is Routed by Foreign Threat, 7 Up and 6.

Goodman Gains Lead on Defending Champ in Afternoon.

Somerville qualified for match play with 150. He eliminated Johnny Brawner, of the District of Colubia, 5 and 3; Jack Westland, 7 and 6, and Bill Blaney, Massachusetts dark horse, 6 and 5, after shooting a record-breaking 68 in the morning round. Sandy has not had a close match.

Ouimet Steps Out To Lead.

In the morning Ouimet had a 2-up lead on Goodman before the Omaha boy canned a 20-footer for a birdie three and got his par three on the ninth while Francis three-putted to square the match at the turn. Both deposited birdie threes on the tenth, and Johnny grabbed the lead for the first time by winning the twelfth. Johnny made a brilliant recovery for a half on the thirteenth after being in the bushes. The match became even on the fifteenth when Goodman was in the rough, was short with his second and wound up with a 5. They halved the next three in orthodox figures, Johnny being forced to sink an 8-footer on the eighteenth and they went to lunch all even.

With a gallery of 5,000 on hand, the old master and the youngster started the afternoon's grind by halving the nineteenth in fours. Here the champion came out of a trap to within two feet of the pin, and Johnny's answer was a brilliant 20-foot putt

Goodman's putter gave him the lead and a birdie three on the twentieth, where he rammed in a 30-footer to Ouimet's par. He became 2 up by winning the twenty-second, 3 up by shooting a birdie four on the twenty-fourth, and 4 up with another birdie on the twenty-fifth, each time his sterling iron play being the potent factor. They halved the next two, and Johnny was out in front 4 up going to the twenty-eighth.

Goodman Picks Up His Ball.

Ouimet played his part and Johnny picked up shortly after his second shot stuck in the water. Goodman won it back on the twenty-ninth with a par to Francis' six. Ouimet cut down the lead by rifling a fair-sized putt for a birdie on the thirtieth, and sunk a 25-foot putt on the 600-yard thirty-second to become 2 down. Ouimet drove into two traps on the next, had to play a safety shot, was past the green on his third and wound up with a 6 as Johnny, short with his second, took two putts for a five to win the hole.

The match ended on the thirty-fourth green, Ouimet was trapped on his second, was on the bank of the trap in three, and chipped to within 3 feet of the cup. Johnny, well home in two, was within 15 feet of the flag, and got his par four to Ouimet's five.

Guilford, champion in 1921, failed to keep pace with Somerville. The easy going Canadian who said less than six words to Jesse during their match, commanded a two-up lead going to the tenth and finished the morning round with a 6-up advantage after shooting the eighteen holes in 73. Guilford, conqueror of Chick Evans, continued at the start of the afternoon, taking a 6 on the nineteenth and picking up on the twentieth. Seven up at the end of the twenty-seventh, Somerville climaxed the match on the thirtieth where both secured their par fours.

Guilford's defeat and that of the champion's, ruined the setting for a "home town" battle between two veterans.

The uncertainties of golf may be great, but the surest bet in the national amateur now in progress at Baltimore is that no beknickered gentleman will win the title. Knickers among the golf elite are as extinct as the bustle and the hoopskirt with milady. The bloomer boys were rarities yesterday at Five Farms.

14 2-YEAR-OLDS SEEK $100,000 BELMONT FUTURITY TODAY

Classic Finds Ladysman Favorite

Coe Juvenile Held at Even Money for 43d Running.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Facing the prospect of a battle over a rain-soaked course for the turf's richest prize, fourteen 2-year-olds today were named for the forty-third running of the $100,000 added Futurity at Belmont Park tomorrow.

Rain today had turned the Widener straightaway, down which the seven-furlong dash will be run, into a sea of slop and mud. More rain was predicted locally for tomorrow.

The twelve colts and two fillies are scheduled to face Starter George Cassidy at about 3 p. m. (Eastern standard time).

Regardless of weather or track conditions, W. R. Coe's Ladysman, winner of the Hopeful and Arlington Park Futurity and $101,135, is expected to rule the favorite at even money to repeat the 1925 triumph of his famous daddy, Pompey. If the fourteen eligibles go to the post, the winner will receive close to $95,000, nearly $40,000 more than Pompey earned for the Shoshone Stable.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

The fall season officially opens for Asbestos on Monday when Maryland racing starts. He will be right on the grounds. Joe plays the horse that was scratched nine times. Yesterday's code was scratched and Arundel ran third. Bank rolls, Asbestos, $21.68, Joe, $130.07.

Joe bets $5 win and $5 third Seths Ballot at Lincoln Fields.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, SEPT. 16.

DEAR AL:

Just as I was about to start a "Repeal Lincoln Fields" campaign I hit three straight winners and piled a gang of horse flesh into the money. This served, in a way, to revive my spirits, but I'll still welcome Monday and the 'Graw.

Mike has moved on to Washington to await the bangtails and wired me to get down on McDonald H in the last race at Hagerstown tomorrow. It's the spot, he says.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—I like PRINTEMPS in the opener. First, he must move into the race and, second, must break from the outside. This one has real speed. LOVELY HILLS appears second best. LILLIAN Z. is the sleeper.

SECOND RACE—This isn't the distance that old SUITOR likes best, but I'm going to him in a small way. Looks like SWITCH is the one to beat. GUNFIRE may upset the onions.

THIRD RACE—COL. HATFIELD will hardly pay a hatful, but I'm forced to string along. HELEN BAB may come through with one of her good races. OLD HILLSIDE for the show.

FOURTH RACE—HOT SHOT is likely to pop right back with another scorching performance and take this. GIFT OF ROSES is in top form. PORTCODINE'S the across-the-board longshot play.

FIFTH RACE—MY DANDY to carry top weight in this and romp to victory over CHARLEIGH. WAYLAYER to take care of the others. That's to my way of thinking.

SIXTH RACE—This looks like a spot for an upset. However, I've been unable to uncover anything startling, so will have to stick to the cold dope —PIGEON HOLE, TELA and UNCOMMON GOLD.

SEVENTH RACE—If CHUM draws a good rider this may be his race. RIFF RAFF defeated a field like this the last time. NIATO for the show end.

TITLE TO ROBINSON.

The Robinson A. C. yesterday won the championship of the Independent League when the third game of its series with the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders nine was forfeited by the latter. The Robinsons were leading, 10-4, in the last half of the fourth inning when the Bookbinders attempted to delay the game with a view to having it called because of darkness, when Umpire Dick Gentle ordered the game forfeited. George America knocked two homers for the winners.

Grove Takes 24th As Macks Win, 3-2

Simmons' 33d Homer Big Blow of 16th Victory Over Browns.

St. Louis, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Al Simmons' thirty-third home run was the big punch in Lefty Grove's twenty-fourth victory, when the Athletics defeated the St. Louis Browns here today, 3 to 2. It was the final meeting of the teams this season, during which the Athletics have won 16 of the 21 games with the Browns.

Stocks Take Lower Ground In Smallest Sales of Month

Losses Fractional as Rails Lead Fight in Transfer of 1,914,290 Shares.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Stock trading simmered down to the smallest volume in a month today, with the market taking an irregularly lower course toward the close after a lethargic rally earlier.

Railroad securities did better than other categories, and carrier shares were the only group to close higher. Some of the stocks at their best showed gains of about 1 to 4, although these generally shaded off when late selling trickled through the industrials and utilities.

The market appeared to be feeling its way carefully after the more or less active selling of the current week. Commodities offered little or no leadership, wheat closing virtually unchanged, cotton finished with losses, meeting most pressure in the last hour, when stocks were working lower. Sugar futures, however, firmed.

Canadian Pacific was a favorite and turned over briskly, being helped by reports that current shipments of dominion wheat were running in large volume. Lackawanna, in which New York Central is said to be increasing its holdings, ran up 4½ and held the top, but extreme advances of 1 to 2 or so in a number of American railroad equities were largely cut to fractions.

The market got little help from two recent favorites, American Telephone and U. S. Steel. Neither was able to do much on the upside; telephone's best performance, in fact, was complete recovery of a morning sag. Later it sold 3 points under, cutting this loss to 2¼ net. Steel went below 40 for a net decline of more than a point, while the preferred issue reacted 2½. Bethlehem, American Can, American Tobacco, Case, United Aircraft, Loew's, Westinghouse, American Smelting and North American were off 1 to 2. Sales totaled 1,914,290 shares.

Stocks.

Trading simmered down to 1,914,290 shares, the smallest turnover in a month. The average loss was fractional. Rails led the ineffectual battle to continue advance.

Bonds.

Upward trend was resumed by bonds under rail leadership. The average gain of two-tenths broke the sinking spell. Sales increased to $10,627,000.

Curb.

Prices drifted lower as speculative interests in market waned. The trading voume dropped to 210,000 shares.

Wheat.

Values tended upward, despite a halt in demand for export of Canadian grain. Buying also boosted prices. Corn and oats were mixed in quotations. September wheat sold at 49½ to 49¾.

Cotton.

A short rally yielded to further losses. The general market closed 17 to 21 points down. December sold at 7.12. Southern selling blamed.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON—Cheerfulness developed on the stock exchange due to better foreign reports. There was a broadening of investment buying in gilt-edged securities, wherein British government stocks were prominent. Gold mining shares and oil shares were the best of the other sections. Transatlantic issues were irregular after showing early strength and the market closed firm.

PARIS—The easing of yesterday's mid-month liquidation produced a favorable reaction at the opening, and trading was more active. Rentes, on the ever-conversion, were well sustained and international stocks also advanced. Some reaction took place later and closed irregular.

BERLIN—Prices opened firm on the bourse but later were depressed on reports of the Allgemeine Elektrizitaets-Gesellschaft capital reduction. The closing was slightly above yesterday's prices.

BONDS RENEW GAINS IN SPIRITED TRADING

Rails Aid General Upturn; Day's Sales Increase to $10,627,000.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Strength of United States Government loans and a spirited rally in the speculative rail group today gave the bond market its first semblance of firmness in the past week.

Failure of the Treasury to exercise its prerogative in calling the first Liberty 4¼s yesterday acted as a tonic to the remainder of the Federals and Liberty first 4¼s and 3½s, together with Treasury 4s, 4¼s and 3¾s advanced fractionally to new highs for the year. Other Government issues were also active and moderately higher.

It was a comparatively dull session in point of volume, sales totaling only $10,627,000, par value. The rebound in the rail department, however, lifted the average for 60 corporate bonds two-tenths of a point.

The utilities, as a whole, were slightly easier, although there was moderate improvement in several specialties. A few industrials showed symptoms of reviving, but the average for this category was unchanged at the conclusion of the session.

Gains of 1 to 2 or more points were registered by some loans of Allegheny Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, Burlington, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson & Manhattan and Illinois Central.

The foreign department was quiet and moderately firm. Improvement was shown by obligations of Argentine, Australia, Buenos Aires, Cuba, France, Germany, Japan, New South Wales and Queensland.

U. S. $2,000,000,000 Fund Aids in Balancing Accounts

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—So neatly balanced were the incoming and outgoing funds of the United States Treasury in its $2,000,000,000 tax-day financing operations yesterday that no overdraft on the Federal Reserve Bank was needed. This was the second time in the history of the reserve that tax-day financing of the Government was accomplished without an overdraft. Ordinarily, the Treasury is obliged to overdraw on its account with the Federal Bank in order to bridge the short gaps between immediate payments it must make during the day and its offsetting receipts of quarterly taxes and subscriptions to new offerings of certificates.

At the same time, August withdrawals from savings banks in New York State were the smallest in five months, it was reported today by Henry R. Kinsey, president of the State Savings Banks Association. New deposits in August totaled $110,661,497, and withdrawals amounted to $120,729,784. Total deposits as of September 1, were $5,228,550,283, against $5,113,498,959 a year ago.

10 UTILITY CONCERNS ATTACKED IN KANSAS

Governor Orders Action to Dissolve Cities Service Companies.

Topeka, Kans., Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Gov. Harry H. Woodring late today directed Roland Boynton, attorney general, to institute court proceedings seeking dissolution of and appointment of receivers for ten Cities Service Co. subsidiary gas distributing companies operating in Kansas.

"It is clear from the astounding disclosures made in the record before me," Gov. Woodring said, "that this company's (Cities Service Co.) subsidiaries have been and are deliberately violating the corporation laws of Kansas.

"They are operating as mere instrumentalities or dummies for the holding company. They have refused to keep in Kansas the money obtained from Kansas citizens as provided by law, millions being sent back to New York each year, and the New York company has drawn money illegally from the subsidiary companies in order to bolster its finances in New York City. They also have refused to keep their offices in Kansas as provided by law."

The ten companies for which Attorney General Boynton was directed to seek receivers are:

Wichita Gas Co., Wichita; Hutchinson Gas Co., Hutchinson; Newton Gas Co., Newton; Pittsburg Gas Co., Pittsburg; Capital Gas & Electric Co., Topeka; Wyandotte Gas Co., Kansas City, Kans., Arkansas Valley Gas Co., Arkansas City; Girard Gas Co., Girard; Union Public Service Co., 45 towns and Western Distributing Co., 27 towns.

The chief executive also ordered filing of an action to oust the Gas Service Co. of Kansas City, Mo., from doing business in Kansas.

DES MOINES VOTES 2D EXTRA DIVIDEND

Department Stores Lose $282,430 Net for Six Months.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Des Moines, Inc., today declared an extra dividend of 10 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 25 cents, both payable October 20 to stock of record September 30. Three months ago the company paid an extra of 25 cents.

Interstate Department Stores, Inc., today reported net loss of $282,430 for the six months ended June 30. Comparable figures for the same period last year are not available due to a change in the accounting method during 1931. Included in this year's figures are losses resulting from marking down of inventories.

Gasoline Prices Reduced.

Chicago, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Standard Oil Co. of Indiana today reduced prices 2 cents in the Chicago area on their higher grades of gasoline. The best grade was cut to 18.1 cents and the next to 15.1 at service stations. Other grades were unchanged.

Window Glass in Demand.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Glass trade reports say there has been an increase in the demand for window glass and glassware specialties, but the movement of plate glass continues practically unchanged.

U. S. Exports in August Increase $2,158,000

(Associated Press.)

An increase of $2,158,000, in the value of merchandise exported from the United States in August as compared with July, and an increase of $11,580,000 in imports was announced yesterday by the Commerce Department.

The month ended with a favorable trade balance of $18,000,000.

CURB DRIFTS LOWER IN LIGHTER TRADING

Speculative Interests Wane as Turnover Drops to 210,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Speculative interest waned in the curb market today, and prices drifted in extremely light trading, closing irregularly lower.

The list firmed for a time, possibly reflecting short covering, but slid back in the late trading. The turnover was only 210,000 shares, the lowest in more than a month and less than half yesterday's volume.

Oils, which have been sluggish of late, improved somewhat, possibly reflecting increasing agitation in the industry for further curtailment of production. Gulf, a recent soft spot, rallied nearly 4 points, and Humble jumped 3 points in a small turnover. Indiana was fairly acitve, but moved narrowly and closed unchanged.

Utilities moved forward for a time, but lost most of their gains later. Electric Bond & Share was up about 2 points at one time, but closed with a fractional loss. After moving up more than a point, American Gas & Electric reacted to close off 1½.

Commonwealth Edison sold at 77, up 1¾, and was inactive during the late sag.

Aluminum Co. was a buoyant feature, up 8 points at the top, but closing up 4¾. Among lower priced specialties, some activity cropped out in Irving Air Chute, which rose 1½. Glen Alden Coal gained a point in a small turnover. Sherwin Williams, Singer and Amsterdam Tool lost about a point each in small sales, and Deere lost ½. Newmont Mining rallied a point.

Buying of Raw Sugar Results in Price Boost

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Heavy buying of raw sugar futures today lifted prices from 5-100 to 7-100 cents a pound, the sharpest advance in several weeks.

A large part of the demand was said to have come from Cuban sources, and was believed to be in connection with reports that the Cuban government, banking and sugar interests had agreed to withhold from the market until July 1, 1933, the 700,000 tons of raw sugar segregated under the stabilization plan adopted several months ago.

WHEAT VALUES RISE AS EXPORTS DECLINE

Buying Adds Price Boost; Prices of Other Grains Mixed at Close.

Chicago, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Wheat prices tended upward today, despite a halt in export demand for wheat from Canada. Ocean freight rates from Canadian points were reported advancing, with reduced rates reported at the Gulf of Mexico bringing United States hard winter wheat a little nearer to an export basis. Word that the largest concentrated interest in wheat at Winnipeg had been transferred from the October delivery to May was construed as bullish, removing an influence menacing to the world's market.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ¼ higher; corn, varying from ⅜ decline to ⅛ advance; oats, ⅛-½ up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Buying Helps Upturn.

Helping to hoist wheat values at times to well above yesterday's finish was buying based on the fact that Chicago and Liverpool prices were at the widest difference in a long while. Although not a full shipping difference the readjustment was considered sufficient to provide a better ground work for investment purchases. Indications of improved domestic milling demand were noted.

Disquieting reports from Argentina were sharply watched as a possible incentive for a future substantial upturn in wheat quotations. Advices said locusts were abundant in northern Argentina and that frosts had occurred south of Buenos Aires. After a bulge of 1¼ cents from the day's low point, however, speculative selling increased, and the market here reacted somewhat with the Saskatchewan growers' pool, reported as hedging wheat at Winnipeg.

Corn and oats chiefly paralleled wheat action. Interests that should know said corn export sales of late had been relatively small.

Provisions reflected hog market strength.

COTTON SINKS AGAIN AFTER SHORT RALLY

Market Is Down 17 to 21 Points on Southern Selling; December, 7.12.

New York, Sept. 16 (A.P.).-Rallies from a slight opening decline were followed by renewed weakness in cotton today under Southern selling and liquidation.

December contracts after selling up from 7.25 to 7.41, or about 12 points net higher, broke to 7.11 in the late trading and closed at 7.12, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 17 to 21 points.

October sold up to 7.26 and March to 7.60, making net advances of about 8 to 12 points on the general list, but the demand then seemed to have been pretty well supplied and the market weakened during the afternoon. Hedging increased toward the close when there was also liquidation and some local or commission house selling. Prices broke about 28 to 32 points from the best of the day and the close was at or within a point of the lowest.

Influences on Market.

Unfavorable crop advices from the Southwest may have contributed to the earlier steadiness, but weather conditions throughout the belt were considered generally favorable, particularly for picking and the movement.

The report on the grades of cotton ginned for eight cotton-growing States during the week ended September 10 showed rather a larger percentage of tenderable grades than some had expected, but it was considered too early in the season for such figures to carry much weight.

Liverpool cables said that buyers there had been supplied by realizing and hedging, but reported a more cheerful tone in Manchester. Exports today, 33,064, making 811,866 so far this season. Port receipts, 97,610. United States port stocks, 3,420,377.

Italian Banks Will Cut Interest Rates on Oct. 1

Rome, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Interest rates of all banks will be reduced on October 1, it was announced today, as the first of a series of financial measures by which the government hopes to cheapen money and get it back into business and circulation.

The first reduction fixes a maximum of 2½ to 4 per cent on short time savings and inter-bank accounts, and 3 to 4 per cent on long-time deposits.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

THE presidential election of 1800 was no landslide—Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr ran exactly even, polling 73 electoral votes each. The tie was referred to the House of Representatives, where it was decided in favor of Jefferson.

Under the early American presidential election law the candidate receiving the most electoral votes became President, while second high became Vice President. Burr, although a candidate for the Presidency and opponent of Jefferson, was named to serve with him as Vice President.

AMERICANS SOCIAL COWARDS, FACULTY TOLD BY DR. MARVIN

Brands "Like-Mindedness" as Curse; Nation Has Drifted, He Says.

America's mentality was raked over the coals last night by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, in an address before the opening faculty meeting of the year.

Terming "like-mindedness" as the "curse of our social and economic life," Dr. Marvin declared that "while Americans talk much of courage and brag about individualism, we are foolishly weak and desire, perhaps more than any other nation in the world, to lose ourselves in conformity."

"We have drifted away from the heritage of our frontier forebears," Dr. Marvin asserted, "to become one of the most cowardly nations in the world socially."

Says Foundation Lacking.

Dr. Marvin also decried trends in education toward volume rather than quality and charged "American education has failed to produce outstanding leaders." He said such had happened "because so much time has been consumed in lifting masses of average students to a somewhat higher cultural level, it has been impossible to supply the foundations necessary to build character for leadership."

"Because we have been willing to lose our blood-bought heritage of spiritual freedom, we have come to a place where we find ourselves baffled, depressed and blindly beating against forces that have come into existence through our own stupidity," declared Dr. Marvin, adding, "The present world depression is largely caused by standardization and dependence."

Nervous Impatience.

"When men who are subordinated to routine living are thrown on their own resources," he said, "they know not how to act for they have neither strength, nor courage, nor faith. They can develop only a nervous impatience and be marked by an inability to face new situations calmly.

"As long as society is dominated by men who substitute word formula for thought and who do not have an understanding of the new relationship of their specialty to the social forces that are abroad we must drift."

Dr. Marvin warned, "We have come to that place in our civilization where there must be thinking. Our minds must play freely over all the conditions and tendencies until we can either justify our institutions or change them."

ARRANGING DEMOCRATIC VICTORY BALL

PARADE OF MASONS TO PRECEDE CAPITOL STONE RITES TODAY

Lodges From Nearby Area, Score of Bands to Take Part in March.

Washington Masons, together with members of the order assembled from nearby communities, all garbed in their colorful fraternal dress, will parade down Pennsylvania avenue this afternoon to the Capitol, where they will reenact the laying of the corner stone as George Washington performed the ceremony on September 18, 1793.

The ceremonies, arranged in cooperation with the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, are sponsored by the Grand Lodge of Masons. Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, U. S. A., retired, will be the grand marshal of the march.

The head of the column will form on the Ellipse at 2 p. m. Music will be furnished by a score of bands and the marchers will be divided into five groups, one of which will consist of more than 2,000 persons, and will be dressed entirely in colonial costume.

Films Will Be Made.

Tefft Johnson will play the part of George Washington. In order to complete movie shots reenacting the original ceremonies he will be received by a battery representing the Virginia Volunteer Artillery of Alexandria on the banks of the Potomac River.

Members of the lodges which took part in the ceremonies 139 years ago will escort him through Georgetown.

During the actual Masonic rituals at the Capitol Mr. Johnson will give way to A. Ernest Tate, who will wield the gavel and trowel used by the first President in laying the stone. These have been brought out of display cases and from Masonic archives to be used in the ceremonies.

Bicentennial Body Aids.

The motion picture of the entire ceremony reenacted with as much accuracy as possible will be made available to Masonic lodges throughout the country for exhibition purposes. The National Bicentennial Commission and the Grand Lodge are cooperating in the preparation of this production.

Col. George E. Ijams, assistant administrator of Veterans Affairs and Commander of Military Order of the World War of the District of Columbia will be marshal of the second or colonial division.

The Third Division will be headed by Brig. Gen. Perry L. Miles, U. S. A., Commanding the Sixteenth Brigade.

Lieut. Col. Louis A. Kunzig, U. S. A., Twelfth Infantry of Fort Washington, will marshal the fourth or Masonic division.

Others in March.

The fifth division, known as the patriotic division, and civic organizations is in charge of Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, U. S. A., retired, active in civic and patriotic affairs in Washington.

The Marine Band will lead the first division, and the Almas Temple Band, dressed in colonial costume, will lead the second division.

Other bands participating are: U. S. Navy Band, Third Cavalry Band, 121st Engineer Band, 260th Coast Artillery Drum and Bugle Corps, George Washington University Band, Thirteenth U. S. Engineers Band, Fort Humphrey, Va.; Washington Gas Light Band, Costello Drum Corps, Washington Boys Independent Band, Victory Post Drum Corps, American Legion; Elks Boys' Band, Almas Temple Drum Corps, Kallipolis Grotto Band, Tall Cedars Band, Marine Band from Quantico, Va.; Firemans Drum and Bugle Corps, Odd Fellows Band.

"Reds"—that's him in the picture—had things his own way at the Ninth Precinct Station yesterday after Private R. R. Klotz found him near Gallaudet College.

Jackie (Reds) Pitts Is Far From Concerned Over Becoming Lost.

Jackie (Reds) Pitts, 2 years old, is going to be a "cop" when he grows up. This was definitely decided yesterday after he spent the entire afternoon learning the ropes at the Ninth Police Precinct Station.

Jackie was discovered by Policeman R. R. Klotz wandering in the rear of greenhouses at Gallaudet College. Unable to explain his presence, but vowing he was having "a swell time," Jackie was classed as "suspicious character," and Klotz marched him off to the station.

All work ceased when the youngster arrived. He took immediate charge of the situation and was installed at once as "Commanding Officer." Then trouble developed. Jackie didn't know who he was or where he lived. All police were able to learn was a very positive declaration from Jackie.

"I'm Reds!" the youngster exclaimed—and he stuck to it.

A short time later "Reds" left the station. But before leaving he issued a few final orders and said he would return soon to see that they were carried out.

1931 CIVIL SERVICE APPOINTMENT LIST DROPS 50 PER CENT

Decrease Attributed in Part to President Hoover's Economy Program.

A sharp drop in appointments to competitive classified positions in the Federal civil service in the last fiscal year strongly reflects economy policies of the administration, the Civil Service Commission announced yesterday.

The commission announced appointments during the fiscal year fell off nearly 50 per cent. There were 21,449 named to new jobs, as compared with 38,461 in the preceding year.

"First, the lessening of the number of voluntary separations, due to the scarcity of jobs in private employment, and, second, to the President's policy of making only necessary appointments, and those through transfer rather than through certification from registers of eligibles when practicable."

Of the 21,449 appointments made during the year, said the commission, 6,460 were appointments of those entitled to veterans preference. This number is 30.11 per cent, " was declared, of the entire number of appointments made as compared with 26.16 per ent in the preceding fiscal year.

In the last fiscal year .561 of the appointments were veterans entitled to special preference, principally because of the service connected disability, the commission continued. This number is 7.2 per cent of the entire number of appointments made as against 5.6 per cent in the fiscal year before.

3 New Parole Board Members Sworn In

Isaac Gans, appointed for a seven-year term; Dr. Loren Johnson, appointed for a five-year term, and Dr. Emmett Scott, appointed for a three-year term, comprise the board, the first parole board in the history of the District. The oath of office was administered in the presence of the District Commissioners by Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the Board of Commissioners.

Egloff Leaves Estate Of $55,000 to Widow

Mrs. Elizabeth Egloff, of 118 Tennessee avenue northeast, was named sole beneficiary of the estate of her husband, Julius Egloff, who died September 8, it was shown yesterday in District Supreme Court when Attorney Godfrey Munter filed a petition for probate of the will.

The estate consists of approximately $55,000. The will directs that the three minor children who survive their father are to be given college educations by their mother if they wish to have them.

DECISION ON REPORT OF DAVIS DUE TODAY

Glassford to Finish Study of Inspectors' Bonus Statements.

Whether Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford is satisfied with Inspector O. T. Davis' "aparent lack of loyalty" in telling the War Department that he had orders to keep his men out of the bonus army encampments, will be known today.

Gen. Glassford has made a study of Inspector Davis' report, together with the reports of Inspectors L. I. H. Edwards and T. R. Bean, who were asked to tell him of their statements to the District Commissioners that the bonus situation was out of control.

His decisions on these reports are to be made today following a conference with the District Commissioners. Gen. Glassford said the inspectors' reports will not be considered at the conference.

3 "Rented Cab" Drivers Fined Under New Rule

Three drivers of "rented cabs" were fined in Police Court yesterday following initiation of a campaign by police to force compliance with the 30-day-old regulation of the Public Utilities Commission banning such practices. Each was originally fined $5, but Judge Isaac R. Hitt later relented and reduced the fines to $2 each.

Those fined were Milton H. Feagans, James V. Pierce and Howard E. Powell. They were arrested by Sergeant Thomas Mason, District Hack Inspector.

Perry Belmont's Art Will Be Sold

Collection in Home Here to Be Auctioned in New York Soon.

The art collection that graced the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, at 1618 New Hampshire avenue northwest, will be among the collections to be dispersed this autumn at the American Art Association, Anderson Galleries, in New York City.

The paintings from the grand ballroom, and the gallery, the marble statues and sculptured busts from the great stairway, and the fine porcelains and silver all will be disposed of. Oriental rugs and hangings and furniture collections gathered by Mrs. Belmont will also go under the auctioneer's hammer.

Among the paintings which will be sold from both the Washington and Newport homes are some collected by August Belmont while Minister to Holland. They include a Cuyp, a Hobbema, two portraits by Nicolaas Maes, and a Ludwig Knaus.

Georgetown Boys Club Circus Guests

Colored Orphans to Be Entertained With Post as Their Host Today.

The Georgetown Boys' Club adjourned its meeting with unanimous glee last night when told the members were to be the guests of The Washington Post at Hunt's Three-Ring Circus. In a body they turned out and enjoyed every act to the full.

In the afternoon Post carrier boys were present with the Hunt show acting as hosts. This afternoon the show takes location at Georgia avenue and Euclid streets northwest, where matinee and evening performances will be given for the benefit of the colored Masonic charity fund.

At the matinee performance today more than a hundred colored orphans will see the circus at Georgia avenue and Euclid streets northwest as guests of The Post. Monday the show will locate at Nichols avenue and Portland street southeast in Congress Heights.

Worker Seriously Hurt In Fall From Scaffold

Plunging to the ground from a scaffold on the Minor School at 2574 Georgia avenue yesterday afternoon, John H. Thomas, 59, construction employe, suffered severe injuries. Taken to Emergency Hospital, he was in undetermined condition last night.

Witnesses declared Thomas apparently lost his balance and fell from the scaffold. At the hospital it was found he suffered several fractured ribs and possible internal injuries. He lives at 1116 H street northeast.

$50 Liberty Bond Stolen.

A $50 liberty bond was stolen from the apartment of Lillian Hills, 1954 second street northwest, she reported to police yesterday.

Plans Made For Fete of Democrats

With Miss Mary Anne Harrison, daughter of Senator Pat Harrison, as chairman, a group of young ladies are serving on a committee that will assist at the ceremonies attendant to the unveiling of a portrait of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the ball immediately following at the Willard Hotel at 8 p. m. next Thursday.

The women's committee includes the Misses Rahel Davies, Northa Porter, Marion Schlesinger, Lidamae Hurd, Lyda Mae Francis, Malvina Sykes, Annabel Essary, Eleanor Branson, Martha De Weese, Mildred Battle and Rose Page.

The Young Democrats Club has furnished several of its members to serve on a men's committee, with Francis B. Taylor, jr., acting as chairman. The committee consists of Bradford Ross, son of Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross; Winfield S. Macgill and Homer Tatum.

Heart Attack Fatal To H. C. Stillwell

Horace C. Stillwell, one time candidate for Congress from Indiana and long active in politics, fell dead last night in a drug store at Tenth and F streets northwest. He was in Washington on a business trip from his home in New York.

Mr. Stillwell registered at the Hamilton Hotel early Thursday. Officials there said he checked out yesterday afternoon. Apparently stricken with a heart attack, he collapsed in a drug store and was pronounced dead by a physician from Casualty Hospital.

Well known on Capitol Hill, it was learned Mr. Stillwell often came here on short business trips. He had lived in New York City since the World War. Mr. Stillwell was 67 years old. He took an active part in the Bull Moose movement in 1912, and was Republican candidate for Congress in his native State of Indiana.

Dr. Camalier Appointed National Dental Trustee

Dr. C. Willard Camalier, past president of the District of Columbia Dental Society, has been named to the board of trustees of the American Dental Associaton, according to word received here yesterday from Buffalo, where the national convention has just closed.

Dr. Camalier will represent the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, Puerto Rico and the dental services of the Army, Navy, Public Health Service and the Veterans' Administration on the board. He is the first Washingtonian to be appointed a member of the board. Earlier in the week Dr. Camalier was named president of the National Association of Dental Examiners.

Welfare Delegates See Chest Publicity Film

Delegates to the Welfare and Relief Mobilization conference were guests of Hardie Meakin, Manager of Keith's Theater, and Percy Dodge, director of the Detroit Community Fund, at a special showing of a new Community Chest picture, produced in Detroit, at the theater yesterday morning. The film was brought from Detroit by Mr. Dodge.

Showing in detail the work of various organizations affiliated with the social welfare program of every city, the film, a new departure in Community Chest publicity, paints a vivid picture of the work done by Chest dollars. It will probably be brought to Washington for use during the coming campaign.

TRAVELERS' CHECKS THEFT SUSPECT HELD

Man Is Arrested Here After Chase Through Several Eastern Cities.

A chase that led two private detectives from New York through more than a half dozen Eastern cities, resulted yesterday in the arrest here of a suspect in connection with the larceny and forgery of $1,790 in travelers' checks.

The checks, which were stolen from a telegraph station at 1104 Connecticut avenue on June 8, were being cashed in many cities around Washington and even as far West as Cleveland, Ohio. Charles Collins and Thomas C. Smith were assigned to arrest the fugitive who had stolen the checks and was forging them.

In each city, they said, they were just one step behind the forger, and when the trial finally led back to this city, they arrived about 15 minutes after he had left a business establishment located near the scene of the theft. Enlisting the aid of Detective Sergt. Frank O. Brass, the two New York detectives arrested a man at Fourteenth and Pennsylvania avenue northwest yesterday afternoon.

Questioned at police headquarters, he gave the name of Warren Adams Kusterer, 37, living at a downtown hotel. According to police, he admitted the theft of the travelers' checks. A charge of housebreaking was placed against him.

30 Apartment Awnings Burned in Dupont Circle

Sweeping across the east side of the Dupont Circle Apartments, 1345 Nineteenth street northwest, fire early yesterday destroyed 30 awnings before firemen brought it under control.

A cigarette, thrown by some one on an upper floor, was blamed for the blaze. The flames presented a problem for firemen, but were soon brought under control.

Daughter of Admiral Loses Gems in Taxicab

Miss Mary Louise Raby, daughter of Admiral J. J. Raby, U. S. N., stationed at the Navy Yard, yesterday reported to police the loss of a pocketbook containing a quantity of jewelry valued at $185.

Miss Raby said she left her purse in a taxicab, which she hired yesterday afternoon at Fourteenth and F streets northwest. She was driven to the home of a relative, Mrs. L. J. O'Hara, 4448 Q street northwest. She declared she missed the purse after the cab left. It also contained $4 in cash, she reported.

Policemen Make 1932's Largest Bluefish Haul

What old-timers termed the biggest catch of bluefish this season from Herring Bay, near Shadyside, Md., was made early yesterday by four District policemen.

Their labors were awarded after more than 16 hours of continous fishing. The haul netted 400 bluefish. The party included Sergeant R. A. Johnson, of the Seventh Precinct, and Privates H. A. Sauer, M. F. Collins, and E. T. Wessels, all of the Sixth Precinct.

Child, Hurt in Crash, Awarded $800.

By a consent verdict in District Supreme Court yesterday, Margaret Read, 7, of 30 Seventh street northeast, was given an $800 award by Justice Jesse C. Adkins. The child had brought suit against Mr. and Mrs. Saxper Harlan, of 4831 Kansas avenue northwest, because she was seriously injured when an automobile owned by Mrs. Harlan struck her near Sixth and B streets northeast, last April.

Newspaper Dinner Honors Glassford for Bonus Work

There was one warning given to Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford when he became Superintendent of Police that he learned was unnecessary.

When he took the office, he was told that the ubiquitous newspaper reporters would give him all his trouble. "They caused all the trouble for the other chiefs of police," he was advised.

So Gen. Glassford was chary of them for a long while, he told a group of newspapermen who honored him at a luncheon yesterday in the National Press Club.

Then his experience taught him that they weren't the type of individuals who were to be continually feared.

"I found by getting their viewpoints on things," he said, "that they were a fine staff of advisers."

The luncheon was attended by 55 working newspaper men who wished to express their appreciation of his courtesy to them during the bonus army's occupation of the Capital.

BALLOU SEES RECORD TOTAL OF STUDENTS

Heaviest School Enrollment in Years Predicted on Return to City.

The heaviest enrollment in years in Washington schools is predicted by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, who returned to his desk yesterday after spending the summer teaching at Yale University and sojourning at his camp at Belgrade Lake, Me.

The largest number of nonresident students is being registered by the high school board of admissions. More than 800 were registered yesterday at the Thomson School, Twelfth and L streets northwest. Applications of nonresident students will be received until 4 p. m. Monday. Students must bring credentials from former schools.

The number registered yesterday of nonresidents is more than 200 in excess of the number who made applications last year. Dr. A. L. Howard is chairman of the admissions board.

While at Yale University Dr. Ballou was a member of a special faculty which conducted a course on education for a select group of school superintendents.

Van Duzer Cites Jaywalking Peril

Traffic Director Is Speaker at Dinner Held to Plan Schoolboy Patrols.

Jaywalkers are as much of a bane to traffic officials as reckless motorists, said William A. Van Duzer, director of traffic here, last night in a talk at a dinner given by the American Automobile Association for local school, police and traffic officials in connection with schoolboy patrol work.

Other speakers were Commissioner Herbert Crosby, Supervising Principal of Schools Seldon Ely, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police; Ernest N. Smith, executive vice president of the A. A. A., and a number of other persons prominent in the city.

All of the individual policemen assigned to schoolboy patrol work were present at the dinner The schoolboy patrol movement was lauded by all of the speakers and many of its favorable results cited. Tribute was also paid to the policemen who direct the boys.

Policewoman and Two Others Hurt in Crash

A policewoman, attached to the Women's Bureau of the Metropolitan Police Department, and two companions suffered slight injuries early yesterday, when the automobile in which they were riding ran from the road near Silver Spring, Md.

Miss Helen Stanberger, 35, of the Women's Bureau, suffered injuries to her leg. The car was driven by Miss Helen R. Ewan, 33, a nurse, police learned. She was the most seriously injured, receiving lacerations to her chin and a possible fractured right leg. Verna M. Flagg, 33, suffered abrasions to the leg. All three live at 1628 Columbia road northwest. They were treated at Emergency Hospital.

PLANNING PARLEY OPENS TOMORROW

Seven-Day Conference Will Be Held at Willard; 750 Delegates Expected.

More than 750 delegates from thirteen civic associations throughout the United States will convene tomorrow at the Willard Hotel for the seven-day Bicentennial Conference on Planning, Parks and Government, in celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Washington.

The participating organizations are: the American City Planning Institute; the American Civic Association; the National Association of Civic Secretaries; the National Council for the Protection of Roadside Beauty; the National Municipal League and Proportional Representation League; and eight other national organizations whose fundamental aims and objects converge in the general civic fields of planning and government.

Each organization will provide a complete program vital to its particular field for its own delegation. In addition, all the delegates will join together for several tours of city parks and regional park systems, which will take them over the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway and the proposed George Washington Memorial Parkway to Great Falls.

Joint luncheon and dinner meetings will be followed by round table discussions during the week at the Willard. Programs of address by distinguished experts in the field of plannings, parks and government will be heard at these meetings.

Glassford Will Be Guest Of Women's Press Club

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, will be the honor guest of the Women's National Press Club at its first luncheon of the fall season at the Willard Hotel Tuesday.

In the absence of the president of the club, Miss Martha Strayer, who is in Europe, Mrs. Katherine Lewis, first vice president, will preside.

F. J. Haskin Cited In Receiver Action

Potomac Park Apartment Note Holders Take Step in Court.

The District Supreme Court yesterday cited Frederick J. Haskin and his wife, Olive G. Haskin, together with John R. Waller and Frank Hughes, as trustees, to appear in court next Thursday and show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take over the Potomac Park Apartments, Twenty-first and C streets northwest, and operate the building pending a suit to foreclose on a second deed of trust amounting to approximately $253,965.32.

The court was asked to take this action by the National Mortgage & Investment Co., the International Bank, the Mount Vernon Savings Bank, Weaver Brothers, and Isadore Freund, of 1868 Columbia road northwest, who declared they were the holders of notes secured by the trust, on which interest payments are overdue, and which expired in full on August 17.

The court was told that Haskin, as owner of the building, had permitted the Haskin Information Bureau, of which he was declared to be the principal owner, to become $11,000 in arrears in rent. The building has a monthly income of $6,000, according to the suit. The building is also encumbered by a first trust of $346,875.
